The One to Watch

The One To Watch

In the past few years, Sanger High School has really lived up to its motto "Always With Pride". Whether it be excellence in sports, academics or personal accomplishments, SHS is the one to watch.

The five year campus beautification project has already taken the first few steps to giving Sanger High a 'newer' look and has raised the spirit of many students. A new pride is also apparent in the way that students are finally becoming aware of what a trashcan is used for. Litter has been a problem in the past, but it's becoming practically nil now. ASB President Jim Chapa commented, "I think that the student body is really getting a lot out of the campus improvements, but I hope that they continue to utilize the trashcans properly!"

Along with the beautification improvements came many new improvements in the attitudes of the students. Attending SHS is no longer a fact that we have chosen to hide in the depths of secrecy, but is now a fact that we are proud to exhibit.

The growing friendships and active social groups have placed SHS in the spotlight, focusing in on their special unity. The pride not only in the physical aspect of school, but in the personal aspect, has made Sanger a clear example of school togetherness and spirit. "The Originals are what make Sanger High School the one to watch" commented Senior Eric Swanson.

SHS offers a wide variety of co-curricular activities that any student can participate in. The student involvement that is exhibited by the complete student body are actions that place SHS above the rest of the valley schools. The apparent excellence shows that Sangers various programs are on the move in the upward direction and that SHS is THE ONE TO WATCH.

SHERRI NAKAI happily proves that SHS foreign exchange students are the ones to watch. After finishing lunch, MARIA SALAZAR, STEVE DE LA CRUZ, TRACI FRITZLER, MATT MCCANDLESS and MIKE BUCKLER decide that they deserve a break today.

Ok+ Don't forget the

Eye On The Outrageous

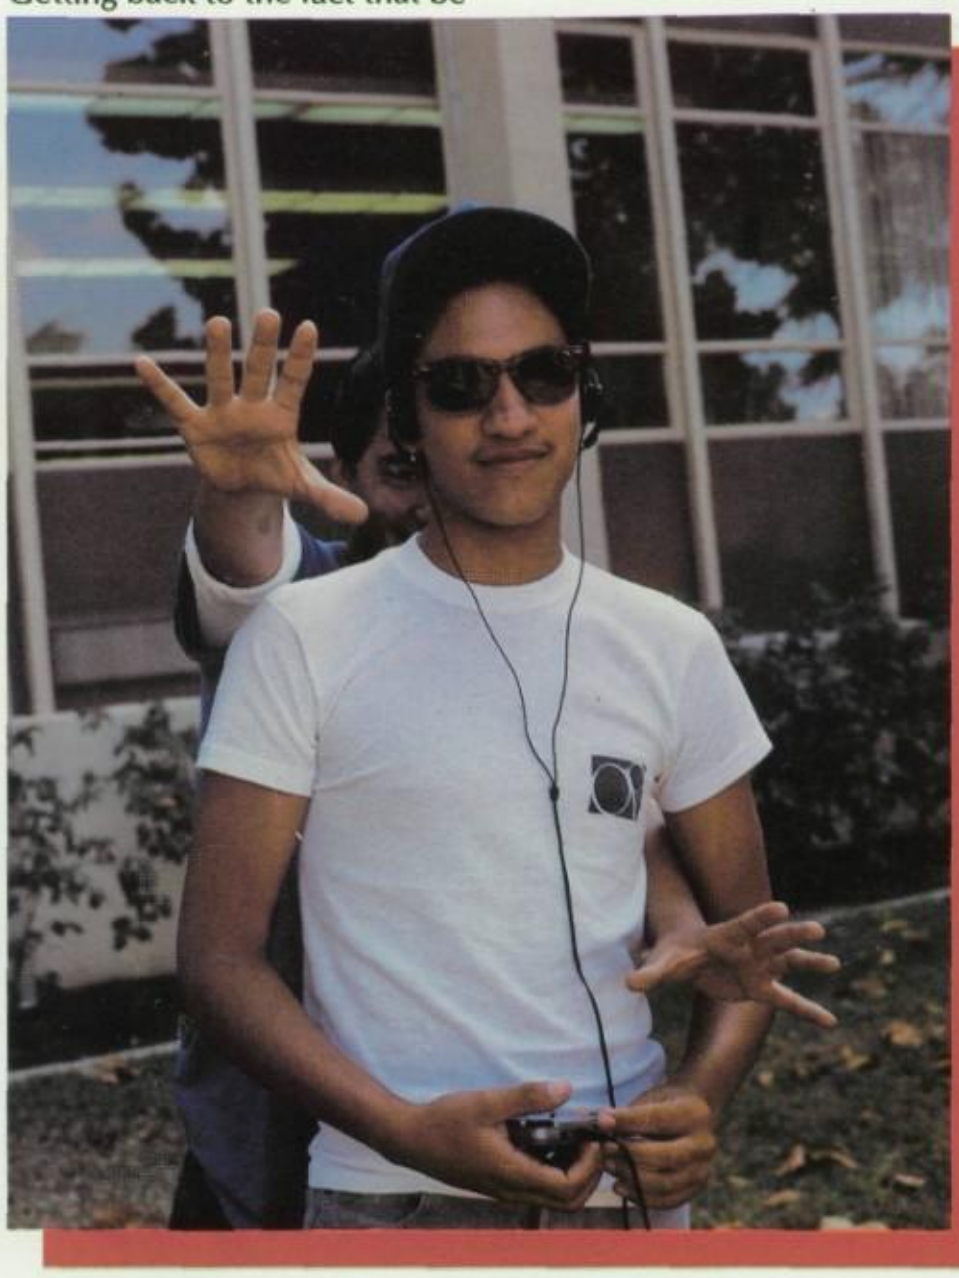
Outrageousness (out ra' jes ness) n. 1. Passing reasonable bounds. 2. Having extremely cool qualities.

Many believe that being outrageous is just a state of mind. Others have their own idea about what outrageousness involves. But the students at SHS, no matter who they may be, are proud to be and always will have their EYE ON THE OUTRAGEOUS.

"Outrageousness at SHS is watching 1600 different people roaming the halls trying to be cool," explaines Senior Kristine Tamura. The students at SHS do try to be as cool as they possibly can. Going down the main hall can become a regular soap-opera if one listens carefully enough. "Did you see that outrageous guy," or "Macy's is having an outrageous sale Saturday" are only a few comments that can be heard.

Getting back to the fact that being outrageous is a state of mind, many students involve themselves in activities ranging from competitive athletics to all kinds of clubs and prove that SHS is the epitome of outrageousness.

SHS always has kept its eye on the outrageous. It is a school that produces able and willing students and allows the students to become outrageous in everything that they do.



THE DUDES . . . THE ORIGINALS . . . or whatever you choose to call them, are definately on the outrageous side. CEASAR GALVAN and his 'other half' catch up on the latest jams.

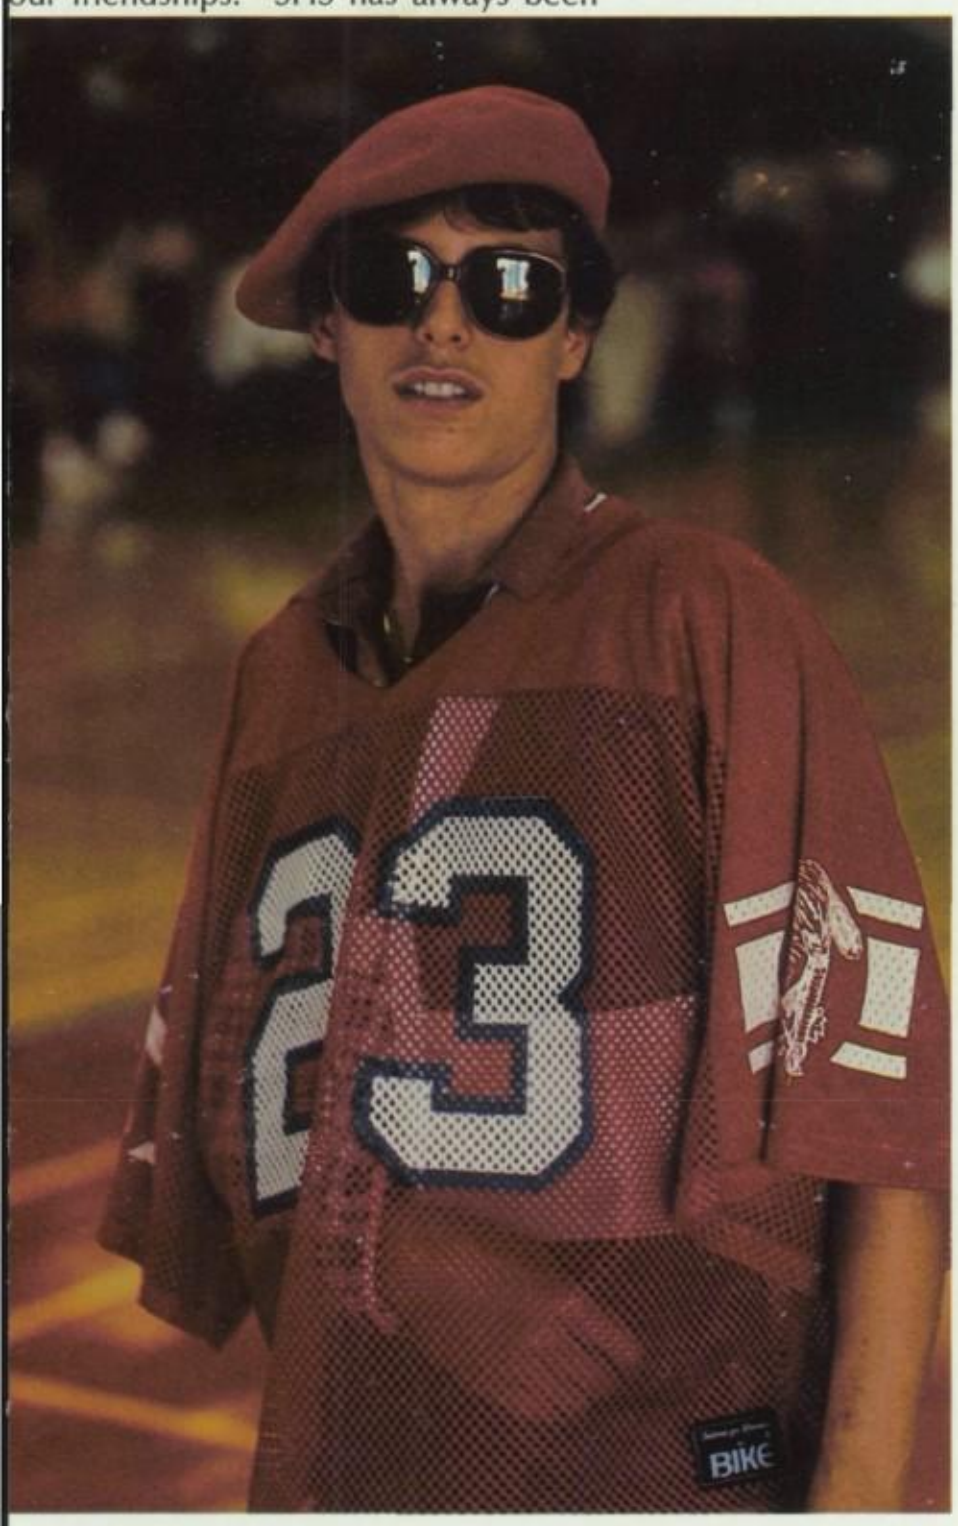
The Ultimate Pride

When one thinks of the ultimate pride, many things come to mind. For some, the ultimate pride may be a 1987 Alpha Romeo and for others, the ultimate pride may be Dad's Macy's charge card. But most of the students at Sanger High will agree that the ultimate pride is extremely reflective of SHS and what going to school here has taught them.

After four long years of work and play at Sanger High, Senior Gloria Galvan commented, "I think that we have the ultimate pride in our closeness and in our friendships." SHS has always been known for its spirit and unity. The students at Sanger High have been taught that to get the best results, they need to work together and become an intregal part of the many activities going on around them.

Though the 8:16 to 3:03 day may get to be a bit tedious at times, there are many hours open to students to take part in everything ranging from Football to learning the fine art of French Cuisine. Though these activities may be unimportant to some, it is important to see the pride that does go into making a touchdown ar creating escargot de flambe'.

Because of the large amount of students at SHS, the ultimate pride is defined in many different ways. "The ultimate pride is finishing your homework in one night," explains Freshman Adrian Villarreal. At SHS, from even the smallest accomplishments comes a large amount of pride. It has always been the intent of SHS's educators and students to be unified and it is because of this that SHS possess THE ULTIMATE PRIDE.



"The Ultimate Pride is finishing all of your homework in one night!" Adrian Villarreal

JULIE RATZMAN, MANDY GARCIA, MARCIE ANDERSON and MICHELLE MILLER keeping up with the fact that even the most outrageous people can have pride too. Even with a broken arm, WES NICHOLS is obviously full of the ultimate pride.

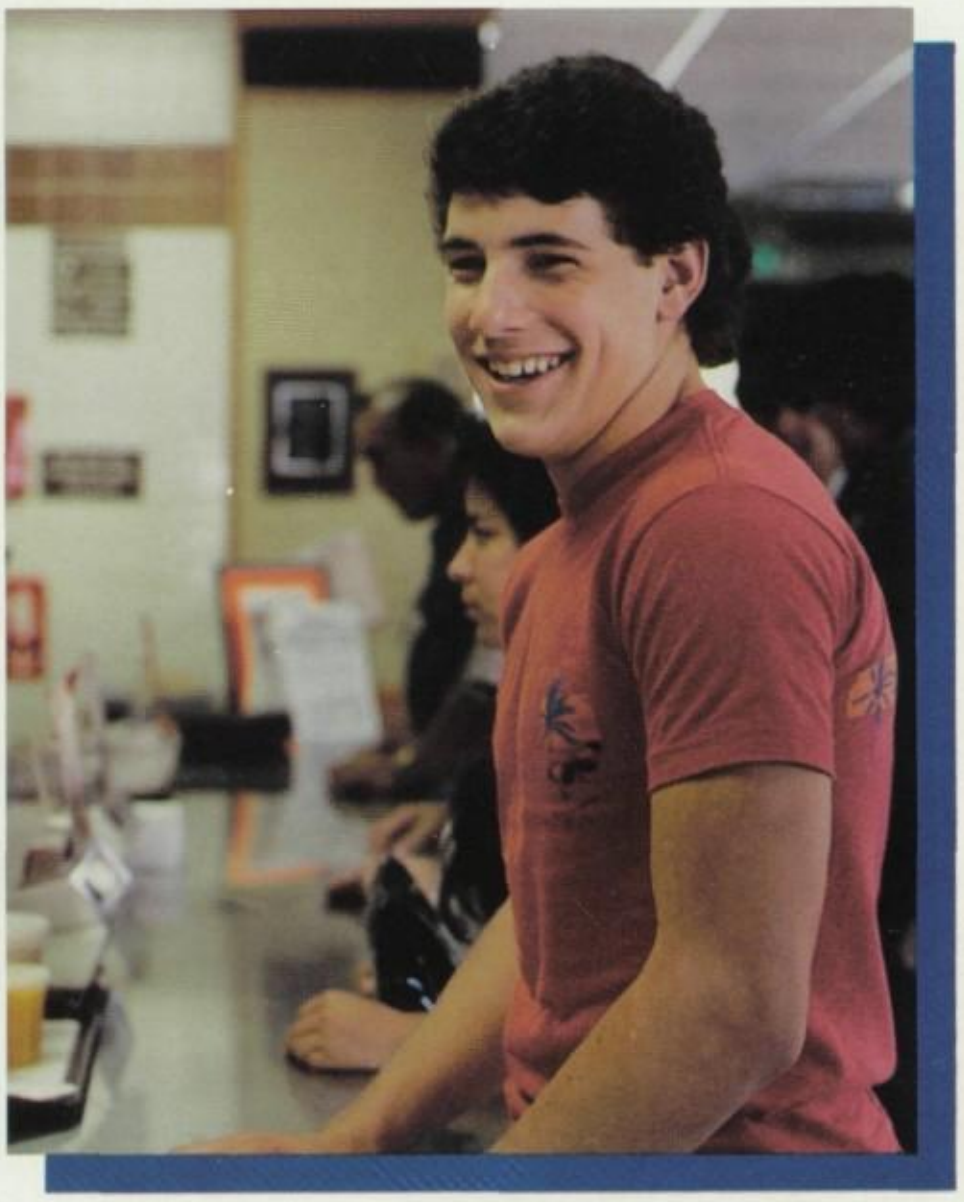
K/I/T Bye - Wendy Nelson



HILLARY YARBROUGH wonders if he's more than meets the eye as she checks out a junior guy. GEORGE CARELLA also wonders if the Big Mac he ordered is really more than meets the eye.

More Than Meets The Eye

It's a well known fact that every Sanger High students is more than meets the eye. Beside his Monday through Friday week of going to school, there is a weekend. Some SHS students live for these weekends as they give them a chance to take a respite from the day to day task of going to school. Except for homework, these two days are free from worry and waking up at the crack of dawn.

The important thing that one must bear in mind is that each individual has a life that is a mystery to their fellow students, except for maybe a few close friends. High school is more than just an academic learning experience. During high school, one is moving through the most impressionable years in a persons life.

Whether it's important or not for an individuals life to be recognized is up to his peers to decide. But each individuals life is the most important thing to him. High school is a stepping stone in each students life which will ultimately prepare him for adulthood and the world that surrounds him."

As Junior Heidi Allen put it, "The wide variety of students on the SHS campus clearly points out that we have MORE THAN MEETS THE EYE."

Seniors Celebrate

Do you remember when it was 1983 and we were registered for drivers education? Then our Sophomore year rolled around and we were getting our licenses and most of us were getting our 'new' second-hand cars. And finally our infamous letterman jackets. On the sleeves of the jackets were found the patches that read '87 and at that time it seemed like eternity would come before graduation. Well Class of 1987, eternity has finally arrived and its time to welcome it with open arms!

Do you remember walking into the door and seeing that discerning look on your mothers face and hearing the famous words, "Wait until your father gets home!"? The days of tardy slips, truancy notes and parent/teacher conferences are over. Soon the class of 1987 will be found at Fresno State, Cal Poly and Stanford possibly sharing apartments and painting the town any color that they choose.

Since our Freshman year, we have been meeting new people and building friendships that will last. Our relationships may have had their individual ups and downs, but through thick and thin, the bonds of unity have been tied.

Finishing With Flair

The Senior Class had always been known for their unity throughout their four fun and sometimes nerveracking years at SHS. But in their last year, they went beyond unity and became the supreme leaders. From the beginning of their Freshman year to the end of their Senior year, the class of 1987 was out to prove that their class was one that had to be remembered.

Taking control from the start, the Seniors led a dynamic first rally showing the enthusiasm and pride of their class. They seemed to bring excitement to every function that they attended. With the homecoming theme of "Juke Box" the Seniors had an award winning float with their "American Bandstand" favorite. They also had many members of their class excell in both academics and athletics. "The Seniors are a bunch of rowdy Barbarians. They're great kids!" commented Senior Class advisor Ken Marcantonio.

Together, with a strengthened attitude and support from their teachers and fellow classmates, the Class of 1987 managed to create an outstanding atmosphere and finish with flair.

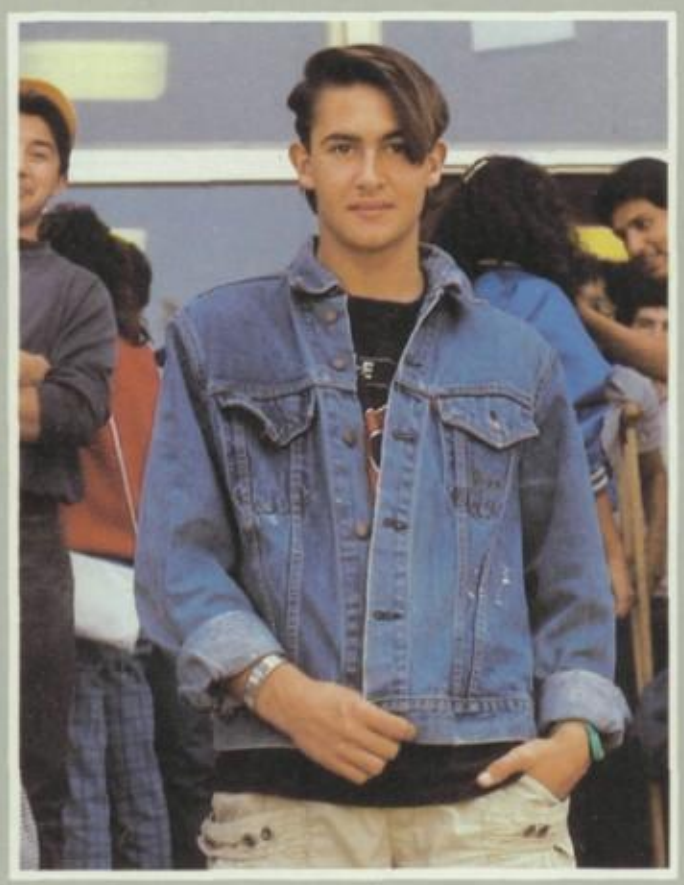
Eternal Hysteria

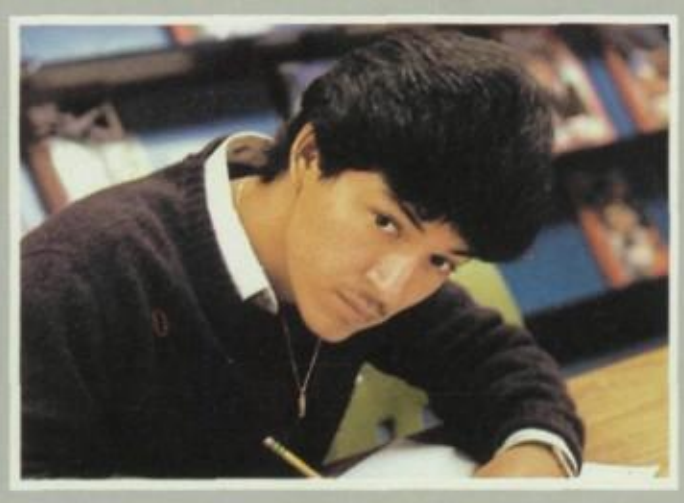
I am eternal hysteria. I spread steathily with minute slowness. I am an abyss, sucking one irrevicably into my black, suffocating depths and snickering malevolently as he frenziedly grasps for freedom. I am inevitable. I am . . . SENIORITUS.

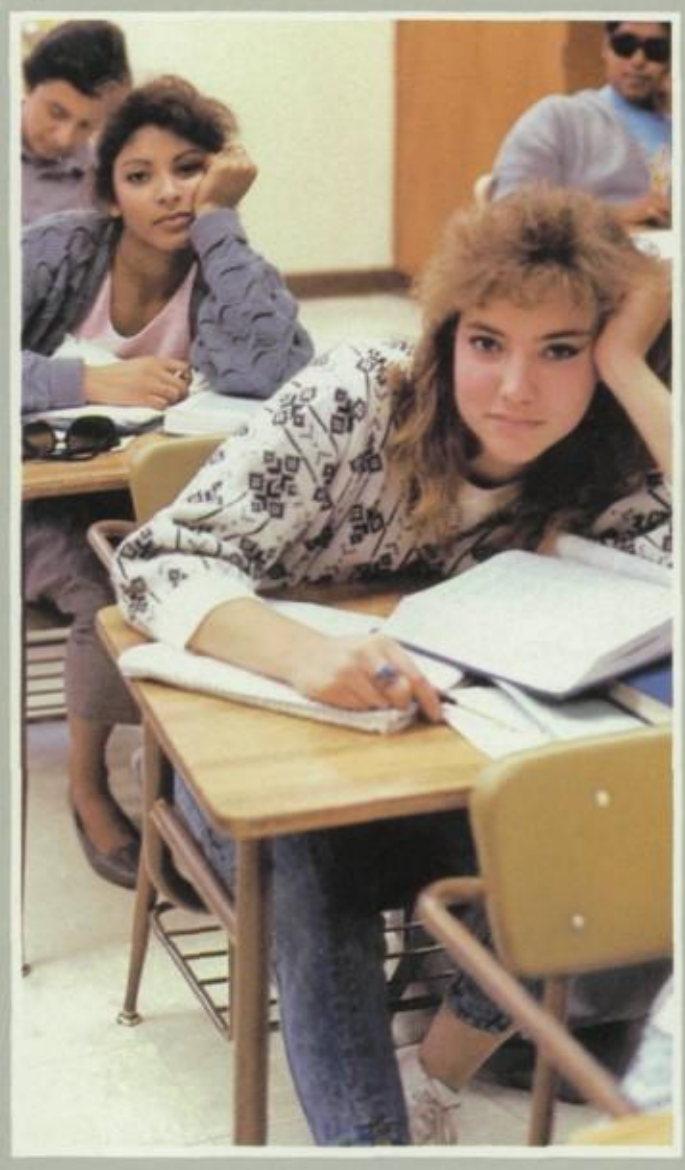
Nobody realized the dire irreversability of senioritus in its early stages of attack. Homework somehow seemed to lag further and further behind as one approached increasing lethargy and immunity towards its demands.

Beckoning enticingly, a little voice would whisper, "Don't do your homework now, you can do it in the morning," which, of course, never occured. Social life then surfaced as the intrinsic factor in displaying commendable senior character. At this time, one began to feel the impact of plunging grades, overdue college applications and lectures from stern, unrelenting parents. But again one learned to live with these minor "obstacles".

Cures of this dreadful disease eluded the most dedicated seniors. Although suggestions of shock treatment, intense hypnosis, and extensive semester breaks were mentioned, only one cure surfaced that might allow the annihilation of this disease . . . GRADUATION.







JIM O'BRIEN proves that he is obviously above the wear and tear of 'that' dreaded disease. NICO GONZALEZ trying to refresh his memory for a thing that he hasn't touched basis with for a long time . . . homework. JACKIE GONZALEZ and VALERIE BERRY showing a definate interest in thier favorite class . . . Government.

The Fun Starts Here

It was, of course, in the typical Seniors' "right mind" to dillegently study . . . when possible. But it was also the typical Seniors' responsibility to spread complete chaos and disorder throughout the campus for the sake of fun.

The fun began and ended with a Senior behind the preparations. Things seemed to run more smoothly when the Seniors were in control.

Throughout the 1986-87 school year, the Seniors repeatedly generated the largest amount of energy. They were always the ultimate attraction and proceeded to wipe out any competition that dared to step into their main-stream. They continued to win any title that they so desired and inspired the underclassmen to be good sports.

Though the Seniors were morally abused in many ways (i.e. the revoking of the five minute tradition etc . . .) they continued to keep a bright attitude and proceeded to disrupt the 8:16 to 3:03 day in any way possible (with the highest respect for fellow students and the campus, of course.).

But on a more serious note, the Seniors did provide before, during and after school entertainment for everyone. They kept their spirit and pride on a roll and proved that any type of fun had to start and end with them.

The Senior Scene

The Class of 1987 took their turn at the top of Sanger High's social ladder this year as the B.C.0. (Big Class On Campus).

With Seniority came many responsibilities. With responsibilities ranging from gaining a position in a higher education institution to learning how to be an adult, Seniors had to carefully schedule their time so that they would have time for the most important responsibility of all . . . having a good time.

This last responsibility includes everything you had always heard about as an underclassman. By the time that a student becomes a Senior, he has learned all the tricks of high school life. Whether it's how to get on the good side of your math teacher or how to get that cute little underclassmen to notice you, the SHS Senior is a seasoned professional when it comes to being in control of a situation.

Seniorism: The art of being a Senior. This is a tradition which has been passed from class to class since the end of the Dark Ages when someone first said, "Hey dude, let's party!" Ever since this great event, it has been the responsibility of each new Senior class to take the underclassmen into their tutelage and prepare them for the experience of Seniorism.

Watch Out!!

Watch out world, here comes the SHS Class of 1987! All year long we have been focusing on good behavior, but always have kept in mind a good time.

The Senior class has gone out of its way to make sure that there is never a dull moment to be experienced on campus. If one should arise, they are quick to put it out of its misery.

It's a preconceived idea and a long standing tradition that the Senior class is always cool. They have lived up to and beyond this well known tradition. An underclassman can often be found admiring the spirit and motivation of the Seniors. The spontaneity and non-stop action clearly points out the fact that the Class of '87 is the one to be tuned in to.

It's hard to imagine SHS without the source of energy that is provided by the Senior class. Whether it be 'The Dudes' at the rallies or the super-kinetic parking lot action that we provide, the graduating class is always on the move implementing fresh and creative ideas.

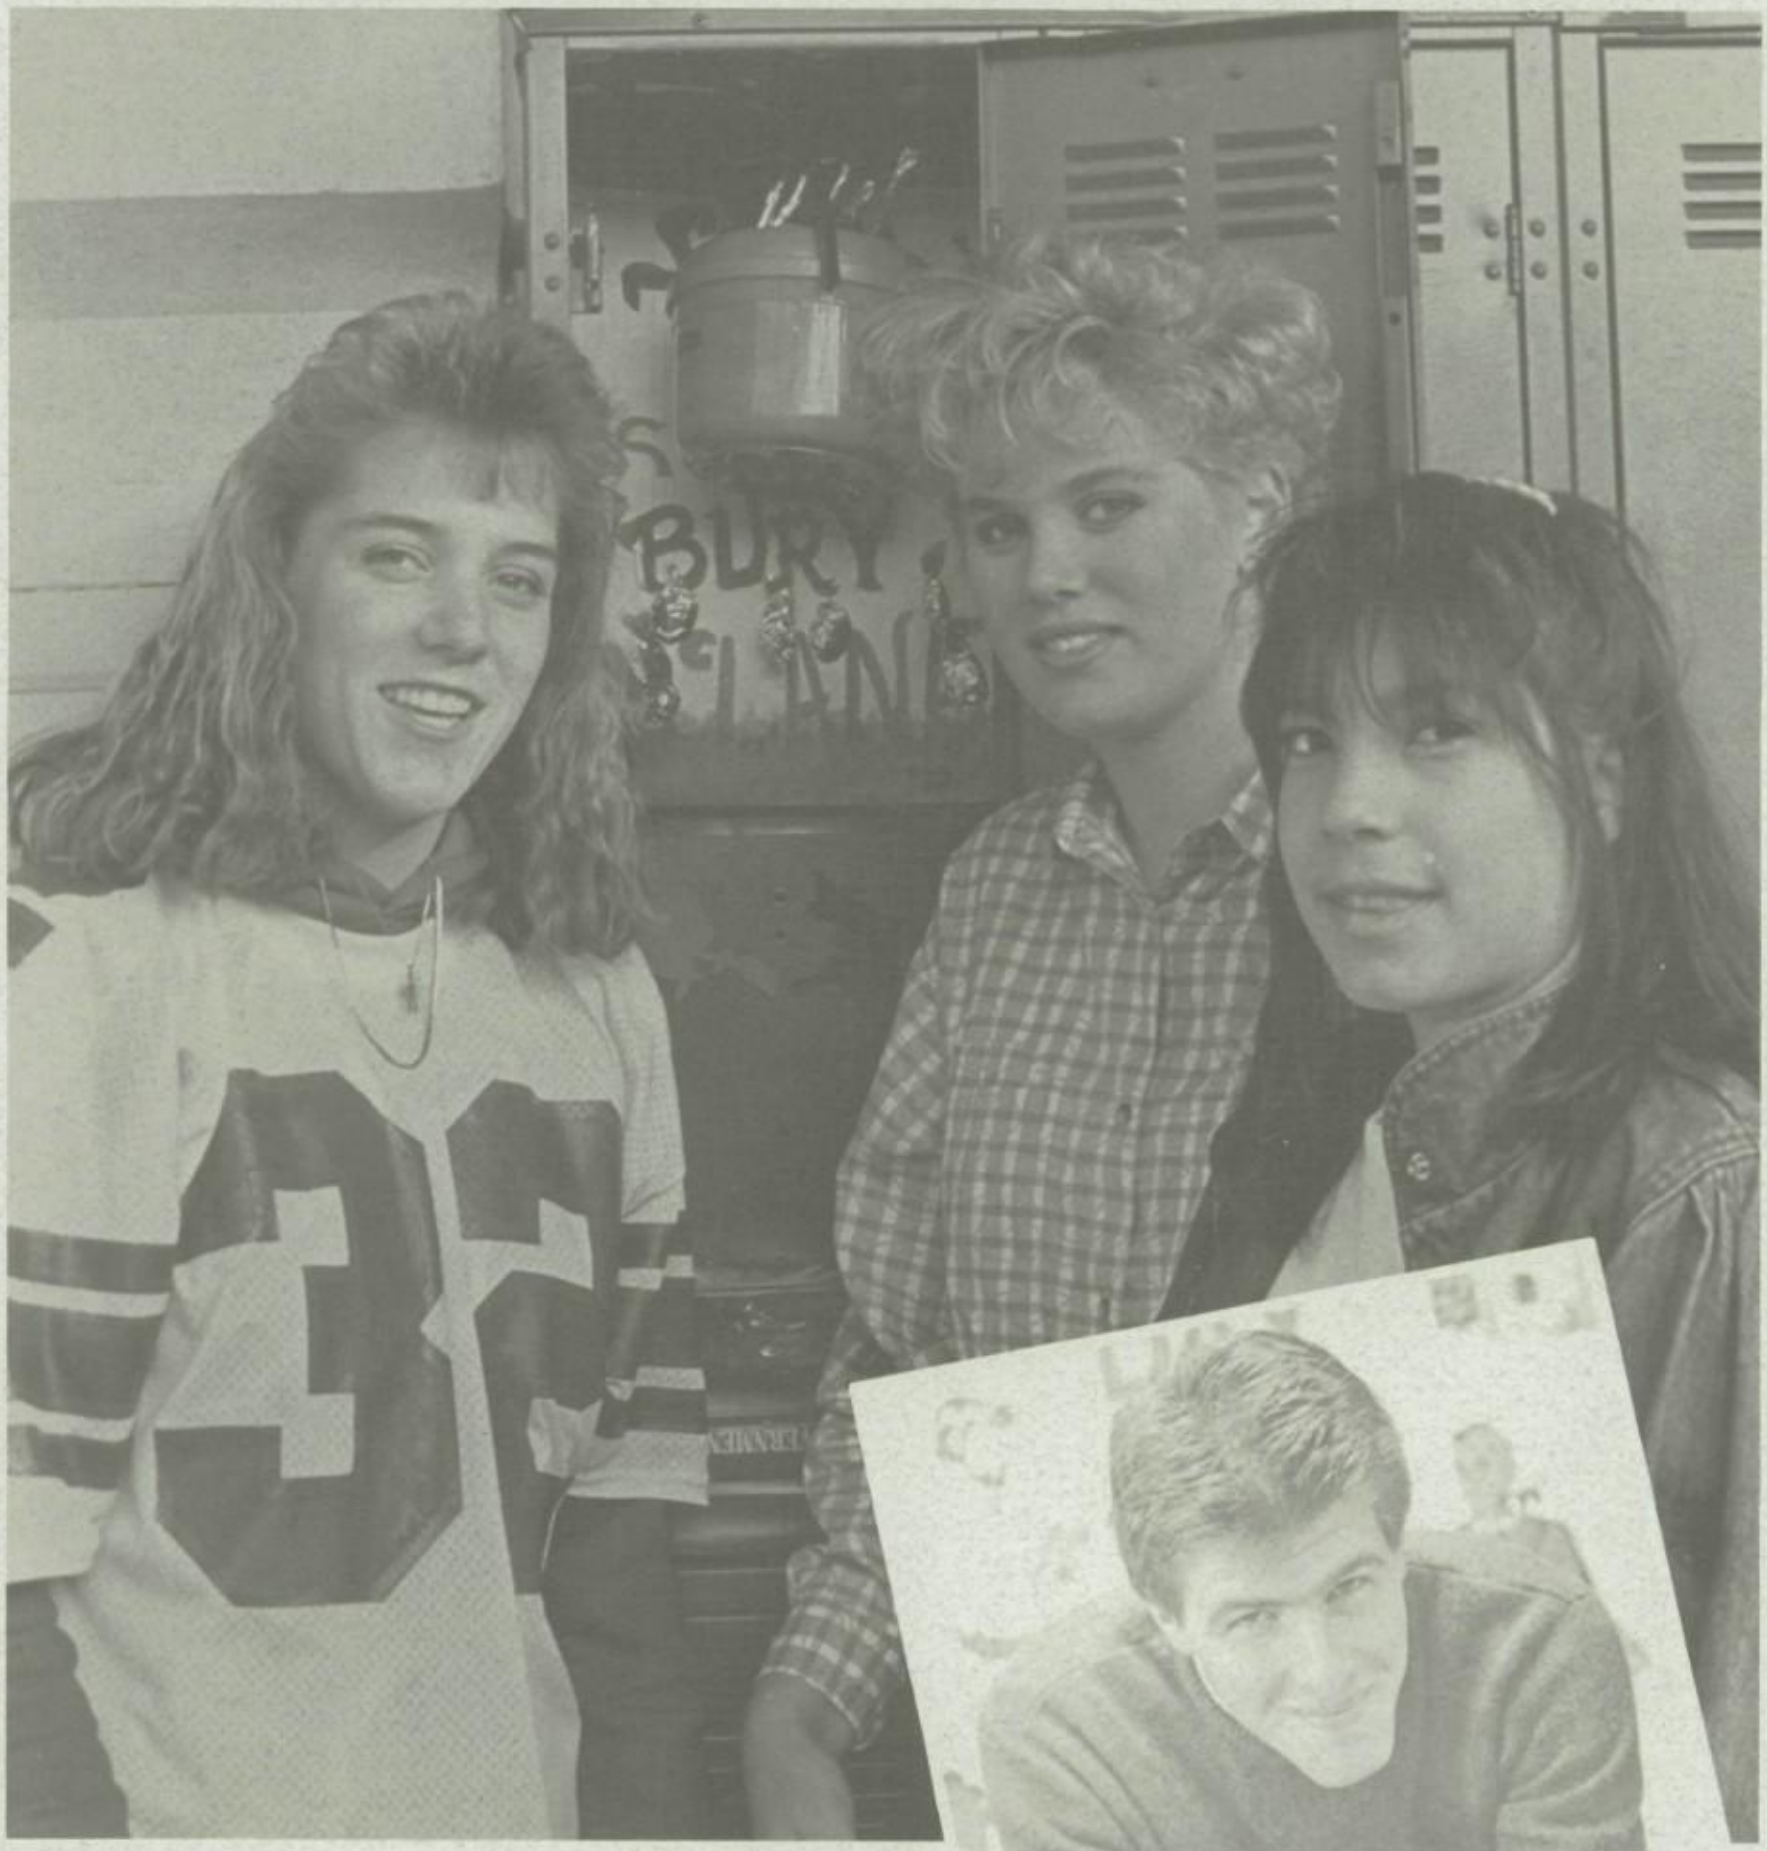
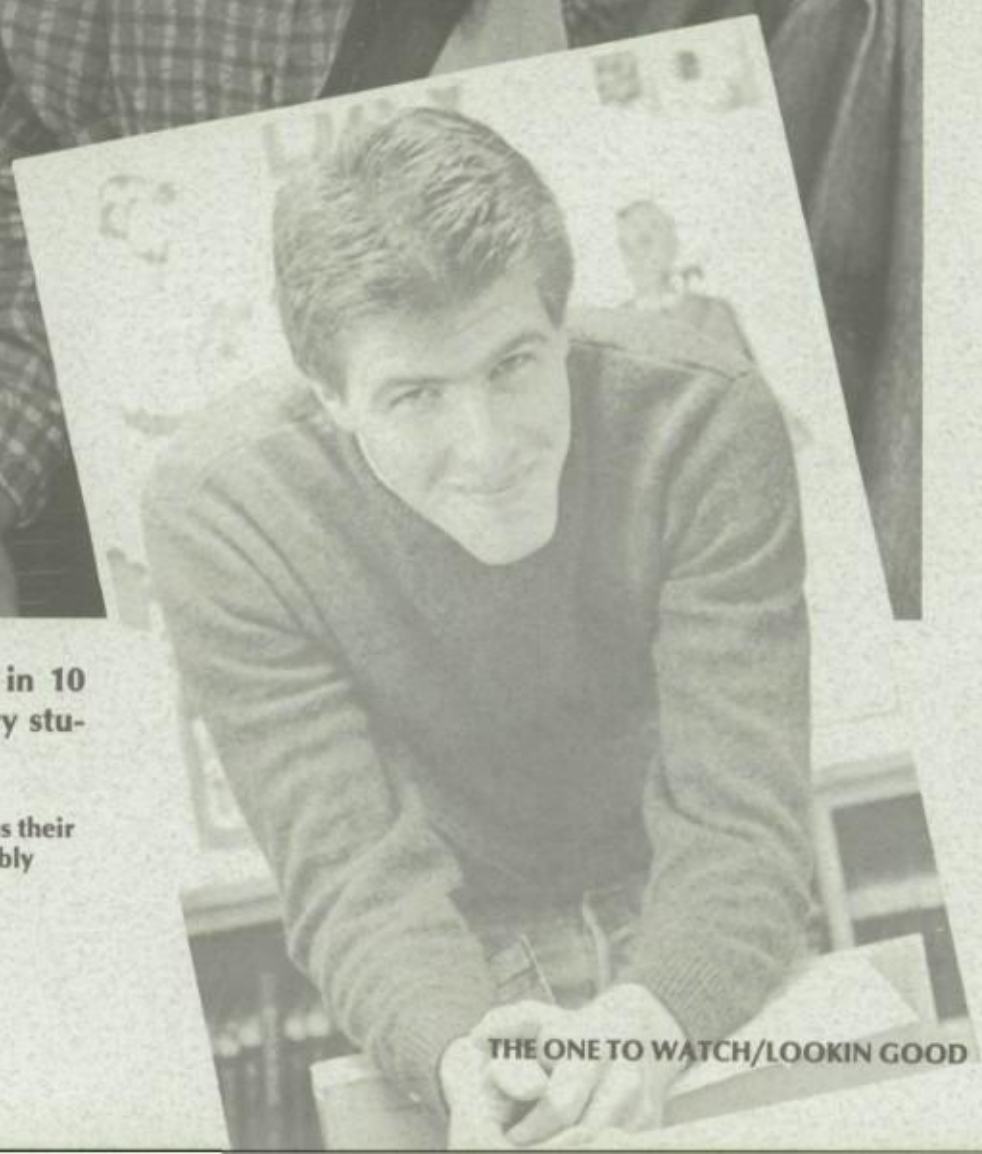
Lookin' Good

The Senior Class of 1987





We look marvelous now and we will look marvelous in 10 years to come. We are stamped in the memory of every student and teacher on campus. We are the Seniors.

KAREN CUCUK, SHELLY KATUIN and CHRISTINA CUADROS giving us their 'Colgate Smiles'. ERIC SWANSON found in the library. (Can this possibly be?)

What a Pal!

One of the most important assets of growing up were the friendships that grew along with us. Our friends made every situation easier. There was always someone there to share both the good and the bad times.

Best friends were those special people that were like nobody else. They could be trusted completely and were always there when you needed them. Having that special friend that you could share your deepest secrets and dreams with was especially important during your senior year.

Making a special friendship last during that period of great change, though, was sometimes a difficult task.

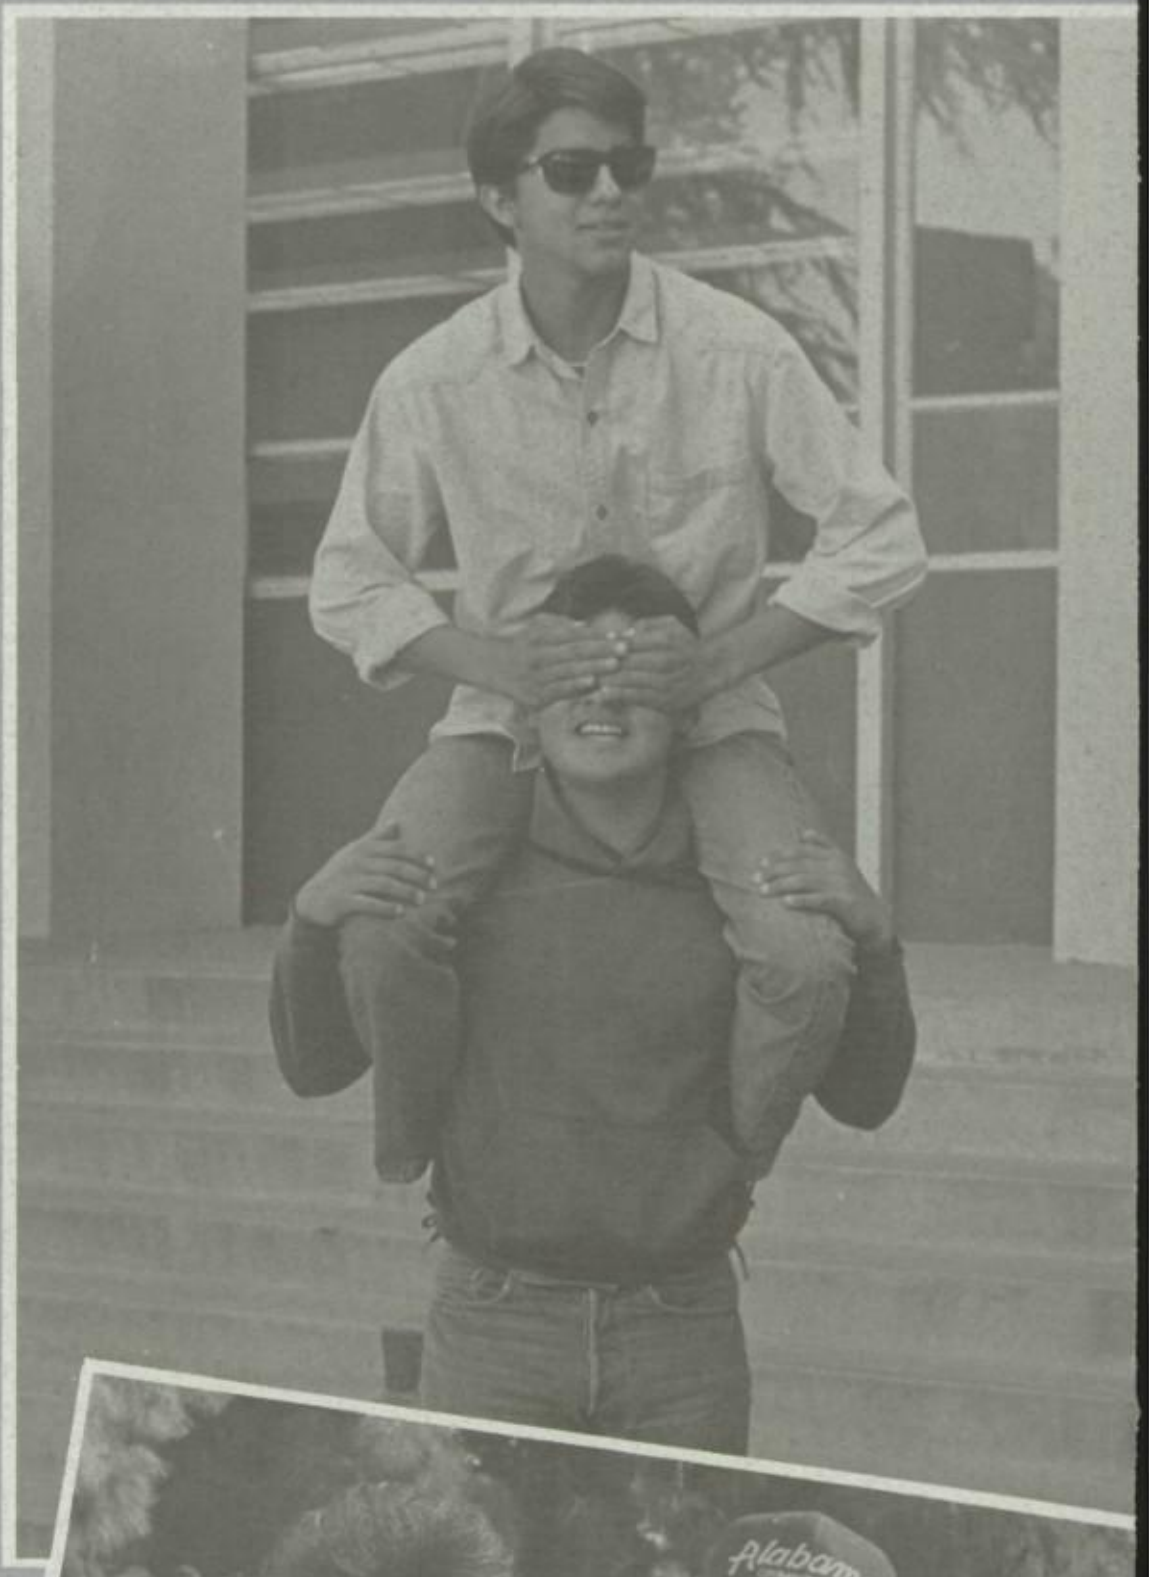
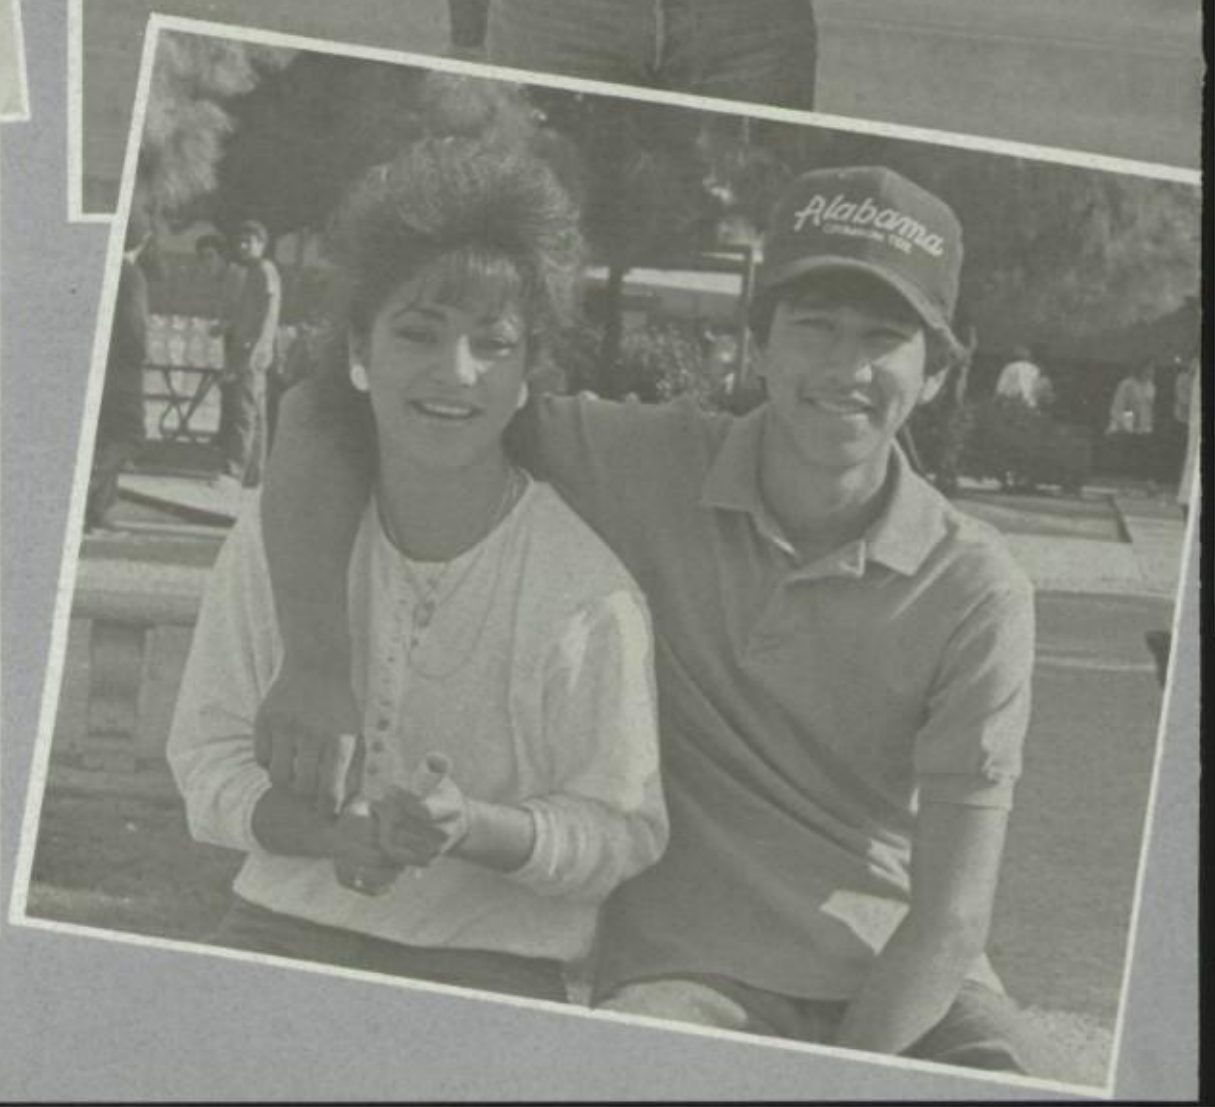
Many seniors felt that one essential factor in a friendship was common interests. They believed that friends should spend a great deal of time together in order to enhance the friendship already present.

Recollections of the trouble we found together as freshmen, the cars received and the fun we had in them as sophomores, the dates we had as juniors and the endless trust we gained as seniors filled all of our high school years.

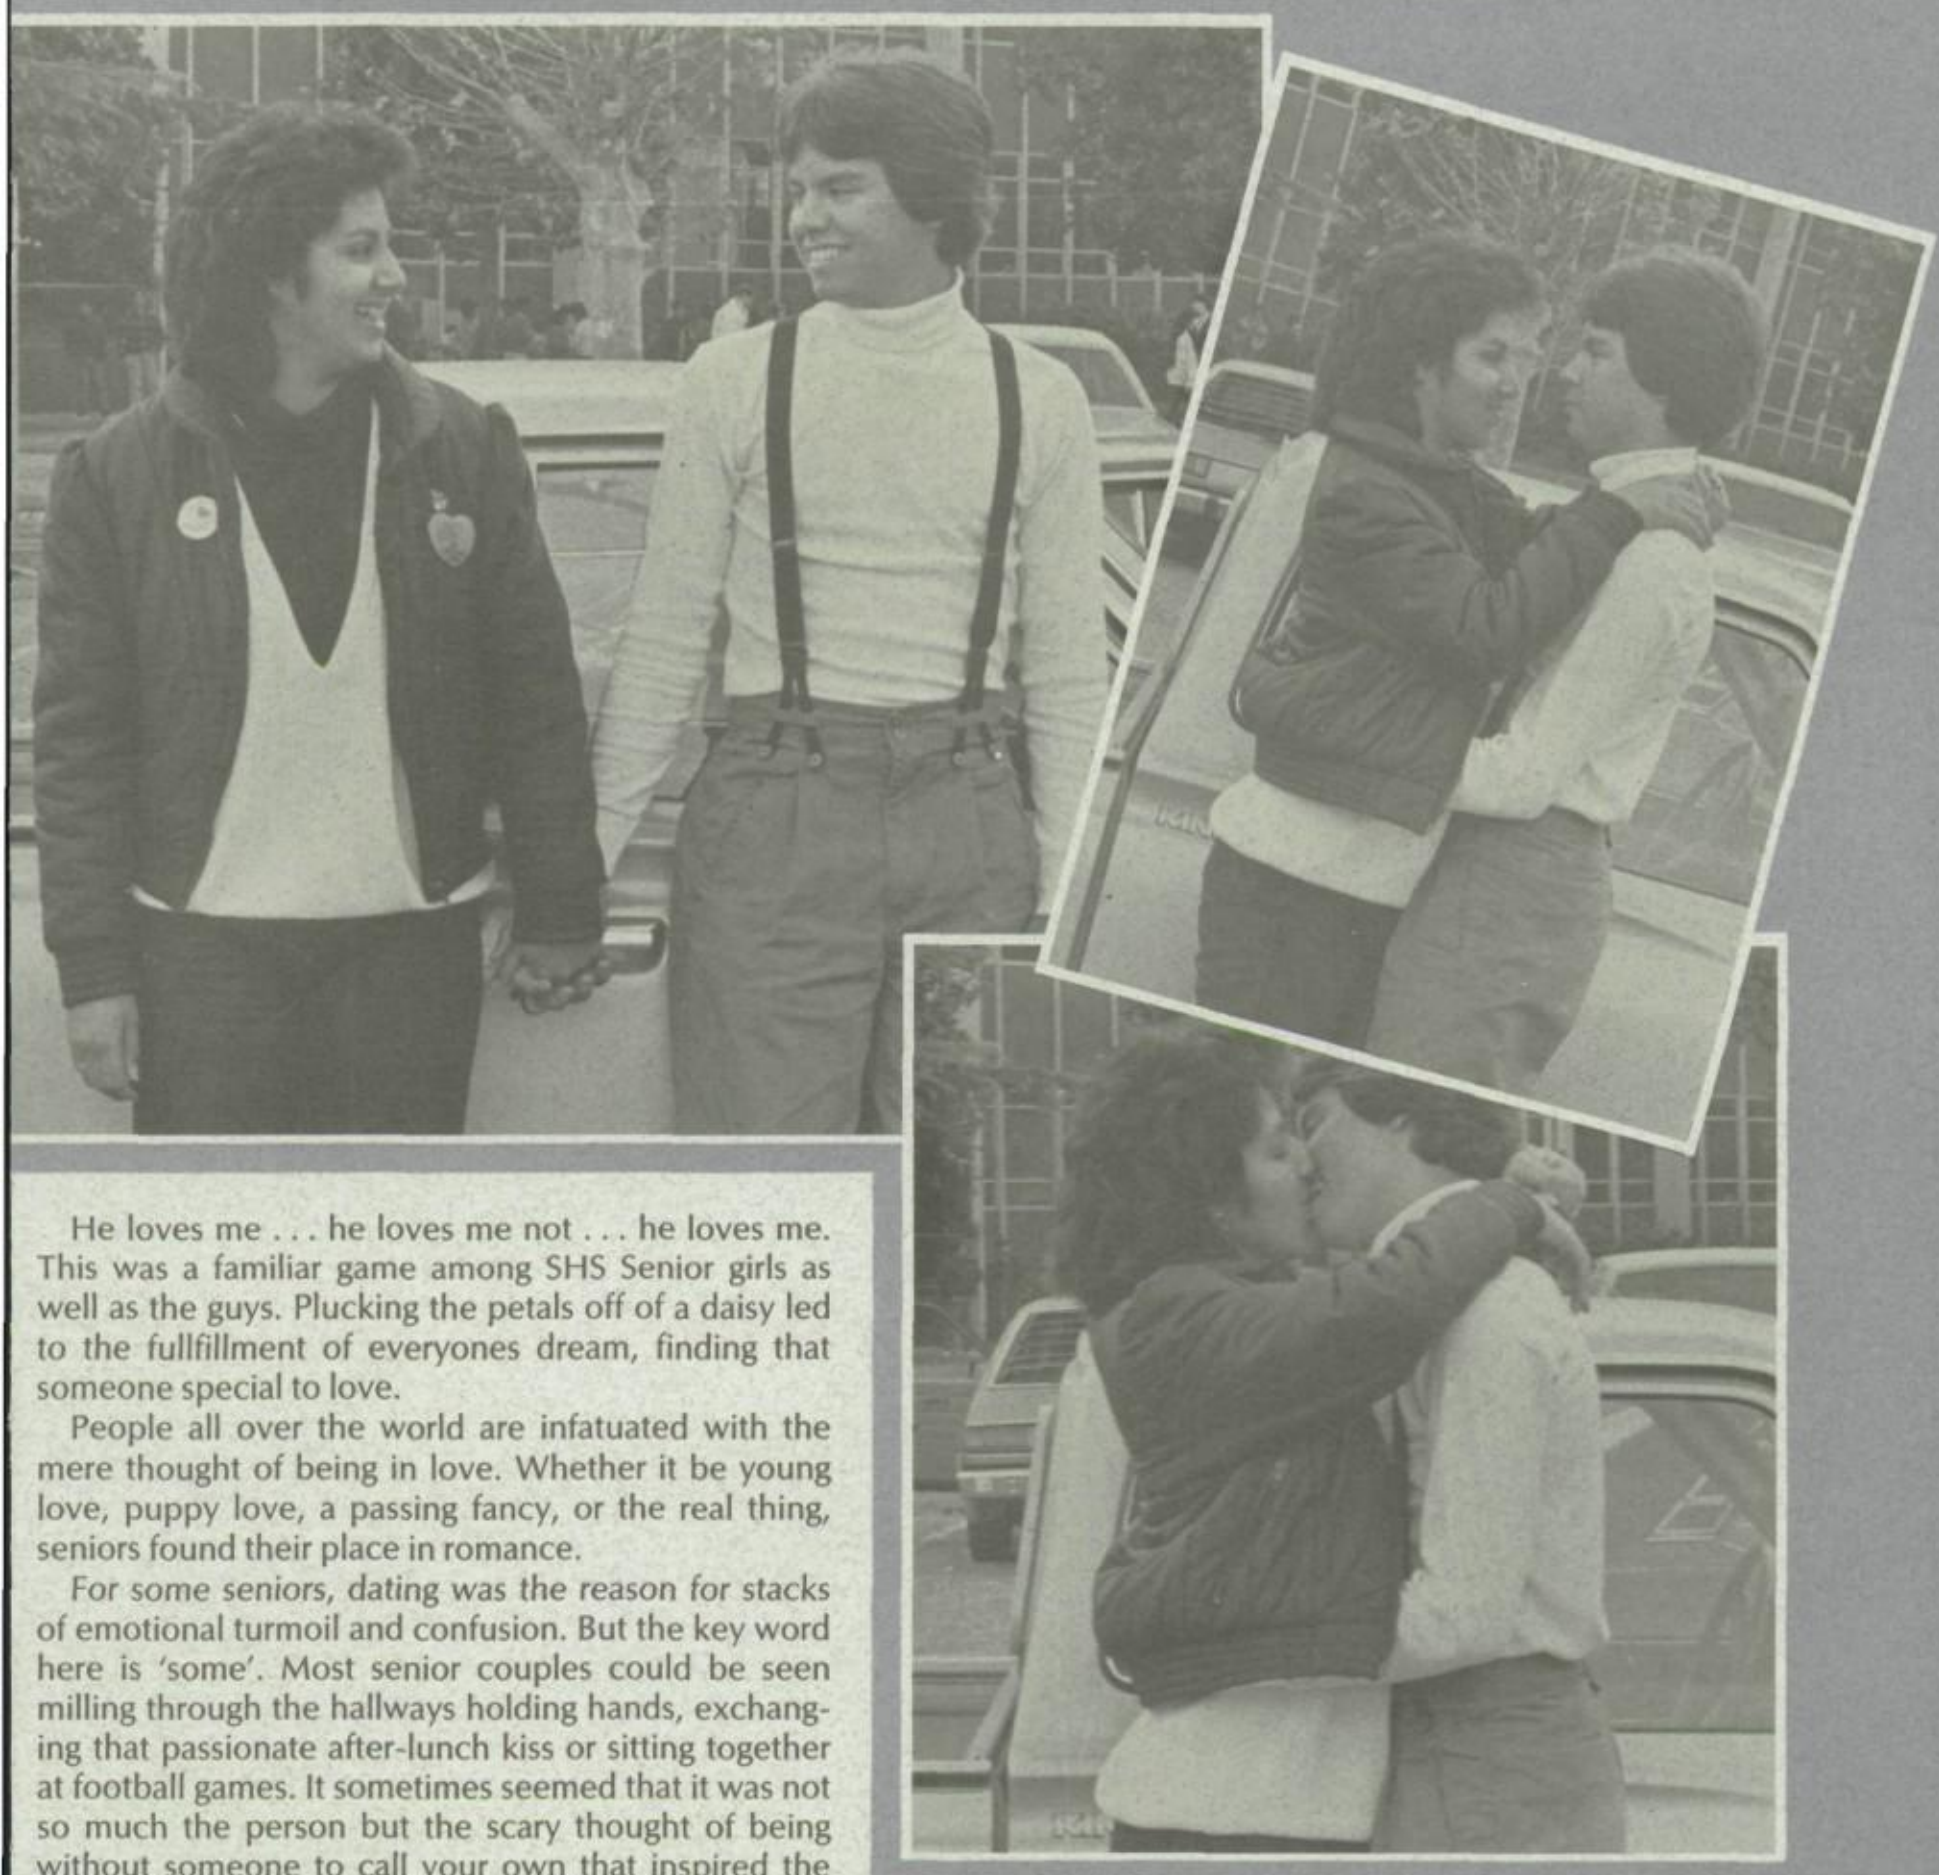
For the Class of 1987, these special friends were the people that our memories were made of.





The inseparable two; LARRE' STERLING and LARA YAKLIGIAN. EDDIE AVILA and JIM CHAPA displaying the perfect? friendship. NORMA SOLIS and RAY VASQUEZ just hanging around.

Close to the Heart



He loves me . . . he loves me not . . . he loves me. This was a familiar game among SHS Senior girls as well as the guys. Plucking the petals off of a daisy led to the fullfillment of everyones dream, finding that someone special to love.

People all over the world are infatuated with the mere thought of being in love. Whether it be young love, puppy love, a passing fancy, or the real thing, seniors found their place in romance.

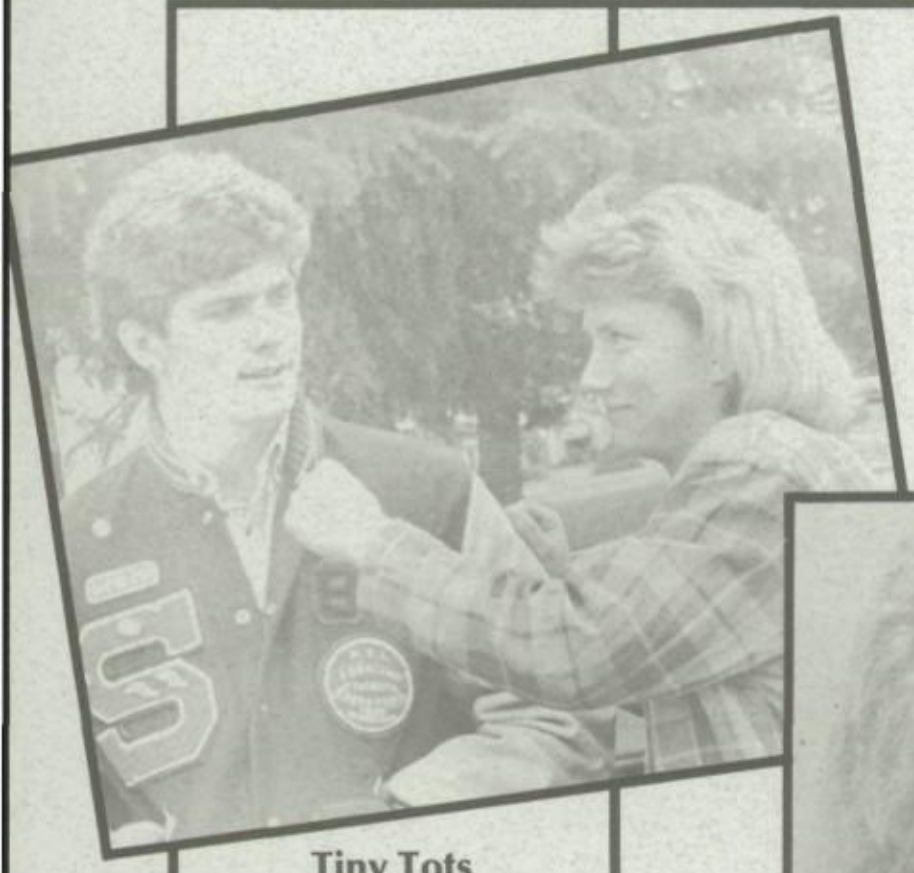
For some seniors, dating was the reason for stacks of emotional turmoil and confusion. But the key word here is 'some'. Most senior couples could be seen milling through the hallways holding hands, exchanging that passionate after-lunch kiss or sitting together at football games. It sometimes seemed that it was not so much the person but the scary thought of being without someone to call your own that inspired the SHS seniors' heated romances.

When asked what the need for a 'casual' romance was, Senior Mark Eytcheson replied, " I don't really like the idea of being tied down, but it's nice to have a girl by my side."

If you had a secret admirer or were the lucky recipient of a dozen long stemmed roses, many eyes green with envy were turned towards you as everyone continued the pursuit of "Mr. or Miss Right".

Love in the afternoon. What would the SHS campus be without ANN VILLAREAL and ROBERT DIEHL?

S E N I O R S



Tiny Tots

Do you remember riding the bus to SHS on that first, hot September day in 1983? Do you remember filling out endless stacks of attendance cards in every class? Do you remember the separations between Del Rey, Lone Star, Washington, Fairmont and Centerville? Things have changed so much over the past four years. Five separate groups have become one unified group, and the tiny tots of 1983 have become the Big Seniors of 1987.

Kiddie Corner

As freshmen, we were totaly used, abused and mistreated. We were the butt of every joke, but we did survive! It was hard to get into the 'popular' group as a freshman. The upperclassmen felt that we should go home to our mamma's or just stay in our kiddie corner. But we tried and succeeded in making our four year stay at SHS the four best years of our lives.

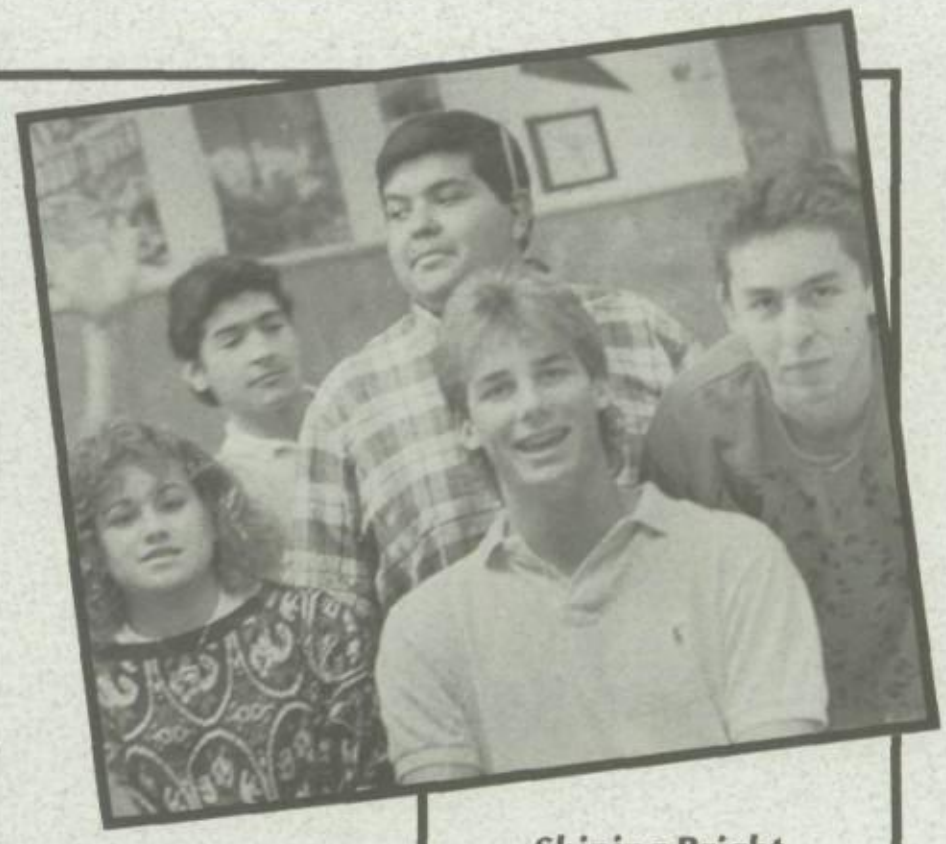
The Elite

This is our year! We've worked dilligently for three years to finally enjoy our final year. We are no longer aimless freshmen, confident sophomores, or cocky juniors. We are the root of Sanger High School. We are the few, the elite. We are the Seniors!

In the Lime Light

As freshmen, we were unnoticed. As sophomores, we were ignored and as juniors, we were stepped upon. But our day finally arrived. What came around went around and now it's our turn to do the unnoticing, ignoring, and stepping upon. It's our turn to shine. We are no longer in the dark, but rather in the limelight.

THE ONES TO WATCH



The Final Frontier

We knew the end was near. We knew that we only had nine more months of SHS to our names. It was our last chance to attend the Christmas and Backwards dances, the football and basketball games, and the prom. This was the last time that we would be able to blame all of our problems on our high school adolescent immaturity. In ten years, we will return and look back on this fun and frolicsome year as our final frontier.

Baby Talk

Unfortunatly every class has to go through the humility of being a freshman. Even though it may be considered the weirdest year of your life, it had to have been one of the funnier and more exciting years for the class of 1987. We stepped onto the campus with the fear of getting lost, but found out it was no sweat. Although we were hastled and degraded by our upperclassmen, we kept our chins up and stuck together to create an unforgettable year. The key excitement of the freshman year was that it was a change of pace. Everyone was confronted with new faces, new territory and, most of all, the new rules upon which we were to abide by. We have learned a lot since that first day of our freshman year. Besides being smarter and more experienced, we have finally learned the art of senior articulation and no longer need our baby talk.

Shining Bright

In 1984 we were finding ourselves. In 1985 we were establishing ourselves. In 1986 we were embarrising ourselves. But in 1987 we were being ourselves. This was a year to throw away all previous facades and fronts. It was time to let the real seniors out. No more pretense-only reality. The 1986-87 year was our year to be who we really were and to shine brightly.

S E N I O R S

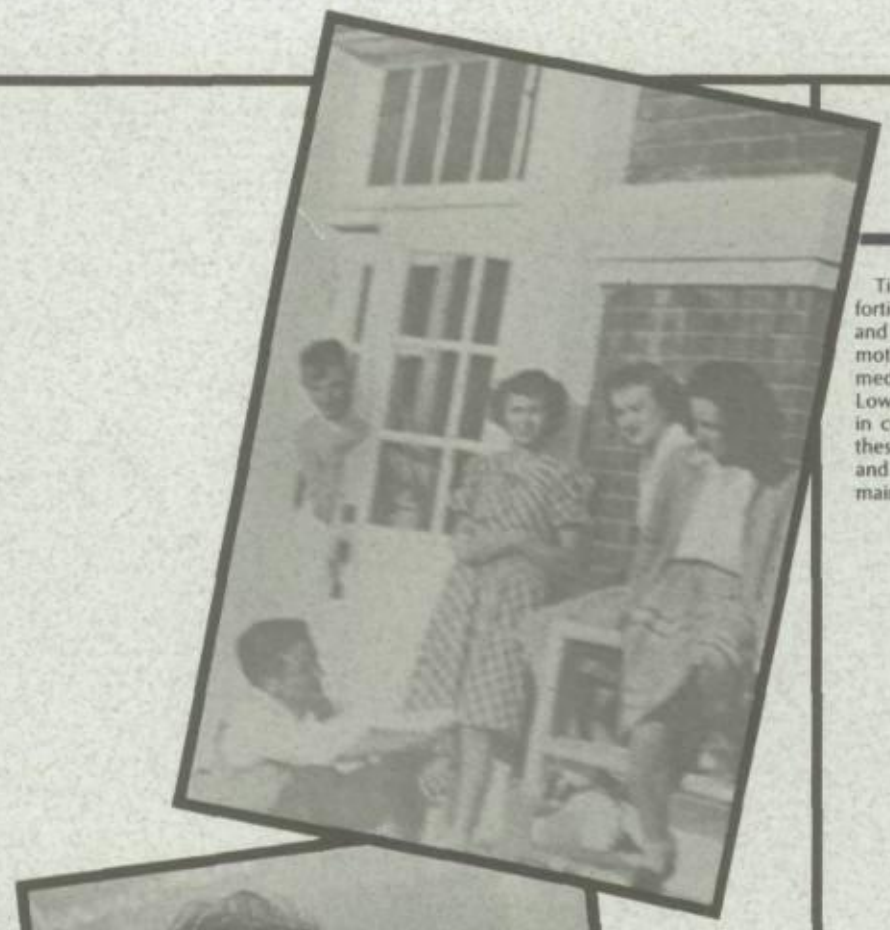
This year has been a different year in comparison with the past three years. This year has been one of bonding. We realized that this was our final year to be together. We didn't have anything to prove to anyone when it came to our personalities. We were whomever we wanted and we appreciated that in each other. Life for the typical 1987 senior was different, but life for the senior of 1987 was very special.

1957

Styles have changed from poodle skirts to mini skirts. Our curfews have switched from the 9:00 of the 50's era to the 12:00 of the 80's. Sanger High students of 1987 are equipt with less naivity and more experience. We love our time frame, but we will always look back at the 50's with envy because of its special 'golden' feeling.



1947

Times have changed drastically since the forties. The cost of coke was 5 cents then and is now 55 cents. Entertainment was self-motivated then and now we use the forties media entertainment. Fred Estaire and Rob Lowe have little, but at the same time, much in common. Times have changed between these two eras drastically, But the tradition and spirit of the SHS seniors will always remain the same.

The sixties; a time of rich enlightenment. The era of the sixties and the era of the eighties can be tied together in a variety of ways. When we look back, we remember Kennedy and the first space mission. When we look at today, we see Reagan and the space disaster. Times never cease to change, but through time the Senior Class of 1987 has become a unified circuit that will never be dissolved.

1987

1987 was a year of political change. Reagan made the mistake of playing with Iran and the SHS boys feared that fighting in Nicaragua would replace college dreams. When it came to the SHS campus, things changed as Sangers traditional craziness was replaced by newly founded structure. Things did change, but whether it be 1947 or 1987, life for SHS seniors was one of fun and memories.

1977

The infamous age of rebellion. Vietnam and the Watergate Scandal created fear and disgust among teenagers of this time. Rebellion still exists, but in different forms. We are not faced with the draft and warfare but with finance and college.Though the seventies brought forth many unforseen problems, it was the time of our youth and will always be looked back upon warmly.

S E N I O R S

Spirited Horns

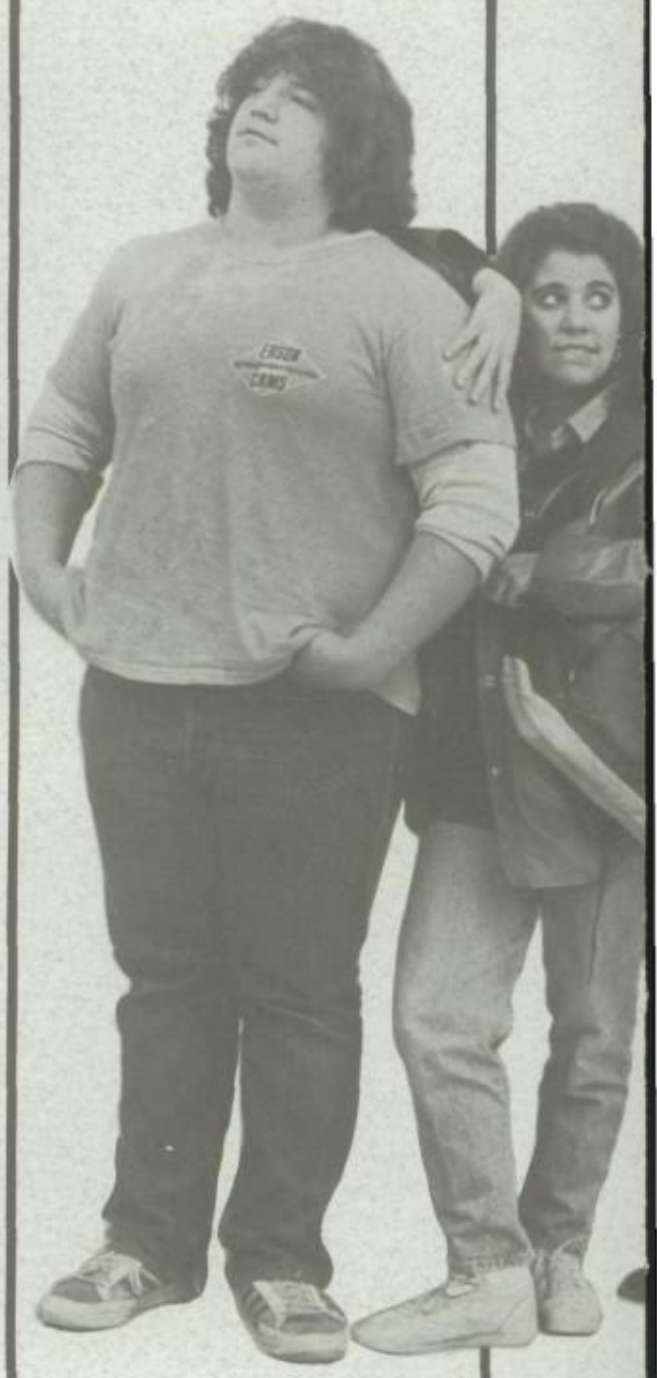
One thing can be said undoubtedly about the Class of 1987. They had unmatchable spirit!! When it came to the SHS rallies, the senior class could be spotted above the rest. Equipt with horns, newspapers, party hats and balloons, the senior class proved that this was their year to shine.

Another Test?

This was our one chance to prove what "senior intelligent form" really was. One period was set aside to test every senior on the SHS campus in Math and English. The test was given nationally to all graduating seniors. It enabled the school to figure out if seniors were smart enough to move on. It also gave the seniors a chance to earn some money for SHS. Of course, the typical senior response to the situation was "your kidding . . . another test?" But then again, that is our typical response to every situation!

The Scene

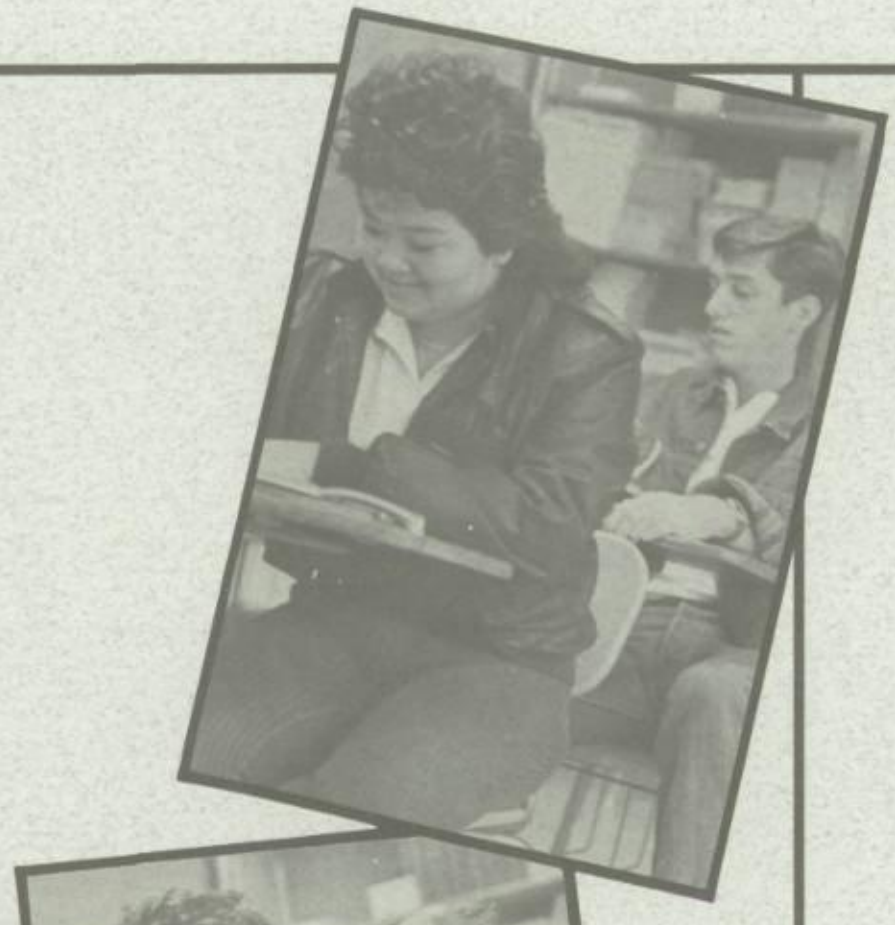
The typical Sanger senior could be found socializing, eating or dancing to their favorite tune in the infamous parking lot. The place to park motorized vehicles turned into the senior scene. If a senior ever needed to be found between 12:30 and 1:00, they were sure to be found in the SHS parking lot.



THE ONES TO WATCH

Seniors Unite

Sanger High School has always been referred to as the 'melting pot' of many different groups of people. The Senior Class of 1987 was no exception to this rule. The primary difference in all of the seniors was their style. Style of fun, style of talk and ultimately their style of dress. No one could ever come to SHS and not find a senior group of their very own. The seniors were different in many ways. But difference meant individuality and individuality meant unity.



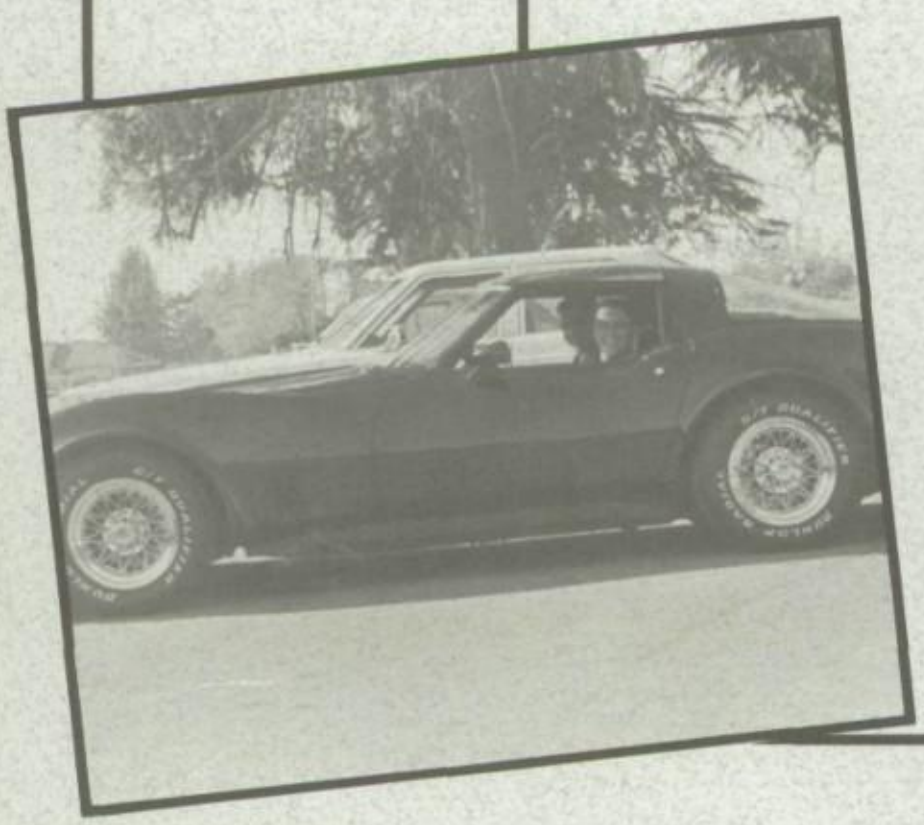
Trivial Trash

This was the typical seniors fourth year of high school education. By this time, we knew everything that we needed to know so we took education into our own hands. We gained valuable social knowledge through the process of passing notes. From hand to hand, our education grew deeper and deeper and our vocabulary increased greatly. Though many of our teachers were driven crazy by our actions, we soon learned the art of processing trivial trash.

S E N I O R S

Vessel to Life

What was life for a senior without some form of transportation? Transportation was the vessel to life. Whether you ventured outward in your Honda, Volkswagon or Porche, transportation became more than just a walk of life. It became a definate way of life.



Jam on It!

The formal definition of music is: the art of organizing sound so as to elicit an aesthetic response in a listener. To the Class of 1987, music is more than the composition of notes, it's their refuge during those rather hectic days that they experience quite often. The music of their year included chart topping hits by RUN DMC, LISA LISA and CAMEO.

Trick or Treat

Once a year, a day rolls around where seniors are allowed the freedom to show their real personalities. This blessed day is Halloween. The seniors proved that Halloween wasn't just for kids as they dressed up for this holiday. They invaded the campus and let all the students and teachers take a look at how they really feel when they wake up in the morning. Halloween was great this year and the senior participation added a new dimension to the fun.

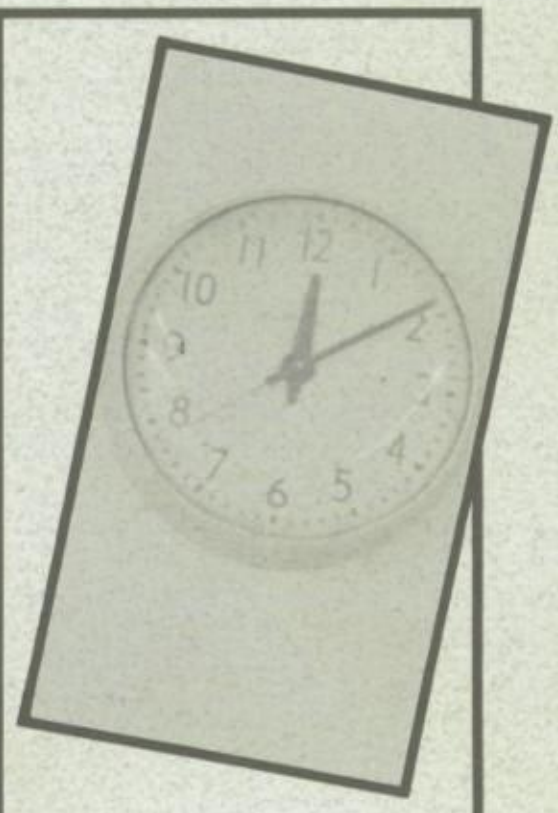
THE ONES TO WATCH

Yum-Yum

The Mac Shack, Burger King, Taco Bell, Chuckwagon and Fosters. These may all sound like the typical American restaurants, but to the seniors, they were the root of their existance. These were not only places to get that Burrito Supreme or that Whopper; these were places that seniors needed to survive. This was their time to begin the 53 minute social period. One would never think that a decision as minor as where to go and with whom would become so complex. Without lunch and eating, the senior day would not be complete. Lunch time was their time to socialize, relax and please their pallets.

The Forgotten Five

A long standing SHS tradition for seniors has been the 5 minute privilege. Being released 5 minutes earlier to avoid the crowded halls, mad parking lot rush and hunger crazed underclassmen was a definite senior privilege. The Class of 1987 witnessed another tradition though. And that was the tradition of no more lunch privilege. They became the victims of yet another rule that took place in their honor.



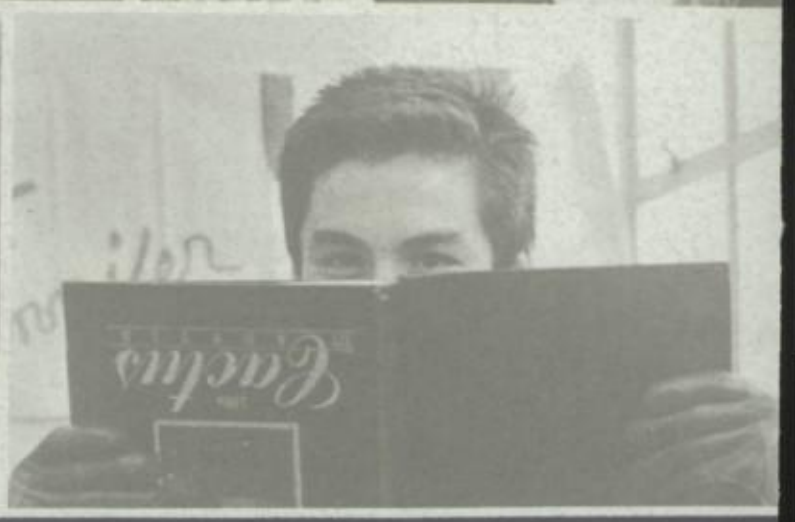
Mass Confusion

What was the one thing that every senior would have retired from school life to avoid? The dreaded senior term paper! The cause for panic, loss of hair, dull weekends and ultimately the cause of mass confusion. The seniors were all informed of the deadline months prior to its arrival, but the average senior considered finding references the week before the deadline. During this week, seniors were more likely to find a friend at the FSU library than at a football game. Social event of the season? HA!! It was hard and definitely intense, but in the end, a diploma in hand made it all worthwhile.

Float Fever

It's homecoming. Not any ordinary homecoming mind you! It's The Class of 1987's homecoming. This was their year to shine in all sorts of ways. And shine they did. With their award winning float that captured the essense of the 50's era, they proved through their spirit and effort that the senior class was to be second to none.

US . . .



The Year 1997

There is so much more to the class of 1987 than meets the eye. Though they constantly proclaimed fun times and complete chaos, there was another side to them; a more civil and philosophical side. Seniors were asked what they would like to have accomplished by their 10 year reunion. Here are some of their long thought over responses:

JOEL KISNER: I hope to have received my Masters in Motion Picture/Television at UCLA by then. Whether or not I will act is still left to be determined. Now I'm planning to write, direct and produce. Money isn't as important to me as doing what I want and being happy.

LORI BELL: Hopefully by then I'll have figured out what to do with my life. Whatever I end up doing, I hope I'll be happy.

ABEL VALDEZ: I would like to live in a high rise apartment in Denver. I want to own a sports medicine center, but if not that, I'll be playing first base for the Yankees.

EDDIE AVILA: At our ten-year reunic of course!!

MARILYN CHRISTENSEN: In ten years hope to have been here, there ar everywhere.

OLGA MORENO: Hopefully by then will be a successful person and proud having had the opportunity to hav been in SHS and to be taught by suc great teachers.

JAMES SERVICE: Hopefully I'll becon a lawyer and eventually go into to th political scene-eventually winding u my career in the White House of cours

Quote of the Century

Throughout all of our lives we have heard famous quotes, and not so famous quotes; influential quotes and quotes that bore us to no end. But the following quotes come from a mixture of the many different personalities and opinionated minds of the Senior Class of 1987.

HECTOR DAVILA: "The unexamined life is not worth living." Know who you are, what you are, what you want and what you believe. After this, nothing can keep you from living in the freedom of self-confidence. When silence gives consent, you need to be self-confident enough to speak up.

KAREN KATAYAMA: "Success is a piece of mind." Success is something that cannot be judged by the amount of money you have or do not have. It can only be judged by yourself because if you have reached the goals that you have set for yourself, then you ARE successful.

LIESL LARSEN: "The purpose of living is to celebrate life."

SHERI WICZEK: "Doing what you like is freedom. Liking what you do is happiness."

TOMMY KRUY: "Just when you think you have the answer, I change the question."

STACEY GABRIELSON: "Today is the first day of the rest of your life." Everyday is different. People can be happy or sad. It's up to them completely!

GLORIA GALVAN: "Live life to the fullest because we may never be here again!"

MICHELLE HERNANDEZ showing us her softer side. Who could skimp on these guys?? JIM GROVE, AURELIO BETANCOURT, MARTY BARAJAS and MIKE PADILLA.

The Cost of Living

Gimmee, gimmee, gimmee! We all want the aterial things in life now and we'll probably want e same things in ten years. Here is a list of some eeded and desired things for the Class of 1987. et as much use out of these things as you can, ecause prices are very obsolite!!

ight now you can buy a QUARTER POUNDER r $1.20. You can also pay $0.70 and get a ILKSHAKE to accompany your meal. After you at,you can go to the grocery store and buy some ARTER CONTROL CREST for $1.49 so that you on't have bad breath on your date. You can take ur date to a MOVIE for $5.00 in your $60,000 28 S-4 PORSCHE and pay $0.70 for every gallon GAS that you use. If you don't like movies, you n go skiing and pay $21.00 for your LIFT CKETS. You can ski in your $15.99 501'S and wear your $42.00 RAY BANS. If your not sure of the time, just take a look at your $30.00 SWATCH WATCH. If it's your dates birthday, you can buy an ounce of GOLD for $386 or just buy a BOQUET of BALLOONS for $12.00. If you are a guy, you can wear your $80.00 GUESS JACKET and smell like your favorite $37.50 POLO cologne. If you are a girl, you can wear your $45.00 REEBOKS, $5.00 BANANNA CLIP and smell like your favorite $45.00 GIORGIO perfume. If your not into dating, you can stay home and order a LARGE PIZZA for $9.00 and drink your $0.59 BIG GULP while you're listening to your $9.00 TAPE. Or you can drive to Los Angeles and visit Micky Mouse in DISNEYLAND for a mere $15.00. But whatever you choose to do, do it fast because these prices will not stay the same for long!!!

The notorious DUDES struttin' their stuff at an SHS rally. PEGGY MARTINEZ and DEBBIE FLORES know that they are too cool to be true.

Here and Gone

What's Hot

Things seem to come and go as they please. Here on the SHS campus, there are so many fads and fashions that no one can seem to keep up with hem. But here are a few of the things that were in according to the 1987 Seniors:

SPRITZ, REEBOKS, JAMS, PASTELS, FLAT-TOPS, THE COSBY SHOW, COLLEGE SWEATSHIRTS, OPUS, THE FAR SIDE, BLOW POPS, PEEWEES PLAYHOUSE, WESTERN WEAR, THRIFTSHOPS, ESSY HAIR, TRENCH COATS, BUTTONS, SOLID COLORS, DENIM,and THE LIMITED.

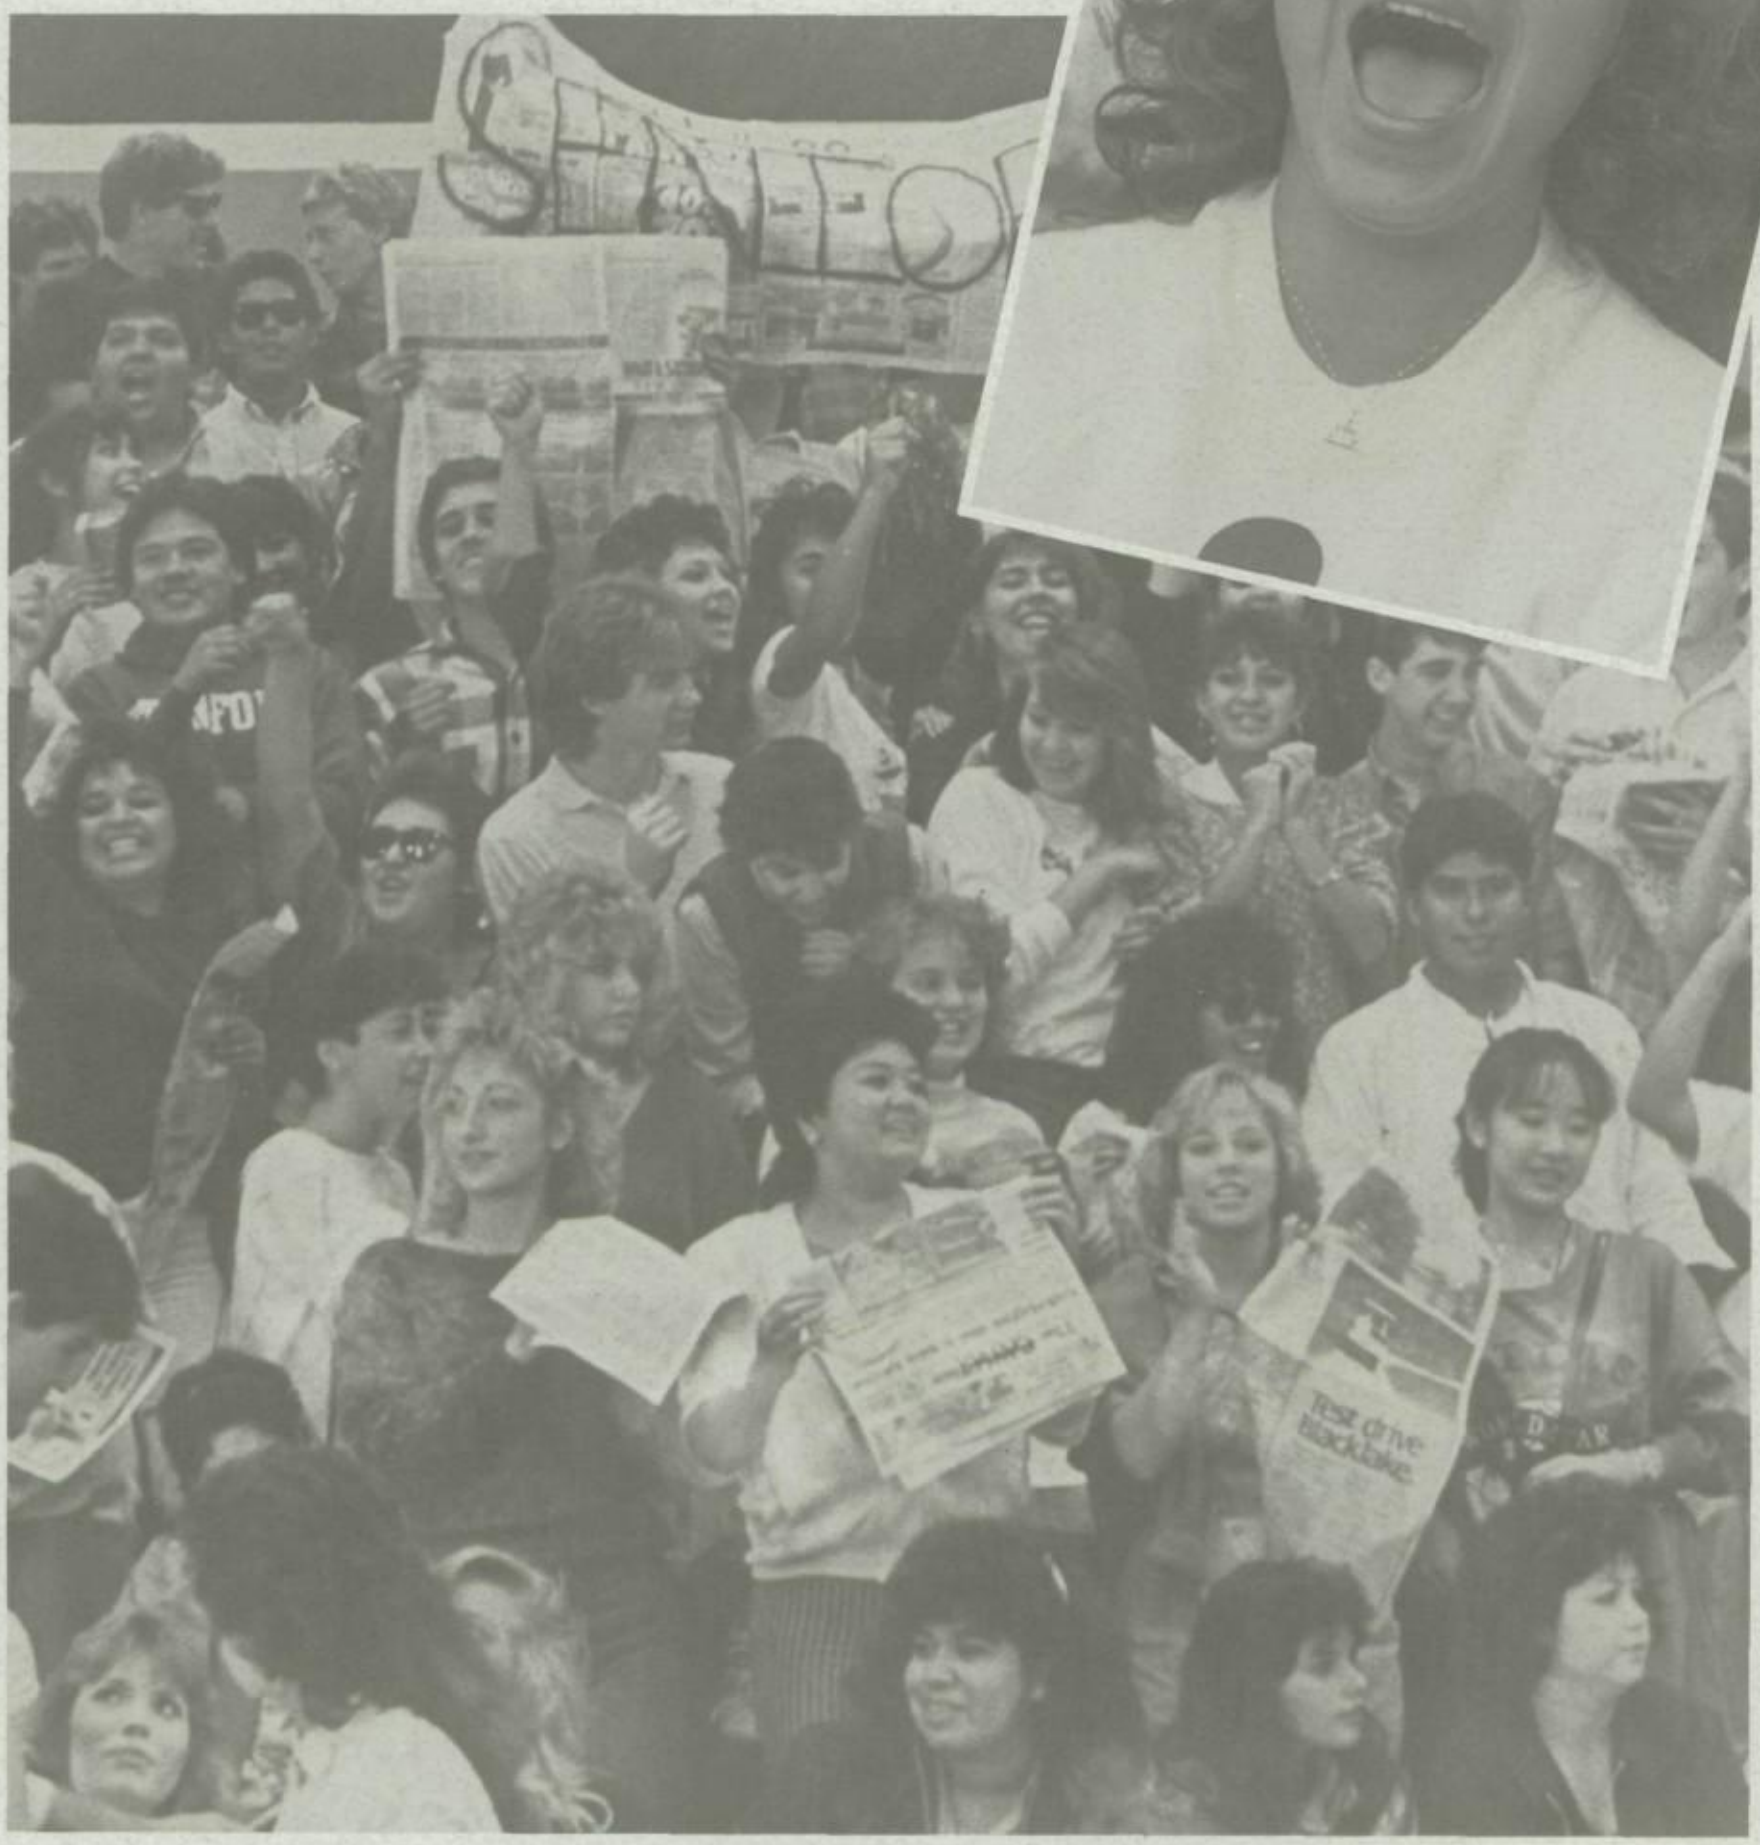
What's Not

With the incoming styles and fads, there seems to be no more room for the styles and fads that were around in 1986. So . . . here is a list of some of the things that have to go according to the Senior Class of 1987:

BRECK HAIRSPRAY, K-SWISS, HARD ROCK, FLOURESCENTS, LONG HAIR (for guys), MAGNUM P.I., CONCERT T-SHIRTS, GUMBY, THE PEANUTS, GUMMY BEARS, THE SMURFS, THE MADONNA LOOK, CATALOGUE SHOPPING, BOBS, SKI JACKETS, VELCRO, PAISLEY PRINTS, LEATHER, and CONTEMPO CASUALS.

Though this is the end of our special section and the end of our year, it should be known by all that we made sure that our fun started, continued but never ended. This is not the end for us, but a definite beginning.

MICHELLE CASTILLO showing us how she really feels about her last year at SHS. THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1987 know where and how to find the fun.



The Fun Starts Here

The Senior Class of 1987

For many outsiders, Sanger High School may have appeared to be a mere educational plot of land intended to fill 1600 teenagers' heads full of knowledge. But for these 1600 teenagers, Sanger High School was our second home.

Every student spent a minimum of seven hours a day for nine months on the SHS premises. For some, SHS and the 1986-87 school year may have been the best and for others, not so good. But one thing was for certain, SHS was a place of nonstop involvement and participation. There was some form of activity offered to suit the needs of all students, no matter how unique or individual, at SHS.

Of course it all started before September when the first-ever registration day was implemented. All school-related logistics were to be taken care of before the first day f school; photos were to be taken, freshmen were to be orientated, fines were to be paid and schedules were to be picked up.

School officialy began on the 3rd and the first annual MORP dance was held in an effort to wholeheartedly welcome all of the Apaches back. The SHS student body as expecting to come back to the same old campus with the same old paint job and landscape. But low and behold, Principal Ron Schiiler's five year beautification plan as taking shape and the students were welcomed with newly painted halls, lockers and a totally new look for the main hall. They also began to see new greenery and eak areas take the place of the old.

With the arrival of the students came the arrival of Ray Hernandez — SHS's Campus Supervisor. The students were also treated to new faculty members. Virginia Iliff, an Spence, Mike Guenon, Dave Christopher, Cheryl Sloan, Del Beshore, Mercedes Schrednitz, Mike Merrill and Tosh Nitta became a part of the SHS educational ex- llence and tradition.

During the early part of September, FFA seemed to take the limelight as they proved themselves to be one of the most active organizations on campus. After winning any awards at the State Fair, the group returned to Sanger to focus on their participation at the Sanger and Fresno Fairs and various other competitions around the alley. Mike Layne and Christi McCann were the leaders of the club competitively.

By the end of September, students had become accustomed to their new schedules and the old SHS spirit had set in for teachers and upper and underclassmen. It was vious that another successful year at SHS was in the making.

October was welcomed by SHS students and faculty with open arms. There was an abundance of excitement during this month. It was time for each individual student give everything their all and really get involved.

Homecoming 1986 seemed to be the highlight of the second month of school. Besides an energetic and electric homecoming week, the student council created a new adition — the Homecoming King. Senior Sammy Perez was graced with the privilege of being the first SHS Homecoming King while Jim Chapa, Jesse Saldana, Abel aldez and Libby Alvarez were part of the first Royal Court. But in the midst of all this excitement, the traditional Homecoming Queen ceremonies were not forgotten. he 1986-87 student body chose Teresa Valdez to reign over SHS during the Homecoming festivities. The Royal Court, in addition to Teresa, was made complete by Liz izondo, Chanda Buchholz, Corina Bustamonte and Michelle Hernandez

The SHS fall rallies were the cause of a large part of the action in October. Students took rallies into their own hands (which eventually created a shortening of the rally eason!!). The Senior Class started the first rally off with a 'blast' as they sported horns, party hats and their own brand of SHS spirit for the underclassmen's viewing easure! As the rally season progressed, the juniors, sophomores and freshmen caught the hang of things and proceeded to fill the gym with spirit and pride in their old lma Mater.

Finishing off the October season, students got into the Halloween spirit and disguised ad their favorite 'wanna-be's', proceeded to 'haunt' the campus. First place wards were given to Chris Elizondo, Marty Gonzalez and Enedina Perez.

But SHS students soon forgot the excitement of their October activities and all but forgot about Sanger High altogether. They had their first major break, Thanksgiving acation, on their minds. It may have been this type of wishful thinking that prompted the fog to come rolling back into the valley, but with the many activities going on in ovember, there was little 'sleeping-in' involved with those who chose to be devoted.

MUN was off for competition in Stanford and was busily preparing for competition in Mission Viejo while Bill Jaime's SHS Marching Band managed to take a first in the elma Competition. The band also made an appearance in the Veteran's Day Parade and made practice a way of living while preparing for the Toyland Parade.

FFA again had their turkey shoot; the Fighting Apaches seemed to lose their 'fight' as they finished their season with a record of 4-6; coach Mike Merrill was busy eating an impromptu rally that was a big hit with the students and not such a big hit with Principal Schiller and finally, yes finally, Thanksgiving arrived and in addition to o school on the 26-27, there was a minimum day on the 25th.

November was ushered out with the Fall Sports Banquet and December was welcomed in by the start of the winter sports. Coach Del Beshore's fighting boys Apache asketball Squad had the most successful season since 1966. Led by Tom Bruner, Ruben Perez, Mark Eytcheson, Demetrio Flores and Keith Daddino, the Apaches were n the top of the league and played their way into the Valley play-offs.

Mrs. Deborah Lencioni's thespians made a hit with their three night winter production of "Apples Teachers and Nuts." SHS's drama program executed one of the more ccessful student activities of the season.

Although graduation was far from obtainable, Seniors were measured and caps and gowns were ordered. Graduation announcements were also chosen and ordered.

Christmas vacation seemed to really take-off with the first formal of the year. "Crystal Vision," the winter formal, was a great success with the student body as they ere given the chance to have Razz Productions as their DJ and managed to dance the night away.

For most of the SHS student body, Christmas vacation was a time to dream about that new mode of nsportation Mom and Dad would provide, that chunk of rock that a boyfriend might lovingly give or that eap trinket that Santa had in his bag in return for being good little girls and boys.

With the arrival of the new year, SHS students had no choice but to welcome in the new policies and pro- edures that greeted them on January 5th. A new grading policy that eliminated the standard quarter grading olicy and introduced the six week grade checks was adopted. A new rally procedure was also adopted to nhance the spirit of the students. It was initially made to eliminate class competition and to promote unity mong all classes and students. The seniors were able to win back a week of their long forgotten five minute nch privilege because of their politeness and attention span at the first 'new' rally of the year.

One of the most important changes in procedure was the 2.0 GPA minimum (no pass, no play) policy. his new policy did not only apply to athletes but extended to all activities. If a student went below the 2.0 quirement, a student could forget about participating in co-curricular activities and instead focus on the ducational aspect of SHS.

The seniors were given the chance to visit some local colleges and junior colleges during January. Career enter coordinator Loyd McFarland set up the 28-29 as 'College Days' for the seniors. While the seniors ere privileged with these 'breaks', the average everyday underclassman was busy taking the newly re- uired CAT tests. The main point of these two days seemed to be lost though as there were 157 uncleared tches for the Class of 1987. But no one said that seniors were perfect!!

January ended with the standard of competitive excellence as Mock Trial finished with a successful record nd as the SHS Pep Squad took third at the Clovis Pep Classic. Semester Finals seemed also to be a success r some, but for others, January meant the end of having a car or even a social life!

The remainder of the year was filled with visions of spring fever, the backwards dance, the Jr.-Sr. Prom and variety of senior activities. As we all looked back, we saw another year pass us by. It was a year that we new would eventually be greatly missed and fondly remembered.

Ultimately what made the 1986-87 year so memorable and intense were the friendships, activities and uccesses. But one thing was for certain throughout the year . . . SHS was definitely the one to watch.

The One To Watch

WHERE WOULD SANGER HIGH BE WITHOUT ITS PEOPLE? Until the 8:03 AM bell rang every weekday morning, SHS was a quiet, hollow and dormant piece of educational land. But as the students arrived on foot, by car and on busses, the campus came alive with energy and vitality and even the most casual observer knew that this place, our place, was something just a little special. We came in all sizes and shapes. We came as individuals. Each of us somewhat special in our own way. The uniqueness of each of us added to the whole and made up what SHS was to become. Each of us were aware of who we were and what we had to do to make certain that we maintained our Apache tradition of excellence. With the addition of the frosh to our family this year, SHS gained new spirit and originality. We found ourselves emulating them. The Sophs discovered that high school life was a special time in their lives and there was just too little time to get everything done. The Juniors exercised their new found independence (drivers licenses and keys) with a sense of responsibility. The Seniors led the way. It was their school now and they had to set the example. They had to make certain that SHS was to be a better place because of them. Ultimately though, it was the adults on campus who led the way. The friendship of our administrators and faculty members was evident and our caring attitude came about because of theirs. The encouragement was there when we needed it. We responded and we learned through our involvement. Because of the people at SHS, we were the 'ones to watch .

District Administration

Helping Out

The Administrative Board is just the first step to the excellence Sanger High has shown. They are the people who make the school decisions that directly benefit us in our learning. Although they do not appear on campus that often, they are the main circuit to the continuous outstanding academics at our school. The Administrative Board is the outside force that creates the smooth mobility throughout the year. They should be well respected for the guidance and support that they give throughout the school year.

The One Who Watches

It is not only he who watches us, but it is also we who watch him. With plenty of experience behind him, Principal Ronald Schiller has gained the approval of Sanger High students. SHS is fortunate to have a person such as Mr. Schiller who gets involved and works to improve our campus in many ways.

After one year at SHS, Mr. Schiller has improved the campus by making great changes which illustrate pride toward Sanger High School. Some of these changes have been the repainting of the campus, installation of air conditioning, and making our main hall awesome! He has made the 1986-87 academic year a year to remember by these great changes. Mr. Schiller makes a point of supporting the students as well as the faculty to help us achieve our very best.

Not The Average Teach!

Many important people are often taken for granted. These people are the educators at Sanger High School. They dedicate a great portion of their time molding our minds. These people are the key to a brighter future for us. Our teachers are here for us through thick and thin, they are not only our instructors but they are also our freinds.

The teachers at SHS are trying to help their students succeed in this world. They want to prepare us for higher education. In the future we will be grateful to them for the endless time, effort and work which they put into helping Sanger create a strong student body.

Though at this point, students are very reluctant to "do their homework" or "complete a 5000 word essay before Monday," they will soon realize that all of this work truly has a purpose. The educators at SHS deserve much recognition and should be proud of their many long hours of work.

On The Move

The SHS Faculty consist of those who have taught for many years and those who have just begun. The faculty has many new faces this year along with many familiar ones. The excitment of graduation and the many scholorships obtained throughout the year begin with the faculty and their abilities to exhibit their interest to the students.

SHS is known for its high academic standards made apparent through its students which is the result of the excellent teachers at SHS.

The teachers encourage the students to really enjoy the subjects and supply them with the knowledge needed to move on into the future. All the teachers can be commended for molding the students at SHS. The teachers are not only constructors of a class but they are the students' friends, brothers, and sisters. One excitement of a new year is the fact that there will be new classes, new students and most of all, new teachers.

The teachers at Sanger High School have gone the extra mile for their students. They are the factors that keep the students on top and SHS on the move.

The Devoted Ones

Teachers are very devoted to teaching. They not only help the students 7 hours a day but they also give a lot of extra time and effort.

"Teaching is fun because it is as interesting as I wish to make it," replied English teacher Willetta Fritz. Teaching is difficult because of the large amount of work and the responsibility to not only teach a student but thoroughly educate him in every aspect possible.

Many teachers tend to take too much of the students responsibility on themselves. Ultimately, however, the work and responsibility make the job more challenging.

Taking A Closer Look

Excellence in academics, athletics, and all other aspects of education is the foundation of Sanger High School. Taking a look "behind the scenes" at our classified staff, we realize that our high quality secretaries, cooks, janitors, and bus drivers have dedicated a great deal of time and effort to help make our years at Sanger High the best they can be.

We have been helped to find our classes, to get to school safely and on time, to have an offering of well-balanced meals, and even to "unjam" our lockers. These are only a few of the obstacles the classified staff overcomes during a typical schoolday. As we take a closer look at these people, we see that their special care and interest was evident throughout the 1986-87 school term. These individuals have helped to keep our school running smoothly with their cheerful manner and positive attitudes day after day. They not only do their job well and efficiently, but also display pride in the work that they do. In addition to the administrators and faculty, the classified staff also takes part in education by watching over the many students and giving them helpful hints.

This help many times seems to go unrecognized. We would like to give our thanks to the people in our classified staff in appreciation of their many efforts to help the over 1600 students at SHS.

JUNIORS

Enthusiasm was the word most often used to describe the members of The Class Of 1988, although they did show a very different sense of enthusiasm. For example, during an SHS rally a song was dedicated to the seniors by The Dudes. Instead of rocking to the beat the Juniors turned the opposite direction! The Juniors expressed their warped sense of humor in the various activities they participated in. The class of 1988 stood out!

After gaining upperclassmen status, class President Hilda Martinez led her fellow officers and active classmates successfully through the maze of their junior year. The prom, participation in sporting events, rallies and 'getting ready to take over SHS' were all a part of their lives during the 1986-87 Sanger High School year.

The Juniors faced many responsibilities and survived. They accomplished first rank status in the Homecoming float and the prom was the ultimate! The class of 1988 grew because of their new experiences in working, dating and learning. They will be ready to face the new experience of being seniors. Watch out Sanger High the class of'88 is taking over!!

The Class Of 1988

The Best Is Yet To Come

The bell rang and students came out of their classes and filled the halls. One thing really made the Junior class unique-it was alive with a wide variety of students. The class of 1988 really broke the stereotypical molds of the "average" high school student by expressing its individuality.

Trying to describe the Junior class in a single word or phrase would have been an almost impossible task. The different groups that combined to form the Junior class were widely varied.

There were those who concentrated on keeping up with the newest fashions while others concerned themselves with the latest sports events. Some spent their time listening to the most recent heavy metal bands while others employed their time in more studious activities.

The diversity of the Class of 1988 was forgotten, however, in th bustling activities of Homecomin The class pulled together to pr duce a float alive with the 20's er The Juniors also pulled together as unit in order to replenish their cla funds by various fundraisers.

The class of 1988 worke together and produced a Junior ye that will not easily be forgotten. was a year of work and play and was a year that proved to be pr ductive for even those students wh chose only to involve themselves curricular activities. It was the ra mixture of people working togeth that allowed the Junior class break the molds and prove that th best is yet to come.

Juniors

Out Of Gas

"Dad, can I have the car tonight?" If you ever asked that question, you were not alone. Many juniors were faced with the responsibility of driving on a regular basis, in some cases, depended on a car every day.

Attitudes about driving seemed to change after students have been doing it for nearly a year. "When I first drove, I thought it was fun and I would drive anywhere. Now I don't even think about it," commented Dawn Pearson. "I was a little bit more careful when I started driving, but now I'm a reckless driver," added Renee Schneider.

One of the biggest problems with driving was finding a car to drive. Many juniors combated this problem by getting a car of their own. Sarah Wagenhalls said, " Having my MG is the ultimate! "

The Class Of 1988

From Karate To Horseback Riding

Horseback Riding! Swimming! Tennis! It sounds like on active weekend, but for SHS Juniors it's just pleasure.

Many members of the class of 1988 squeeze hobbies into their busy schedules. "I love to ride my horses," commented Danella Kendrick. There are other Junior past-times: motorcycle riding, dancing, sports, fishing, hunting, shopping and eating.

Although, the Juniors have to squeeze these activities in, they are outstanding in them! It's no wonder because they have been working on their hobbies since they were kids. They find that it helps them to get rid of stress and to relax.

Juniors show excellence on campus but they also show excellence in their hobbies.

Juniors

Party Times

There are good times and bad times. But the best times for Sanger High School's class of 1988 are the party times.

When you become a Junior you can begin to relax about school. You have already learned the ropes and established yourself as an upperclassmen. About this time is when Juniors start to 'hang loose' and have fun.

The class of '88, doesn't wait around to find out what's going on. Whether it's the movies, a dance, or a small get together you'll find a Junior there. Some Juniors even gave parties for Halloween, Christmas, Spring Break, and of course Birthday parties! If the members of the class of 1988 weren't at a get together they could be spotted at a range of places such as Knock 3 Times, Fashion Fair, snow and water skiing, Fresno State sporting activities, movie theaters and (of course) dining places.

Jeannie Fuentes favorite past time is watching movies with friends. "I like just kicking back ," said Martin Tamez. Many other juniors have their own way of having fun.

The Class Of 1988

3 To 7, What A Way To Make A Living

Calgon take me away.

A familiar cry heard from many juniors who tried to juggle homework and extra curricular activities around a full or part time job. Corey Curtis an employee of Circle "C" Market commented, "It's not easy getting excepted to a good college in the 80's, especially with the added responsibilities of a job.

"Although my homework suffers little, my social life takes a beating," a typical junior stated. Many juniors found themselves wotking on a friday night instead of going to the game. On the other hand, students like Renee Scneider employed at Clovis Lakes, had a job that didn't effect their school or social life. In fact it helped Renee meet many new handsome guys.

Altogether, these hard driving students found their reason for working each time payday rolled around. However, new found friendships and fringe benefits were also advantages. "The best part of my job was the friendships I made both with other employees and the kids," said Sabrinna Lopopolo a swim instructor. The more popular jobs for Sanger High School's juniors were: packing houses, fast food places, babysitting, swimming areas, privately owned stores, gas stations, janitorial services, and grocery markets.

Most students saw no career in their present job. Although, they felt that the work experience alone would broaden their horizons and would help them down the road with their future career plans. They will probably never forget their first job. With the ups and downs of experiencing new things, they had to go through alot of embarrasment and growth. Thus making them stronger for their struggle in the big world of many ups and downs. Sandy Betancourt told us that she would never forget her first hard job experience of working in a packing house. All in all, the class of 1988 will hold the memories of their successful working year.

SOPHOMORES

The members of the Class of 1989 made it through their frosh year with little difficulty and spent their second year adjusting to their upperclassmen status. After obtaining their new credentials, the spirit of the members of the Class of 1989 rose. The individuals in the class excelled and their involvement was the key to their success. Their participation this year in virtually every aspect of the school was commendable. The 'Soph' responsibilities were met by the class officers and interested class members who spent a great deal of their time on fund-raising. The presence of about 390 members of the Class of 1989 was felt in the classrooms, activities, and athletics. This year was a successful year for the Sophs. They proved that they were the best sophomore class to hit Sanger High.

The class of 1988 was known for their participation and spirit in all the activities they did. They could always be heard at the rallies and sporting events. The Sophomores will be ready for their Junior year, the prom, varsity status, and other responsibilities. They will be ready to face the coming year!

On Our Way To The Top!

"We have truely grown a lot during these past two years and we are ready to take on the years to come!" Claudia Tezak said this concerning her sophomore class. The class of 1989 has come a ways in their first two years here at SHS

. They were always thinking about days of having fun, getting involved, and just being "the ones to watch". Those days are here now and the class of 1989 has taken advantage.

The sophomores have all learned that high school is full of fun times besides the serious ones. Getting this far took long hours and a lot of hard work. Though it may have been hard, the class of 1989 is now prepared to begin climbing the ladder of success. These past two years have served as a time for preparation for life itself and its expectations. Sophomores are a class which has big dreams and high goals. Together they have progressed far and hope to go beyond everyones expectations.

"Hey look at me!" said DENISE ESQUEDA at Apache rally. ANGELINA,DIANA,SANDRA and ANNA prove that the Sophomore class is 'on their way to the top'.

The Class Of 1989

A Class Act

A wide variety of people make up the Sophomore class. All the different personalities, thoughts and backgrounds fit together to make what is known as the ultimate class. By working together,the Sophmores made the year special as they grew closer to one another. Together, they have survived the good and bad times with the help of many friends. The many years together had helped them realize how important support toward each other was TOGETHERNESS. "Sophomores are the center of high society," added Kelly Garrison. The Sophs are more than just an ordinary class,they are the class of 1989.

The Halfway Point

Together as a family the sophomores have grown up and learned exactly what it takes to be someone and something special, a special class. Being special means setting goals-dreaming and working to make all our dreams come true. As Cindy Navarrette comments, "I just want to go to college and make a lot of money!" They have learned that nobody else can do the work for them, or go through the personal pain and trouble that it takes to accomplish something. No matter how long or hard the road, they are going to accomplish their goals.

"It doesn't matter what anybody tells me, I know I'll achieve all of my goals,"adds Terry Alcantar. Sophomores are a very active and involved class. They are in a great deal of extra curricular events dealing with school sports and other activities. The class of '89 is a very important part of the SHS student body.

The Class Of 1989

The Spirit Of '89

The sophomores once again demonstrated to the upperclassmen that they were the most spirited class on campus. Their participation in all of SHS's activities proved that. Throughout the school year the sophs showed that spirit meant participation and that's just what they did! Whenever a SHS event or activity was held the class of 1989 could always be found giving their support. The Sophomores kept everyone on their toes because of their participation, potential, and pride in whatever they did.

"Sophomore spirit is superior," commented sophomore Terstzan Soojian. "Our spirit is just too awesome, it puts other classes to shame," said Lydia Ruiz. They gave the word 'spirit' a whole new meaning but then again they are the class of 1989.

THE CLASS OF '89 showed the other classes that they knew what cheering was all about.

Fun Times

The class of '89 finished their Sophomore year with spirit and enthusiasm. New experiences were all around. We couldn't forget how great those cheering and rootn' Sophs were at the rallies. FRESHMEN

Freshman. This word often intimidated the freshmen themselves, but the class of 1990 proved to SHS that they would not be treated as useless individuals. Throughout the whole 1986-87 school year, the freshman class continued to surprise the upperclassmen with their frequent displays of pride and spirit. If they were not screaming wildly at the rallies, then they were showing support and interest by voting for their class officers.

President Phillip Leon, Vice President Roman Navarrette, Secretary Adela Padron, Treasurer Danny Maldonado and Representative Monica Padilla led the Freshman class straight into the action. They did not stop to look back, but continued forward and made sure that they did not end up as 'losers' in anything. "I think that we've definately proven that freshman are people too. We have a lot of spirit and take pride in what we do!" commented Vice President Roman Navarrette.

Although the Class Of 1990 was sometimes considered the 'low-life' of the campus, they kept their chins up and proved the upperclassmen wrong. They kept in mind that as long as they were unified, no one could stop them from being the class with 'class'.

Joining The Ranks

The class of 1987 being as typical as freshmen get, started off the academic year as any other frosh class would. The first few weeks upperclassmen harrassed them while they wandered aimlessly down the unfamiliar halls. When they were lost, upperclassmen gave them a hand and directed them in the wrong direction, thus providing other upper-classmen with laughs. But they soon stopped believing everything a Senior said. They stopped running to class right after being let out of their previous one and they began to be more confident and look forward to school rather than dreading it. The first step was the hardest, but now that it's over the freshmen can look back and say, "I made it," and realize the rest is easy. All in all, the Freshmen are past their first step and are prepared for the remaining climb to the top.

The Class Of 1990

Freshmen Are People Too!

It's not what you are, It's who you are, right? Well, for the frosh of 1986-87, this statement seemed worthless. In the beginning of the year, the upperclassmen would look upon the freshmen and reply close-mindly "typical freshmen." Many upperclassmen didn't realize that each individual freshman had thier own way of doing things (i.e. how to dress, how to have fun and how to just stay alive). But as the year progressed, the upperclassmen began to notice that the frosh were not as naive as they expected.

The freshmen didn't always worship the ground the Seniors walked on, they didn't always eat in the cafeteria, they didn't do a lot of things that freshman are supposed to do. But they remained cool, calm and collected after the first traumatic adjustment weeks of SHS. Some upperclassmen even began to treat them as people and address them in public. Freshmen at SHS finally made a name for themselves and proved that it's not what you are but who you are.

Life In The Fast Lane

To become a freshman, one has to first get used to living a life in the fast lane. Coming out of junior high as a 'stud' doesn't always mean that one will come into high school as a 'stud'.

The Class Of 1990 made their debut in SHS and probably were a bit shocked at the lack of interest the upperclassmen chose to show them. But they soon learned how to get the upperclassmen to notice them and did a great job of it. Their spirit was close to none, and they always found a way to make spectacles of themselves. If they weren't displaying the falls new collection of garments, then they were playing their 'newly' discovered jams as loud as they possibly could.

The class of 1990 also did very well as far as action was concerned. They were involved in various extra-curricular activities. They continued to show excellence in their academic achievements and the class had many students who proved their talents in athletics, academics and music.

The Class Of 1990 was thrown into the life of the fast lane and survived quite well. They soon were awarded 'decently cool' status from the upperclassmen and they left the 1986-87 school year with open minds. They proved that they were more than just average freshmen students . . . they proved that they were individuals that would not stop until they reached the top.

Starting Off Fresh

When the Frosh Class entered SHS, they got a big surprise. They had to forget about previous accomplishments and honors. They had to start off fresh. To some, this idea was threatening, but to most of the freshman, the thought of starting all over again was exciting. Many made new names for themselves and many ellaborated and excelled in things that they were already good at. The freshman class took things into their own hands and made the year one to remember.

Freshmen
Living It Up!!

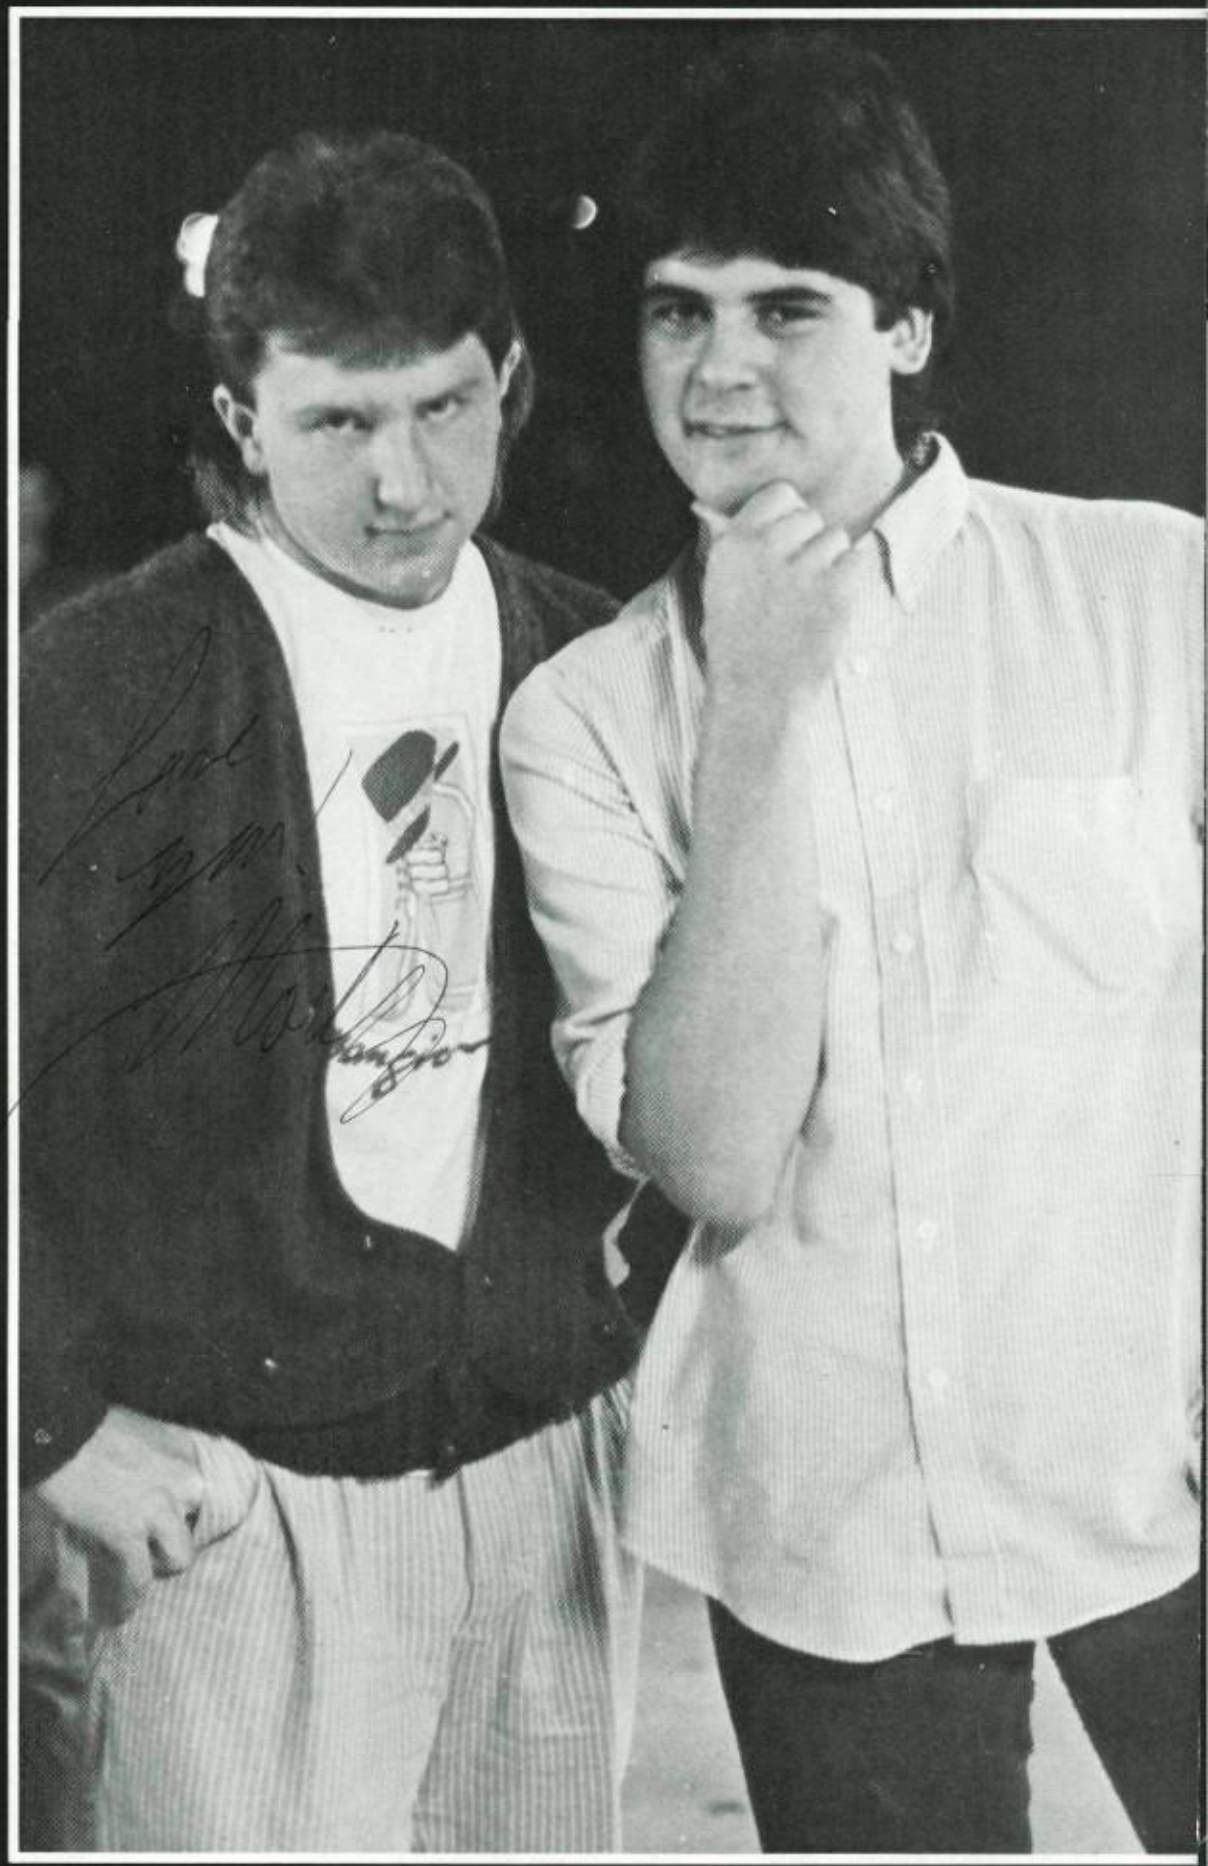
The class of 1990 made the most of their frosh year. They participated in rallies, athletics, clubs, and student council. But the freshmen still found time to achieve their goals in the classroom; like studying and doing daily homework. Although it was a slow start, during the rallies, the freshmen class demonstrated to the upperclassmen that the class of 1990 were not just ordinary freshmen, but freshmen with loads of spirit.

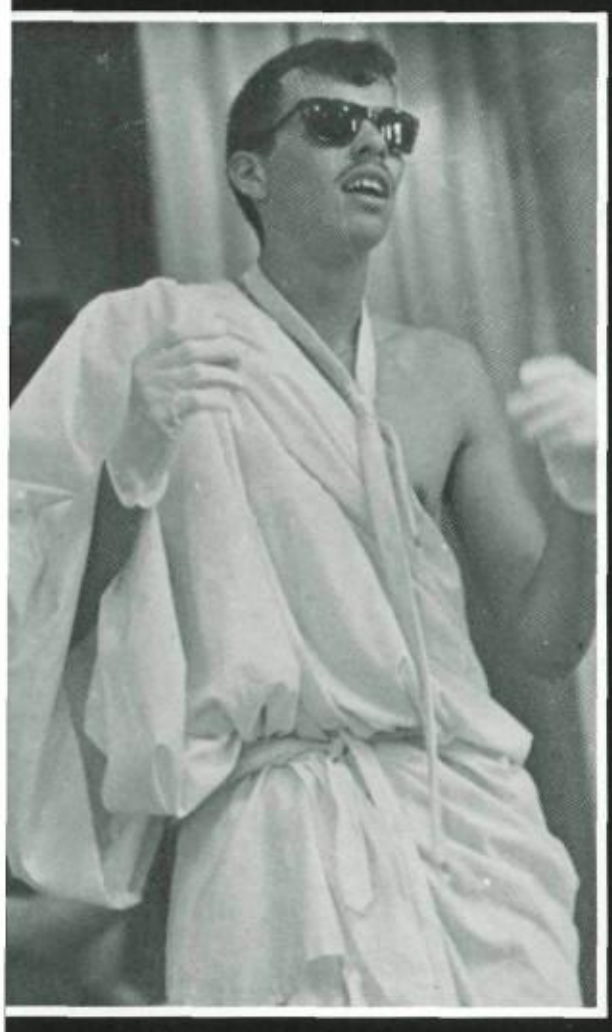
As far as athletics went their strength was apparent on both the volleyball courts and the football field. The frosh cheerleaders did a great job in raising and leading their class in spirit too.

From making the class homecoming float to supplying the frosh with funds, the student council directed their class and watched out for their best interests. The class of 1990 definitely knew when and how to have fun!!

ACTIVITIES

KELLI WESTRICK showing us her 'witchy' side. MONTY DUNBAR and CID MARTINEZ know the answers to all of the questions.





The One To Watch

GETTING INVOLVED IS THE KEY. Involvement on the SHS campus means more than classroom participation. Involvement is that part of SHS that makes school meaningful. Involvement means getting active in any one of a number of out of class (but class related) activities that compliment the hours spent in the classroom. One learns from being involved. Sanger High's approach to learning through participation is found in many aspects of the curriculum including Music, Journalism, NJROTC, MUN, Forensics and FFA among others. Through these activities, the members of the student body not only learned but were also able to put to use what they had learned through the various competitions and as a result helped to make SHS what it is . . . a school that focuses on what is best for the students and what will produce a well-rounded individual. Students, through their participation, were able to uphold the traditions and further the aims of the school. Through their active participation, the students learned how to compete and develop skills that they will be able to use throughout their lives. For those who did get involved, SHS became more than just a place to spend six hours per day. Their SHS day went much beyond the final bell at 3:03 PM and more often than not took up a considerable number of their weekend hours. It became obvious throughout the year that SHS was 'the one to watch' when it came to those activities designed to get the students involved in their school.

Homecoming Royalty 1986

All Sanger High Homecomings are memorable, but this year's homecoming was especially unforgettable because it marked the first year of a new Apache tradition: homecoming king. The priviledged first-time princes were Jim Chapa, Libby Alvarez, Jesse (Gargoyle) Saldana, Sammy Perez, and Abel Valdez. This along with all the rest of the events made the 1986 homecoming spectacular!! The climactic events took place at the homecoming dance where King Sammy Perez was crowned and when Teresa Valdez was announced 1986 homecoming queen. This year's finalists were; first runner-up, Michelle Hernandez, second runner-up, Elizabeth Elizondo, third runner-up, Chanda Buchholz, and fourth runner-up, Corina Bustamante. The evening was capped off by the Sanger Apaches defeating the Hoover Patriots 28 to 17.

Besides royal ceremonies which took place during homecoming, many activities to boost Sanger Apache spirit up until the "big night" were also a part of the action. Homecoming weeks' special dress-up days included college day, surfin'safari day, 50's day, psychedelic 60's day, and to wrap the week up, Friday was the traditional Spirit day (in which SHS'ers showed spirit by wearing red and blue). A popular activity was the air guitar contest which had a semi-talented turn out. Neck in neck, the two dominating acts were The Dudes (1st place winners) and Cut Creator (their closest competition). There was also the traditional parade of floats during the halftime show which was fabulous!! The Juniors (class of '88) came out on top this year placing first by constructing the "best float".

Halloween Masquerade

The halloween spirit flourished throughout the campus on Friday,October 31,1986. Those who did not participate in the occasion sure had a lot of fun observing the different, weird, bazaar and scary facades and costumes.

Ghouls, witches, devils and clowns — these spirits were all participants in the SHS Masquerade. It was a great turnout for the students. Teachers Sharon Strandberg, Debra Lencioni, Dennis Keran, Mike Guenon, Mike Merrill, Jim Bloesser, Dan Spence and Jeannie Oppliger got into the Halloween spirit and came in costume.

Other award winning participants were; 2nd place scariest, witch April Walker; the funniest awards placement for 1st place, Marti Gonzalez as a cheerleader, 2nd place, Diana Beltran as a voluptuous clown, and 3rd place Dawn Pearson as a gangster. We thank these and other non-winning participants for joining in the fun of Halloween this 1986-87 year.

A Warm Blast of Excitement

In the midst of our much-needed and much-deserved two weeks vacation in December, the active members of the SHS student body were involved in the traditional activities that ushered in the Christmas season. With bells on their shoes and the traditional holiday colors, the students were involved in everything from decorating classrooms, planning Christmas parties, to taking tests that the teachers decided were necessary on the day before the vacation officially began. As was a tradition, Julie Carter and her singers took their annual Trek to the Trees; while the rest of the school got involved in everything from participating in the Toyland Parade to the Band's Parent Appreciation Concert. It seemed though, that the climactic event of the 1986 Christmas season was the selection of King Sammy Perez and Queen Wendy McCarthy as this year's winter royalty. Selected by their fellow dancers, Sammy and Wendy reigned over 'Crystal Vision'. Also selected were Prince Steve Dela Cruz and Princess Sarah Wagenhalls.

A 'Pointless' Situation

Tom Flores Stadium was the scene of the annual powder puff competition between the Junior girls and the Senior women.

Students dug deep into their pockets the afternoon of March 9, 1987 in order to pay their way into the event.

The seniors held their heads high during the first play and managed to push the juniors back while gaining yardage. Encouraged by their fans, senior quarterbacks Kelly Westrick, Veronica Lopez and Krissy Tamura set off an explosive first half.

The juniors hadn't given up their struggle, though. After the half time festivities, (provided by the junior and senior cheer-clowns), the juniors made an impressive comeback. Quarterbacks Janell Odom and Tracey Gabrielson provided the turn-around needed and the crushed juniors began to take shape again.

Though both teams played exceptionally well, the lack of time evented in a no-win, no-lose situation. The final score was a flat 0-0 .

With a warm, sunny atmosphere, the Junior/Senior powder puff game set the mood and got spring week off to a great start.

Generically Speaking

Generically speaking, the night of Friday March 13th was filled with visions of black and white. Though the theme of this years backwards dance was a bit on the 'generic' side, the couples' creativity was far from plain.

Friday the 13th is generally looked upon as an unlucky evening, but the music of Charley, combined with the exuberant participation of the couples, proved this to be a night of good fortune.

As the students took the theme of the dance into their own hands, an evening of a more exciting caliber was the scene.

A strong reversal of roles was evident as the SHS women proceeded to treat their partners to a casual dinner which was capped off by a night of unforgettable memories.

The evening was made complete as Teresa Valdez and Wes Brooks were selected to reign over the Sanger High School dance go'ers as the Generic Couple.

Spring Fever Prevails

As the warm weather season once again approached the SHS campus, the members of the student council began their preparations for spring week.

March ninth through the thirteenth were reserved for the various theme days. These five days proved to be a very successful venture for those who chose to get involved.

The students were welcomed back on Monday dressed in school colors in an effort to prove their ultimate pride. They also were encouraged to root for their favorite Senior women or Junior girls in the powder-puff competition. Tuesday the students came dressed as their Hollywood favorites. Wednesday provided a beachy atmosphere as students basked in the sun. Thursday students proved their musical talents at the air guitar contest where The Dudes took 1st place. And finally, on Friday, SHS'ers showed their affection to that someone special with flowers. During Friday afternoon, the parking lot was the scene for the annual car show.

To end the active and successful Spring Week, the Generic (Backwards) Dance was held in the West Gym Friday evening.

Our Spirit Lives On

Throughout the years Sanger High has been known for the rapport that the students had and their evident pride in their school. Through the SHS rallies, the students were able to come together as a group and transfer their individual pride into Sanger High pride. The rallies were much more than a device to show the various teams that they had the support of the members of the student body. In addition, they gave the participants an opportunity to get involved and to perform during the Friday afternoon sessions. Primarily the responsibility of Rally Commissioner Lisa Faccinto and her Commission, the rallies also attracted the attention of the members of the student body (especially the dudes) who helped make this years rallies much above average. In addition to the organized events, this years rallies included the spontaneous rally led by Coach Mike Merrill (a trip to the principals office!) that proved to be the highlights of the Apache rally year.

The One To Watch

GETTING INVOLVED. Life on the SHS campus consisted of much more than routine classroom instruction. If the students were so inclined, they could compliment their classroom education by participating in everything from the special Halloween and Spring week activities to the many formals. For any mood, whether it be spirited or mild, there was an activity to suit. Activities were a way for the Sanger High School student body to let off steam and momentarily forget that listening to teachers and taking tests were essential to graduation. Through the SHS activities, the student body was able to select their royalty, raise spirit and promote their class through various competitions. Rallies were a great source of releasing inner-class competitive feelings. Chanting, singing, and participating in simulations while representing your class was one of the most spirited and encouraging activities on campus. It was not at all unusual to find SHS students sporting balloons, party hats and horns on Friday afternoons. The activities began early in September and literally didn't end until the distribution of the Echo in June. In between the first day of school and graduation, there was something for everyone including homecoming week, Christmas festivities, the Christmas formal, the Backwards dance, Spring Week and of course, the infamous SHS spirit rallies. Through common interest, the participation in activities were made manifest and complete. The various activities and the abundance of student participation made SHS 'the one to watch'.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Governing The Student Body

For the members of the 1986-87 ASB Student Council, governing the student body at SHS didn't begin with the 8:03 bell on September 3, 1986.

After several summer planning sessions, the council was deep into the school year before it even began.

Under the direction of Advisor Bob Buchanan and President Jim Chapa, activities were planned, instigated and more often than not received with open arms by the SHS student body.

The year began with the first ever MORP dance which was intended to bring the students back together for a new year. After this success, the ASB members were faced with Homecoming week and its festivities. The ASB's creativity continued with the start of a new SHS tradition: The Homecoming King. Following homecoming, the council was occupied with a variety of events including rallies, Spring Week and the Backwards Dance.

For the Student Council, the year was one full of hard work. But through time, commitment and dedication, the Student Council made SHS and all of its unforgettable activities the ones to watch.

Split Decision for Mock Trial

A Fresno County Superior Courthouse was the scene for this year's Mock Trial competition. This year's case was that of Antonio Coronel who was accused of assault with a deadly weapon during the 1850's gold rush era.

Leading the way this year for the defensive team was Hector Davila. Hector was also chosen by the judges of the mock competition as one of the best potential California attorney's.

Also participating in the defensive aspect of the trial were lawyers Troy Oliva, Hillary Yarbrough and Lisa Narvaez.

Advisor Ken Marcantonio had been preparing his Mock Trial students months before the actual competition

"I was very happy with Sangers professional approach this year. They worked very hard and deserve a lot of credit." commented Mr. Marcantonio.

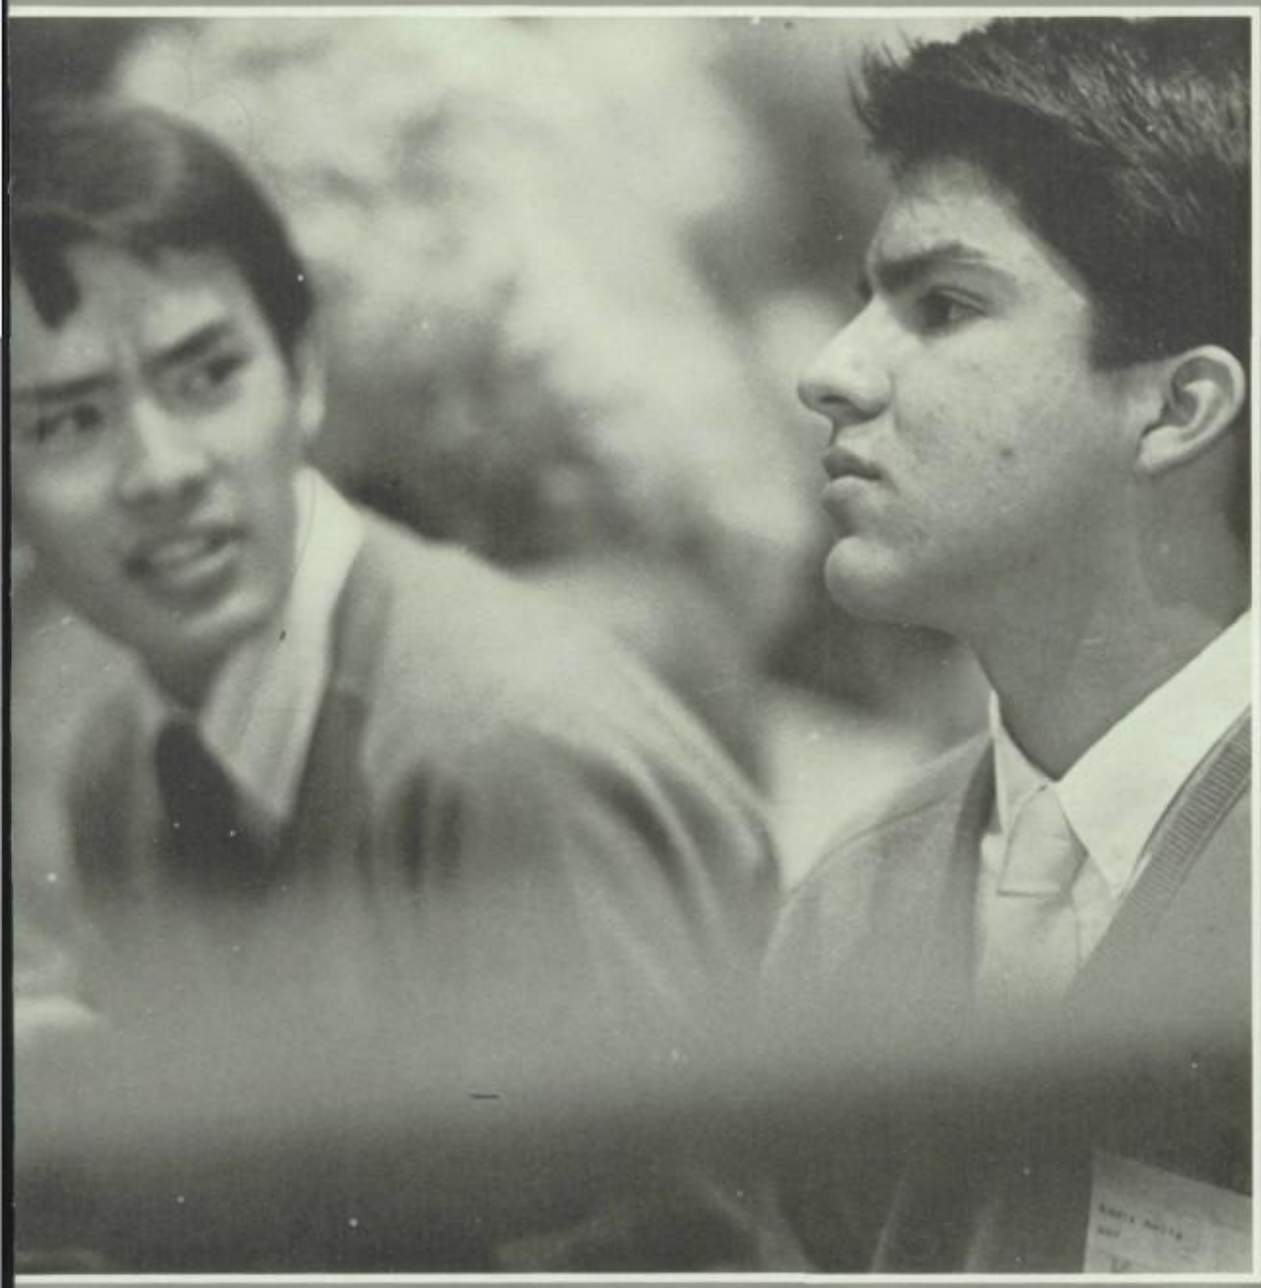
Keeping Up with the Competition



SHS's Academic Decathlon team came home with an impressive 5th place in this years Super Quiz portion of the annual Fresno County Academic Decathlon competition.

This years team, prepared by advisor Deborah Lencioni, consisted of Hector Davila and Marvin Kumashiro competing on the Honors level, Traci Fritzler and Mike Ohashi on the Scholastic team, and Eddie Avila and Mark Eytcheson on the Varsity team.

The Decathlon was held at Fresno State's Satellite Union this year. In it, students from twenty-two Fresno County schools were tested on subjects ranging from the Fine Arts to Economics.

Besides their award-winning performance in the Super Quiz, Sanger contestants also received two first place plaques, one in Interview and another in Essay as well as a second place in Social Science and a third in Math. Hector Davila placed third in Social Science and Traci Fritzler received a first in speech.

The Ultimate Chaos

The summer of '86 was the first step in the creating of the 1987 SHS yearbook. Enrollment in the summer school journalism course was required of any student who wanted to participate in the production of the 286-page history of the 1986-87 academic year. During the summer session, the students were tested on their determination and abilities; and helped Advisor Donald Peoples and Editor Lara Yakligian select this year's staff members.

Prior to any work on the Echo, the staff was engaged in all sorts of journalism-related activities including the production of the student handbook and the fall-sports program. In addition, staff members raised funds through the sale of advertisements; and even found the time to win the 'School Sweepstakes Award' at the Taylor Publishing Co. Workshop in San Rafael.

Then the work began! The first pages were assigned and work was progressing well when Mr. Peoples utilized the old heart attack routine to 'take a few months off' leaving the complete responsibility for 'getting the job done' to Lara. Despite the hard work, the frustrations and 'going at it alone', Lara and her staff of 23 students prevailed. "Our staff was dedicated and cooperative," said Lara who discovered what it was like to put out a book of this size. "We lived in room S-1!"

Lighting Up the Year

Small in membership yet large in participation adequately describes Sanger High Schools Hi-Lights staff.

The 1986-87 school year did not begin on September fourth for the Hi-Lights staff. Due to a required summer school session, preparation and training for the newspaper and the completion of both the fall sports program and the school handbook, the Hi-Lights staff was ready to cater to both SHS and the community's interests and needs.

Under the direction of Advisor Donald Peoples and Editor Larre' Sterling, the Hi-Lights staff was responsible for writing and publishing 35 issues of weekly SHS history. "It was a busy and difficult year for us," commented Larre', "but with the combined efforts of a few supportive reporters we were successful.

NJROTC

A Military Future

The Navy Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps' (NJROTC) main objective is to develop informed and responsible citizens. Another objective is to help form habits of self-discipline and to develop respect for legal authority in a democratic society.

The benefits of the ROTC are that after high school graduation, cadets who have successfully completed two years or more in the NJROTC program are qualified to enlist in the Armed Services in a higher rank and pay grade than other high school graduates.

College bound cadets receive assistance in obtaining scholarships from the military academics and through ROTC programs. The Sanger High School NJROTC program was formed in 1976 with a beginning complement of 23 cadets. Today, Sanger boasts an enrollment averaging 250-300 students. This program has successfully encouraged a high percent of student cadets to continue their education through the military and finally serve our country as officers in the Armed Forces.

Growing In Excellence

The Navy Junior Reserve Officer Training Corp. has been growing in excellence since it's debut in 1976.The NJROTC participates in many activities such as the annual Veterans Parade, Christmas Toyland Parade, Lemoore Naval Air Show, and many trips. Capt. John Nicholson leads the unit with Commander Jim Dooley, Master Chief Joe Harding and Chief Felix Esqueda by his side. This leadership resulted in Capt. Nick's group attaining a reputation as one of the best Naval high school units in the nation.

The classroom work has been varied and interesting; the field trips to Lemoore and to San Diego complimented the classroom work, and their many appearances at the parades and similar events provided the members with a sense of pride through participation. The members of the unit worked hard throughout the year and established a reputation that was envied by many organizations on campus.

The NJROTC has also moved up in their technology. They now have a computer that records dates and times of the news nationwide and all over the world at the time they happen. They also have a new video camera with a VCR to record in vivid color. The NJROTC has been and will always be "growing in excellence"!

The Cream of the Crop

The Sanger High chapter of the Future Farmers of America accomplishes the basic purpose of the organization which is to strengthen the confidence of students in themselves and in vocational agriculture. The chapter also accomplished its goal of creating an atmosphere where students would be able to make intelligent choices relative to future occupations. The thirty members of the FFA group under the supervision of Advisor Joe Cosentino were kept busy throughout the year preparing and subsequently showing their animals and horticulture projects at the various fairs and expositions. Leading the list of Sanger award winners was Mike Layne.

Speaking With Assertiveness

All one has to do to be successful is to take an above average interest in what you do and work hard. Mr. Guenon did that this year and made the Sanger High forensics program highly successful. Guenon, a first year advisor, made a committment at the beginning of the year to maintain the quality of the program that had been developed in the past. This committment meant that he, his students and assistant coach Mrs. Slone would spend most of their weekends participating in competitions throughout the state. The success of the SHS students this year was especially commendable due to the fact that most of them were underclassmen and inexperienced. Even more success is expected next year as this year's seasoned performers go to work.

Preparing for a Bright Future

Under the leadership of Secretary Generals Laney Brouwer and Yolanda Sanchez, the SHS Model United Nations program extended its reputation for excellence. Again this year, the participants led by the secretary generals and committee chairmen; Michelle Caldera, Cid Martinez, Rick Tange, Mike Woods, Lisa Narvaez, Paul Yurgal and April Walker, took their tasks seriously and more often than not returned from various conferences with major awards. MUN Advisor Tracy Terzian said,"We have an excellent group this year. We did exceptionally well at the conferences." Because of the reputation of the Sanger Conference held in the Fresno Convention Center in May, this year's event attracted delegations from more schools than any previous Sanger conference. MUN brought state and national recognition to the school through participation in the Ocean View, Harvard and Georgetown conferences.

Communicating Beyond the Class

Prior to this year it was Peer Counseling . . . now it's Peer Communication! The effect is the same: a Sanger High program that has proven its effectiveness since its inclusion in the curriculum last year. Under the direction and guidance of Mr. Buck Martin, the previously part-time program has been expanded and is now an integral part of our curriculum. This year the program ceased to be co-curricular in nature and has attained the status of a class. The program, according to Mr. Martin gives the students the opportunity to express their feelings to other students who can help them cope with their problems. "We do not counsel," said Mr. Martin. "We only discuss alternatives and the one that best helps the student is encouraged." The student makes the choice! There is a duel benefit to the program; it benefits the school in that it does cut down student stress and it also helps the members of the student body have a better feeling about themselves.

DEMETRIO FLORES concentrates in Peer Communication. ADVISOR BUCK MARTIN talks 'communication' with CORINA BUSTAMANTE. LORI VELASQUEZ, CHRISTINE KURTS and SOCORRO CISNEROS discuss steps of problem solving. DENISE CHAMPION and SOCORRO GONZALEZ seem out of place in Peer Communication: "We thought it was forensics!" JACKIE GONZALEZ listening to her advisor.

SHS Homemakers Make Their Mark

If taking pride in ones accomplishments takes up a little bit of an organization's time, Sanger High's FHA-HERO members had to reserve quite a bit of time for that purpose as they have accomplished a great deal this year. One of the most active organizations on campus, the SHS homemakers worked long and hard to develop their reputation as one of the most active and productive chapters in the State of California. The Sanger High FHA-HERO members participated in and 'took honors' at all three, including state, levels of competition. Under the leadership of President Tracy Montano, the members did work throughout the year which was hi-lighted by their winning a $300.00 prize in the vocational olympics. Advisor Virginia Ponce was pleased with the performance of her club members and stated that she was appreciative of the help and support the club received from the SHS faculty and administration. "Without the help and cooperation of everyone FHA-HERO would not survive," commented Mrs. Ponce

The Sound of Excellence

SHS both in the past and in the present has always received outstanding recognition in every program on campus. The SHS vocal music department is no exception.

Throughout the year, Sanger High's choir, under the direction of Julie Carter, has shown their hard work and ambition by performing 'superior' shows all over the valley. This year, the Chamber Singers traveled to concerts at Fresno Pacific College and Stockton. Whether they performed in the surrounding area or out of the Valley, they always performed with undeniable excellence.

The dedication devoted to the music program by both the members and Advisor Julie Carter proved that the SHS Vocal Department was the one to watch during the 1986-87 year.

BAND

The Ones To Listen For

Sanger High School's musical department: a comprisal of three separate brands of SHS tradition and excellence.

Under the skilled and expertise direction of Band Director Bill Jaime and Assistant Director Jerry Rose, the SHS Marching Band and its components were polished in every aspect of performance.

The SHS Marching Band took first place at the Selma Band Competition and they, along with the Jazz Band and Cadet Band managed to receive superior ratings at competitions and performances throughout the Valley.

The members of the SHS Marching Band were also examples of Sangers' constant pride at the annual Veteran's Day Parade and at the Toyland Parade.

From September to June, it was obvious that all three bands were serious-minded and competition conscious as they continued to prove that they were the ones to listen for.

BAND AND CHOIR

That's Entertainment!!

Superiority has always been the goal for the SHS music department. Along with this goal comes performances and entertainment that prove the obvious talent of the participants. The talent of the SHS band and choir members is unsurpassed.

With the help of instructors Bill Jaime and Julie Carter, members of the music department are given the opportunity to perform and excell in their musical careers.

Throughout the many performances given by band and choir, a certain pride is reflected in the hard work and dedication that goes into each program. Because of this pride, SHS's musical department provides excellent performances and more often than not receives superior ratings.

A combination of dedicated intructors and students helps to make the SHS music department a regular part of SHS's standard of excellence.

Highlights for the SHS Band

Though it's known that the SHS Marching Band is one of the best in the San Joaquin Valley, it would not be complete without the complimentary SHS Apache Princesses.

The Apache Princesses managed to make the band outstanding and attractive. But this, along with their quality performances, were made possible by the long hard hours of practice that were put in over the summer and during the year.

The Princesses performed at football half-time shows, rallies and parades including the Toyland Parade and the Selma Parade where they earned excellent ratings. They also received a first place rating in the Veterans Day Parade in Fresno.

Throughout the year, the Princesses displayed their devotion and pride in their many performances. They worked hard throughout the 1986-87 year and proved that they were the ones to watch.

Voice Of The Apaches

This year the spirit squads jumped into another exciting and successful season with enthusiasm. The fall semester brought endless practices, football games and basketball games. The 1986-87 cheer and pep squads clearly displayed enthusiasm and school spirit. The squads worked together to help raise the Apache spirit and build Apache pride. In addition to painting signs and performing at rallies, the squads were also Guardian Angels to the football players. The pep squads entered in various competitions including those held at Clovis and Mission San Jose. The Sanger High JV and Frosh cheerleaders did their thing throughout the year in promoting the pride and spirit of Sanger High. Performing throughout the year, the 1986-87 squads worked hard and provided spirit and enthusiasm that attracted the attention of the audience. From the first football game through the final basketball game, the squads worked together to promote Apache spirit and to display the enthusiasm that cheerleading requires. ACADEMICS

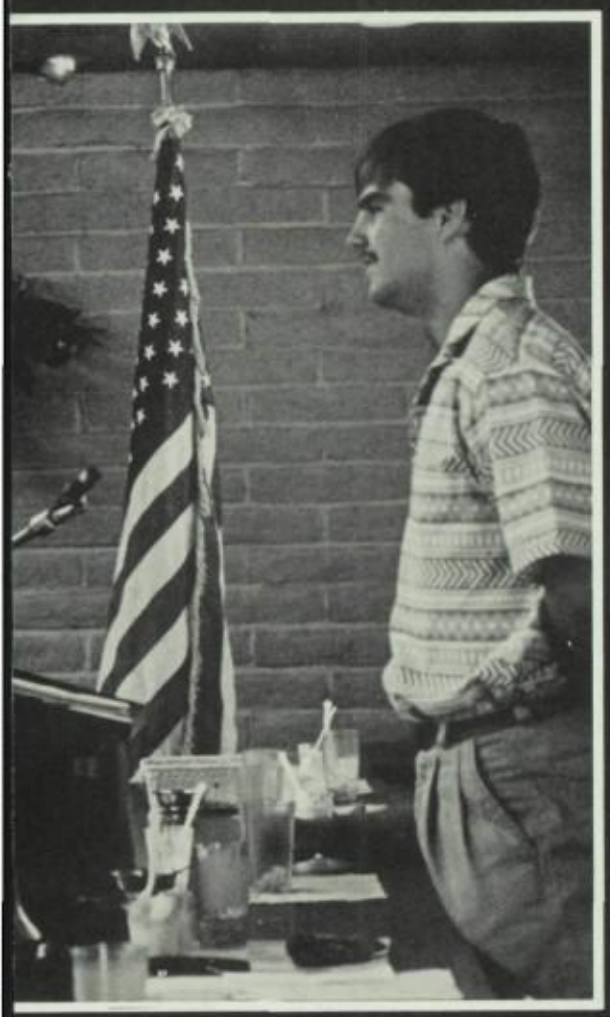
TRACI FRITZLER talks about her experience at Camp Royal. Valedictorian SCOTT McCABE proudly accepts PRINCIPAL SCHILLER'S congratulations.



The One To Watch

To many Sanger High School students, the mere word 'academics' meant piles of homework and hours of studying. Hours of intense concentration were spent studying from the time the average SHS student got home from school until it was time for bed. But there were also those SHS students who got into the habit of starting their homework the period before it was due.

Although it was difficult to realize at the time, Sanger academics represented the future for SHS students. Whether their future meant going to college or joining the work-force, it was more than obvious that SHS students wanted to succeed. Regardless of all of the extra-curricular activities that each student participated in, Sanger High's reputation for excellence and tradition encouraged students to continue to work for the future. With the continual support of SHS administration, faculty and above all, friends, SHS students spent time in pursuit of higher grades.

Although the common feelings about SHS academics by the students was that they were not the most important and enjoyable aspects of school life, the majority of SHS students were deeply aware of the fact that they were building the foundations which would ultimately control their lives.

Those students who chose to be an intregal part of SHS academics made the most of their priorities. And those who chose to watch from the side-lines seemed to also make the most of their year. But from September to June, the students and their educations were undoubtedly the ones to watch.

Academics

Scott, Laurie and Landon

The most significant accomplishment that a high school student can attain is to be named the valedictorian of class. Scott McCabe, Laurie Torres and Landon Westerlund, after following a very tough course of study, emerged v perfect grade point averages of 4.0 and share the Valedictorian distinction. The top 25 students with GPA's between 4.0 3.5 led the 400 members of the class in the academic side of SHS. They cared and consequently they learned.

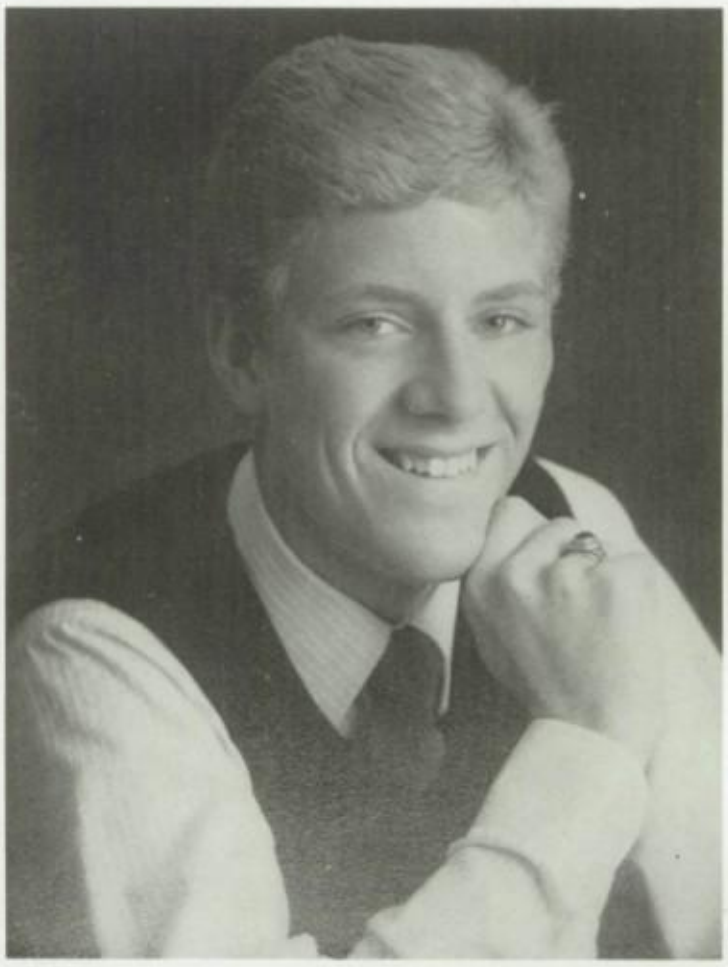
Academics

Bank of America

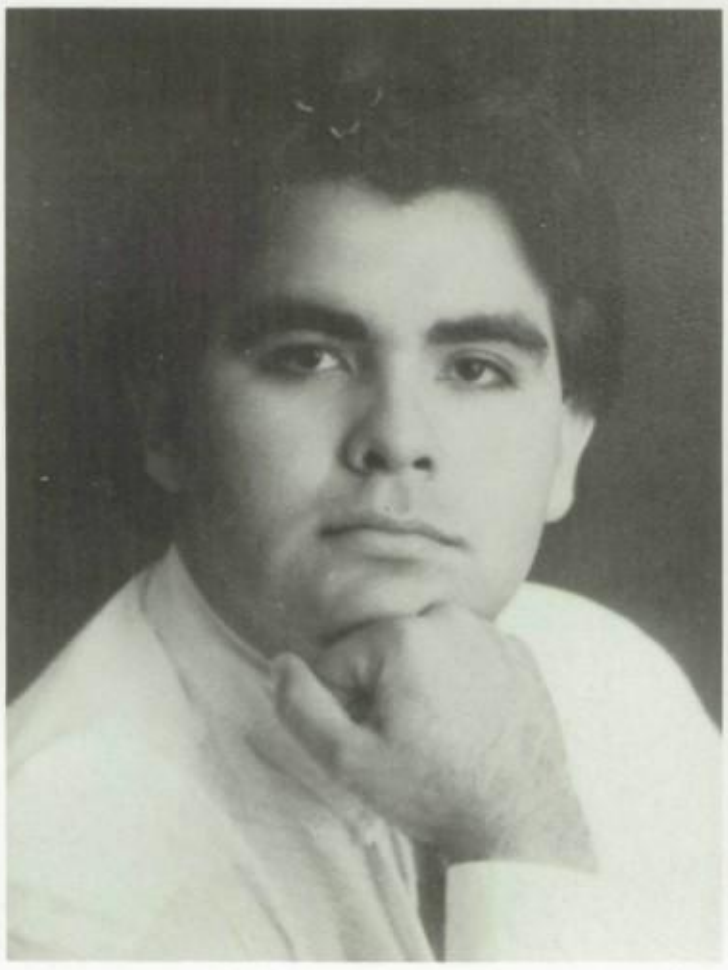
The Bank of America Achievement Awards Program has developed into one of the most comprehensive and highly respected student awards programs in the nation. It started in 1948 for Los Angeles area high schools and has been a part of SHS for over twenty-five years. This program was established for the sole purpose of recognizing and honoring outstanding high school seniors. The awards are given to students selected in 13 specific academic fields and to four students in the general academic fields.

Dcott McCabe, a CSF life member and valedictorian, has led a busy life throughout his four years of attendance at SHS. Awarded the Math and Science plaque for B of A, Scott has hopes for an engineering major at one of many UC and State colleges. "Receiving the plaque was a surprise which made me feel proud and very honored." Scott has been involved in the Academic Decathlon team, Student Government and various sports that have earned him four varsity letters.



Sayahna Rogers has been an integral part of the SHS music department throughout her four years here. She was, for this reason, chosen to receive the Fine Arts plaque. Dayahna plans to attend Fresno City College then eventually transfer to UC Northridge to pursue a major in drama and music. She is hoping to work in the performing arts field in the future. Dayahna received the Distinguished American High School Student award and a creative writing award. She was featured as a jazz and oboe soloist and directed the Childrens Playhouse. She also served as an MDA counselor and co-ordinator.

Hector Davila, recipient of the Liberal Arts plaque has been a very successful SHS student in both academics and co-curricular activities. Hector's long-term plans include possible residency in a foreign country and possible membership in the Peace Corps. Beyond his plaque award, Hector was the winner of the Mock Trial Achievement award, Bausch & Lomb Science award and has received scholar letters.



Bryan Whitfield, a two year varsity Golf and two year CSF member, was named the best senior in the Applied Arts area. After graduating, Bryan hopes to continue his career in the Arts. Bryan is planning to attend San Diego State University where he will pursue a career in electronics. "I think it's an honor and a pleasure to receive this plaque," commented Bryan.

Perfect for a Year

These are the 'smart kids'! Based on their performance during the 1985-86 academic year, each of these studen excelled in the classroom as they maintained perfect 4.0 GPA's last year. Leading the list of scholars were valedictorian Scott McCabe, Landon Westerlund and Laurie Torres. This was their third appearance on this list as they had never receive a grade lower than an 'A'. In the classroom is where it's at. No one knows it better than these twenty-seven super students.

Test Masters/NJROTC's Best

PSAT/NMSQT NEDT Scholars

Not everyone scores well on standardized tests, but THESE students apparently have no problem with them. Based on their performaces on the PSAT/NMSQT or the NEDT exams, these SHS'ers demonstrated 'way above' average abilities in the various academic disciplines. If test scores predict success-these scholars are headed for success.

NJROTC's Best

Maria Cerda named Nation's best cadet

She is not only the best in Sanger High and in the state and region . . . she's the best in the nation. An impressive academic record that includes a 4.0 GPA, coupled with a very impressive co-curricular activity list, led to NJROTC cadet Maria Cerda being selected as the Nations best High School cadet. "She is a fantastic individual who is a credit to herself, her school and her community," commented Captain John Nicholson.

The One To Watch

LEARNING OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM. In addition to sports, the focal point of Sanger High's outside of class activities during the 1986-87 school year was found in the SHS clubs. As a means of strengthening what has been learned in the classroom, SHS developed an organization of clubs that catered to the many and varied interests of the students. There was a group for each one of the more than 1600 students who made up this years student body. No one was eliminated from club participation unless he chose not to participate. There were academic as well as social clubs; class-related as well as community oriented clubs; and even special-interest clubs. There indeed was something for everyone. For the academically inclined, it was CSF. For the class-related, the members of MUN, Journalism, FFA, FHA-HERO or Forensics could increase their involvement by participating in the club portion of the activity. If community involvement was important, SHS'ers could participate in the Hi-Y or Tri-Hi-Y groups. If athletics and religion was of interest to an SHS'er, FCA was available. Throughout the year, the participants oftentime made the news because of their club activity. The competitions in Journalism, FHA-HERO, MUN and Forensics were more often than not dominated by Sanger groups. The non-participants simply did not want to participate. Through the social aspects of participating in the various clubs, the students learned to work together for a common goal. Most often the goals were met. The students in the clubs were the 'ones to watch' this year.

The One To Watch

THRILL AND FRUSTRATION. No two single words could be found that describe the world of Sanger High sports this year. The thrill was there throughout the year as in each sports season, there seemed to be that one special team to watch. A new coach brought his Southern California brand of football to Sanger High and set a tone of seriousness that prevailed throughout the year. Sanger High squads in volleyball and waterpolo made the news in the fall as their records led to valley playoff participation. From there it was on to the winter sports season comprised of basketball, wrestling and soccer. Leading the way during the cold winter months was boys basketball. This team could play with anyone, and under second year coach Del Beshore, the Apaches became the team to beat in the early season tournaments and the North Yosemite League. Spring ushered in the fair weather sports and spring fever didn't seem to dampen the enthusiasm of Sanger High participation. The 1986-87 SHS sports year featured activities in both boys and girls competitions and the number of teams made athletics available to every student. Throughout the year, SHS athletes were included on the all-league and all-metro squads. The support of the community was again very evident in each sport. The 'Sanger crowds' followed the squads and more often than not outnumbered the home-town fans. It was obvious that SHS was the 'one to watch' this year in San Joaquin Valley athletics.

A Season of Promise

A brand new year with a brand new coach. Sanger High School's varsity football team started off the season with a win against Reedley High School. Sanger's season wasn't too successful; but it was a promising one. The team defeated some of their most important opponents. Homecoming night the Apaches beat the Hoover Patriots 26-14. They also triumphed Sanger's long time rival, Clovis West.

At the fall sports banquet Coach Nitta expressed his feelings toward Sanger's football program. "The football program at Sanger High School is well supported by it's community and student body." "It is the team that makes the program what it is; each player is a unique part of our family." Nitta also commented on the player's great effort and desire to win.

. . . PROMISE

Landon Westerlund and Tom Rowe, Co-Captains, were commended for their sportsmanship and playing. Jim Tod won the coaches award and the workman's compensation award. (He broke Coach Tucker's nose) Mario Ramirez (sack specialist) was another recipient of the coaches award. Robert Hernandez was awarded the Most Inspirational. Eddie Morales with 53 tackles won most outstanding defense. The most improved player was Mitch Farmer.

The 1986 Sanger Junior varsity football team ended the season with a win record that topped its loss record. The win/loss record of 6 wins and 4 losses was a better overall record than the varsity and freshmen teams. Each coach commented on the good season but they focused more on the determination and sportsmanship of each player. It was a season of struggling but next year the coaches are anticipating an outstanding season.

. . . Promise

The Freshmen Warriors didn't have quite the same record as the J.V. but they did develop many new skills, Their record of 1 win and 9 losses proved to be a morale builder instead of an oppression. Coach Christopher believes in each of these young men. "Next year will be a winning season for this group of players." "They are a great bunch of young men who give 100% at all times," commented Christopher.

The Golden Spike

Volleyball

Along with the excellent coaching of Cathy Padilla and her assistant Stacy Kunishige, the 1986 Varsity Volleyball team had a season to remember.

The girls left a mark at Sanger High with one of the best records ever, and also a spot in the divisional championship playoffs. The varsity volleyball team placed second in the NYL after a long, hard playoff with Hoover High school Varsity volleyball team.

With the outstanding performances by Karen Cucuk and Michelle Gustin, the Apaches were led to many victorious games throughout the season. They defeated Clovis and Clovis West during the season. Veronica Gonzalez was recognized for being the best offensive player while Debbie Pearce was recognized as best defensive. Coach Padilla recognized many other individuals for their unique offense and defense abilities, as well as the inspiration many of the girls shared, which helped them through their joys and sorrows.

. . . Spike

The Sanger Junior Varsity volleyball team finished their season with 8 wins and 5 losses. The special games of the season were played with Clovis West and Bullard. "The girls played fantastic and showed their outstanding skills," said Coach Kathy Hushek. Coach Hushek evaluated her team and told us about her most valuable players. The best back row players were Mary Ann Valdez and Dena East. The best front row player was Mirella Medina. The most improved player was Monica Torres. Two players, Marci Garza and Shannon Koontz, were awarded with most inspirational.

The Freshmen volleyball team had a fresh start during the 1986 season. Their new coach, Kerry Steitz, led them to victorious season. During the season they had to play most of the teams twice. The first time around they beat every team but the second time around they lost to most of the teams. The girls that started out each game were Doreen Silva, Kathy Isom, Kolleen Hill, Stacy Rodriguez, Tracy Lanning and Kim Cairns.

Going The Distance

Cross Country

The pounding of feet and the pain of sore muscles was a noticable aspect of the Boys and Girls Cross Country teams. As the season got underway, the sigh of victory became a common feeling among the Varsity as well as the JV teams.

Attendance of practices up to the time on the clock was improved and kept up throughout the season. The Girls team placed fourth in the NYL and eleventh in the Valley. The Boys team also placed fourth in the NYL and was one of the top ten teams in the Valley.

Through much work and effort, the Cross Country teams were able to make their mark on the 1986 season. They continued to place highly in every competition and race that they attended.

"Going the distance" was the theme used to describe the outstanding year of the Varsity teams, as they proved their determination and stamina that was evident throughout all of their performances.

Agony, dedication and the will to win are only a few aspects displayed by the Freshmen-Sophomore Cross Country team. Leading the way was Jack Sample along with his inspirational teammate, Robert Rodriguez. Among the team, each individual was as important as the next but only a few were commended with awards by Coach Dodson. The most improved runner was Robert Uyemura. He also received the coaches award. The team placed second at Atascadero and Soquel Invitationals. Each runner was well trained and did the best to their ability. The team placed eighth at the Kern County Invitational. Mr. Dodsen commented on his Freshman-Sophomore team. "Each meet was important because the runners learned something beneficial that would help them in the long run." Mr. Dodsen feels that next year the team will improve their strengths and weaknesses.

A Game of Depth

Waterpolo

Waterpolo at Sanger High School is becoming a more popular sport. Although the team was led by Mark Wallin, Jim Service and Chris Wallin, the team couldn't have functioned without each team member. They worked together as a team; helping each other out. Together they got the job done and played their best. Ole Olson, Coaches Award winner, was a perfect example. Coach Dave Hasegawa commented, "Olson attended practice every day and always helped out his team mates." Paul Yurgal, another recipient of the Coaches Award, was commended for his hard work and dedication also. Mark Wallin, MVP for his third year, led the team in scoring. He has already scored over 350 goals during his three seasons playing for SHS.

Through much training and effort, the Varsity Waterpolo team attended the Divisional Play-offs in which they were able to defeat two of the major valley waterpolo teams.

. . . Depth

With a record season of 6 wins and 3 losses, the JV Water Polo team had an excellent year despite the fact that many inexperienced players were on the team. There were less than 10 experienced players on the 1986 team. Coach Sean Stumbaugh taught the plays and rules of the game to each individual. The team learned the 'tricks' of water polo at their first tournament at Mount Whitney.

Robbie McCabe led the scoring for the junior varsity water polo team but without the help of Ulysses Garza he nor anyone else could have scored. Garza assisted almost every goal scored. Allesandra Balli was another lead scorer. First year player, Roger Williams and Dennis Blagg, learned a great deal as deep and shallow end goalies.

A Championship Season

Basketball

Something definitely happened this year as far as Apache basketball was concerned. They were not, as the Fresno Bee said, the dormats of the North Yosemite League. In fact from game one, the Apaches led by Junior Tom Bruner, gave notice that they were one of the 'teams to beat' in the NYL. In early-season tournament play, Sanger Kiwanis tourney MVP and HIT all-star Bruner led the squad to the championship game in the Kiwanis event and three out of four wins in the prestigious Fresno Holiday tournament. Coach Del Beshore developed a cohesive unit that showed strength at each position with starters Tom Bruner, Ruben Perez, Keith Daddino, Demetrio Flores and Mark Eytcheson. Coming off the bench (and sometimes taking the starting slot) with fine performances were Mike Buckler and Ken Hockersmith. Described as a big, aggresive and hustling squad, Beshore and his Apaches restored respectability to the SHS basketball program.

. . . SEASON

During the 1986-87 basketball campaign, the SHS Braves gave notice that the success the varsity had this year would continue into the future. The Braves, led by Ty Hansen and Nick Picchi on offense; and Kenny Western, Ricky Olivarez and Mike Ainger on defense, played well their first game and continued throughout the season. Hansen was the scoring leader followed by Picchi. The top rebounder for Coach Tony Velasquez was Ainger. Described as 'small but quick' the squad utilized the fast-break method of play.

Although small, Coach Mike Merrill's Warriors were fast and Hard working. While learning the fundamentals of high school basketball, the Warriors also found the formula for winning games. Starting for Merrill throughout the season were Andy Alvarado, Dennis Daddino, Graham Estep, Joaquin Rodriguez and Mike Tejada. Defensively, the squad was led by Daddino as the leading rebounder. The scoring stars were led by Alvarado and Tejada.

Taking it to the Hoop

The pounding of leather against wood, the shriek of shoes stopping and starting; the cheering of the crowds, and the groan of disappointment were only a few of the sounds heard during each of the games played by Coach Roy Tanimoto and his fighting female Apaches. One of the top sports programs at Sanger High, the members of the 1986-87 squad continued the tradition of having a successful season. No single player dominated this year's squad. Game after game, a different player seemed to have emerge as the top scorer or the top defensive playėr. Michelle Gustin (Reedley Tourney all-star), Karen Cucuk, Veronica Gonzalez and Renee Schneider seemed to take turns leading the scoring column. Guards Cindy Weibert and Monica Perez were the floor leaders. Coaches Tanimoto and Jim Deaver also had a 'solid bench' to call upon to relieve the starters.

. . . HOOP

Coach Joe Munoz apparently seems to be forgetting how to lose basketball games. His SHS girls again had little trouble defeating their NYL junior varsity counterparts. Again this year, Munoz stressed a strong defense. Featuring size as well as ability, the squad was led by Monica Torres, Liza Perez, Holly Vasquez, Marci Garza and Mary Ann Valdez. Because of the quality of his players, the starting unit was assisted from the bench as Dora Salas, Letitia Silva and Anna Coronado had about as much playing time.

At the Warrior level, first year coach, Stacey Kunishige, developed the frosh into one of the better squads in the league. A 'high scoring' frosh squad, was led by starters Doreen Silva, Annie Lovett, Kathy Isom, Tracy Lannings and Kiley Fox. The scoring leaders were Isom and Lovett. Coming off the bench and contributing in each contest were Maria Neri, Tanya Frech and Corina Rojas.

Getting Their Kicks

Soccer

The Sanger boys soccer team went through a tough season this year. Coach Garza's 1987 squad had the talent to capture many victories but they just didn't have the determination. They ran a hard defense but had the lack of a powerful offense. During their games there was hardly a time when either Sanger or their opponent could score. Although both the offense and defense worked together throughout the game there were a couple of standouts on the field. When the team scored Randy Dorsey, Oscar Salinas, Jim Chapa, and Mark Case took the lead in gaining points. On defense Joel Munoz, Landon Westerlund and Craig Miyamoto were outstanding. Mike Padilla, goalie, blocked many penalty kicks and saved many goals against Sanger. The boys soccer team lost many valuble seniors but the junior varsity members will prove to be just as valuble. The Sanger High school program will be one of the best in the valley.

Alive and Kicking

Soccer

This was the best year yet for the Sanger High girl's varsity soccer squad as their win-loss record improved greatly over previous years. The skill of several members of the squad was evident throughout the season and although there were individual 'stars' in each contest, it was a team-effort that produced the wins. Offensively Coach John Molano's squad was led by right wing Cindy Molano and halfback Lee Molano who were one-two in the scoring column this year. Both were noted for their unselfish play and also led in the assist category. The defensive standouts on the 1986-87 squad were halfbacks Melissa Scott, Kara Baird and fullback Margaret Aguilar. These talented players were effective at stopping the opponents and'keeping the Apaches in every contest.' With the wins came a new spirit in Sanger High Soccer. "The early-season wins gave the girls the confidence they needed," commented Coach Molano.

. . . KICK

The female soccer players at the junior varsity level were faced with the task of 'breaking in a new coach.' Coach Joe Morales brought in a new brand of Sanger High girls soccer. As the season progressed the squad was led defensively by sweeper Desiree Rodriguez and goalie and fullback Kristi Pol. The offensive standouts were Joelle Bruce and Kathryn Vantress.

1986-87 J.V. An Individual Effort

Wrestling

First year coach Robert Juarez had the necessary number of wrestlers but because several of them were seeking spots in the same weight class, the SHS varsity wrestling squad had to give away points at each meet due to forfeits because of a lack of wrestlers in a particular class. Max Perez, Xavier Uresti, Shawn Allison and Bryan Katuin led the under-manned, underclass squad throughout the season. Not only were the wrestlers inexperienced, they were also young. Allison and Perez were the only 'returners' who led the way for the newcomers. The Apaches were never intimidated and as the season progressed, improvement was evident.

The Junior Varsity Wrestling squad was opposite the varsity due to the fact that they didn't have enough wrestlers to fill all of the weights. This, coupled with inexperience, made it a long-season for the squad members. Leading the way in the win-loss column were Paul Warren and Daniel Licon.

Extra Innings

Baseball

At the beginning of the season, Varsity Baseball Coach Steve Teel warned that he was carrying a few aces up his sleeve. By the end of the season, his warning proved true.

Although Teel had two setbacks with the loss of pitcher Mike Perez and catcher Abel Valdez, he felt these alterations made the whole team more competitive.

With the all-around good qualitites of Eddie Morales, Matt Vasques, Mark Case and Landon Westerlund, the team had an outstanding season. The 8 returning lettermen provided depth in every position.

Taking turns on the mound, Jeff Weber, Mitch Farmer, Larry Bohannon, Darcy Hernandez and Morales each performed up to their potential.

Defensively, the team was strong up the middle with Vasques, Morales, Case and Mike Buckler behind the plate. The powerful hitters distributed throughout the team along with the outstanding field performances created a successful year.

Innings . . .

A few years of experience and a good attitude were only a few of the building blocks that supported Coach Tony Velasquez and his Junior Varsity Baseball team.

Commended for their excellent fielding, hitting and all around playing abilities were Jeff Wise, George Pena, Steve De La Cruz and Juan Gonzalez. Pena and Gonzalez also were recognized as having the traits of supportive team members. The team consisted of juniors and freshmen as well as sophomores.

First year status was gained for both Coach Merril and his freshmen baseball players. While Merril learned to enhance his coaching techniques, he also taught his players the tricks and strategies of the game. "We have a good nucleus for the upcoming years," commented Coach Merril.

The teams pitching tended to be the key for winning the ball games. The players also proved good speed on the basepaths and were strong behind the plate. The team was led by infield players Andy Alvarado and Matt Karle.

Outstanding In The Field

Softball

Sanger High School Softball quickly rose from a prep softball dormat to a team that was a contender in the upper crest of the North Yosemite League this season. The team took one game at a time and it paid off for the 1987 Softball team. The Apaches were armed and loaded this season with 15 top players, 10 of which were letterwinners from last season. Second year coach Stacy Kunishige commented that the team was strong defensively as well as offensively with no weaknesses.

Leading the team were sisters Holly and Cindy Weibert who also led the valley in pitching. Teresa Valdez, MVP, was a top hitter and fielder. In the infield were second baseman, Gloria Galvan, shortstop, Christine Munoz, and the leader, catcher Monica Perez. The outfield was led by Centerfielder Debbie Pearce. With great enthusiasm assistant coach Kerry Steitz said, "It was a great season!"

Field . . .

As an all-around coach in boys baseball, football and girls basketball, Coach Joe Munoz gave Junior Varsity Softball a shot and made a successful season.

The combination of experienced and inexperienced players was a definate challenge for Munoz, but with the hustle and drive of the 5 freshmen, 12 sophomore member team, success was inevitable. Many of Munoz' players often played on the varsity level. Throughout the year, the key to wins and losses was the pitching of Letitia Silva and Holly Vasques. Other factors for the team were their strong outfield, speed on bases, strong hitters and the good 'arms' of the infield. The only definate weakness was the teams defensive plays in the infield, such as, coverage of the bases and being aware of the location of their opponents.

Leading the outfield this year were Joelle Bruce, Marcie Garza, and Shea Greeson. The strong player in the infield was Monica Torres.

On The Right Track

Track

Veteran coach Dave Dodson had a small team this season but they were hard workers and very dedicated to running. The lack in numbers was due to the accidents in track and field throughout the season. Coach Dodson predicted that his athletes could possibly be state-caliber.

Leading Coach Dodson's Varsity Boys team in distance running were Peter Garcia, Jose Hurtado and George Zepeda. In the high jump/triple jump categories, Marvin Rosseau and Travis Gray made their mark. While the team captains Tom Rowe and Micheal Perez competed in the shot put, discus, 800m, 400m, and the triple jump. The team ended strong in weights led by J.B. Quigley but weak in the sprint categories.

This years Girls Track Team seemed to lack in numbers. Although the girls who did participate were very talented and excelled in their events, the great need for players did damage the team.

Track . . .

Coach Dodson found his most valuble members in the distance running and relay events. Both Lydia and Teresa Ruiz took the lead in the long distance running. While Molly Dowis led in middle-distance running.

Dowis, Stephanie Vantress and Regina Saldivar were top runners in the relay competition. Dowis and Saldivar also competed in the hurdles.

Senior Michelle Gustin, school record setter in shot-put and top discus thrower, also played an important part on Coach Dodson's squad.

Though Dave Dodson had been coaching track for 23 years, another small challenging team came about this year.

There were many factors against the 1987 squad. A lack of participants in the long jump, triple jump and high jump caused the team to forgo many competitions. The team also lacked athelete's in the sprint competitions, but everything considered, the freshmen/sophomore team kept the pace and did well in distance events.

George Zepeda set the pace in distance running, while Jim Tod did the same for shot-putting. Another leader was pole vaulter and hurdler Brian Christianson.

MICHELLE GUSTIN placing first in her discus throw. LUPITA NERI leading the pack in the 800.

Super-sprinter SCOTT KANAWYER getting the edge on McLane.

Captain MIKE PEREZ striding his way to a win. KARI WESTRICK struggling to get first in the 400. PETER GARCIA leading GEORGE ZEPEDA and ISAAC NARANJO in the two mile. TRAVIS GRAY skying to place first in the high jump.

Dedicated Service

Tennis

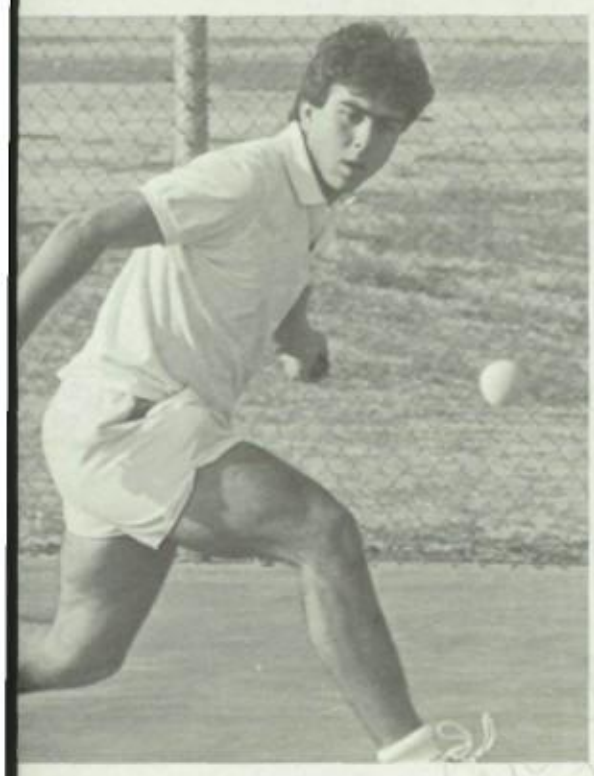
Returning this season as the top players in their sport were Ken Hockersmith, Bruce Stever, Dale Pittman, and Matt Peters. Number one ranked player Hockersmith led the team with experience and maintained the league title as a top singles player. The senior letterman on the team was Jay Garcia along with Joel Munoz, also a senior.

Coach Sergio Mendoza commented that the talent of the young varsity squad was a definite asset. "What they lack in experience, they make up with their performances on the courts." He also added, "They are like fine wine, they get better with age."

Other top players included Fabian Uresti, Rob McCabe, and frosh Chris Spangler.

The JV tennis team was made up of few members. With only three JV players to the team, the inexperienced members were not able to excell greatly.

DALE PITTMAN following through with a backhand stroke. JOEL MUNOZ preparing a forehand ground stroke.



KEN HOCKERSMITH slamming a forehand for a return. MATT PETERS using his forehand while returning a shot. BRUCE STEVER hitting a ground stroke in an Apache contest. JOEY GARCIA following through with a top-spin.

DALE PITTMAN bracing for a backhand smash.

Net Gains and Losses

Tennis

A new coach was on the premisis of the courts for the 1987 Girls tennis team. Coach Cheryl Sloan replaced long-time coach Jack Ainger and continued to prove SHS's excellence on the courts.

Sloan welcomed back three letterwinners and a mixture of experienced and inexperienced players. Frosh Emi Ashida and Wendy McNab excelled to the varsity level in the early stages of the season.

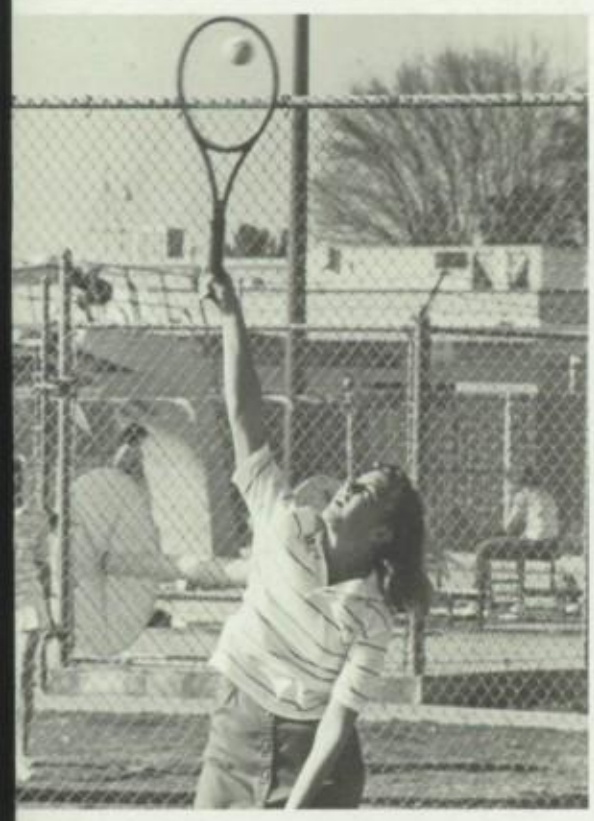
Junior Mirella Medina kept her number one slot on the team while juniors Kelly McKitrick and Sarah Wagenhalls filled the second and seventh varsity positions.

Number three player Larre' Sterling and number five player Setsumi Kawamoto were the only returning seniors.

A fresh season, a fresh coach and a fresh start described the '87 season for the Girls JV tennis team. Many team members were beginner players, but they, along with the veteran players kept an enthusiastic attitude throughout the season.

MIRELLA MEDINA getting set to return an overhead shot. LARRE' STERLING slamming a ground stroke.

EMI ASHIDA returns a blazing backhand stroke. HEIDI ALLEN using her forehand for an ace shot. MIRELLA MEDINA cruising to an easy victory against Fresno. KELLY MCKITRICK demonstrating her serve to a Clovis opponent.



1986-87 VARSITY GIRLS TENNIS: Row 1. Sarah Wagenhalls, Emi Ashida, Wendy McNab. Row 2. Setsumi Kawamoto, Mirella Medina, Larre' Sterling, Kelly McKitrick, Theresa Ketchum.

Always Up to Par

Golf

A new coach, new practice conditions, an almost entirely new lineup, well, the picture had been painted. All of which formulated a new situation for the SHS golf squad. Coach Spence welcomed back three lettermen from last season and had the best over-all turnout for the sport in school history. "We had a lot of kids out there, but most of them have never played before," commeted Spence.

The Apaches top returner was Brigham Beatie who shot 43 strokes per nine holes. Other letterwinners from last year were senior Jim Roberts and sophomore Tony Schumacher.

Spence coached the JV squad along with his varsity players with the aid of Dave Christopher. During certain matches, some players were unable to play because of a shortage of opponents. But when able to play, Chris Esqueda, Ralph Luce and Kevin Ohashi led the Braves.

BRIGHAM BEATIE teeing off as the number one player for the SHS Apaches. TONY SCHUMACHER watching the ball fall to the green.

BRIAN WHITFIELD teeing off on the 9th hole. STEVE BARRETT putting on the 8th hole. RYAN CLASSEN finishing up his last hole with a birdie.

A Splashing Success

Swimming/Diving

With six years of experience behind him, Varsity swim Coach Dave Hasegawa promised a good future for the SHS teams.

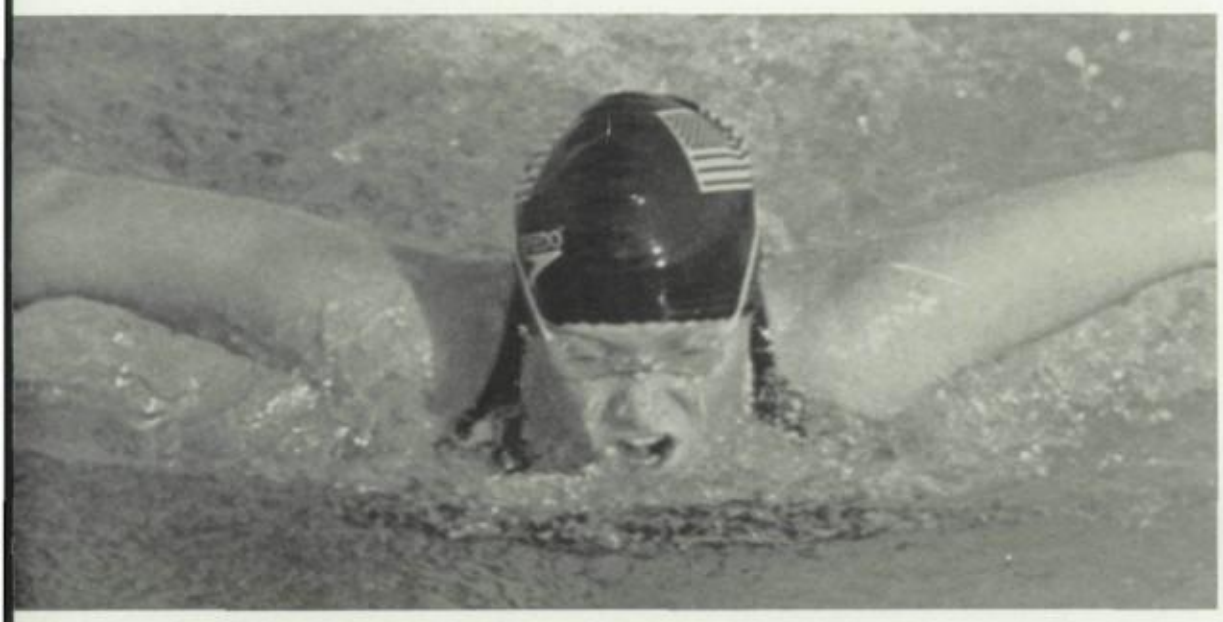
The team leaders throughout the year were Jim Service, Mike Ohashi, Mark Wallin (all returning members) and freshmen Chris Wallin.

Early in the season, Mark Wallin confirmed a reservation to appear in his third Central Section Swim Championship, while his brother Chris took a spot as one of the leading members because of his fast times.

Other varsity members who excelled were Junior Janell Odom, Senior Christine Caprielian and Junior Renee Schneider.

Coach Jeannie Oppliger described her diving team as a 'team of the future'. Oppliger, a new coach to Sanger High, felt very happy with the turnout and attitudes of her young squad. With only three returning letterpersons, Tracey Gabrielson, Marcie Anderson, and Tim Montgomery the team had little experience.

MARK WALLIN competing in the first heat as the number one breaststroke swimmer. Apache diver TROY HONN earning a perfect score for his inward pike.



JANELL ODOM on her way to winning the IM. ALLESANDRA BALLI finishing first in the 100 breaststroke. JIM SERVICE competing with stamina in the 500 Free. Breastroke swimmer GERI BURANEN.

Success . . .

New to the Sanger squad were Troy Honn, Prudy Rivera, and Cindy Habib who executed fine varsity performances.

The J.V. members were all new competitors in diving, but they worked hard with their athletic abilities.

Low in membership but high in spirit, summed up the 1987 J.V. Swim Team. Though the team was inexperienced, they pulled together to create a successful year.

Led by the talents of Ulysses Garza and Roger Williams, the Junior Varsity Boys Team was strong. In the Junior Varsity female division the big names for Coach Linda Gee were freshmen Kolleen Hill and Sara Vukson.

The Girls Team provided depth in each event while the Boys Team seemed to lack depth.

A Bump Ahead

Boys' Volleyball

Former Girls' JV Volleyball coach Kathy Hushek was handed thirty young men to mold into two first year volleyball teams. These teams were intended to compete with veteran teams throughout the valley and managed to hold their own during the entire season.

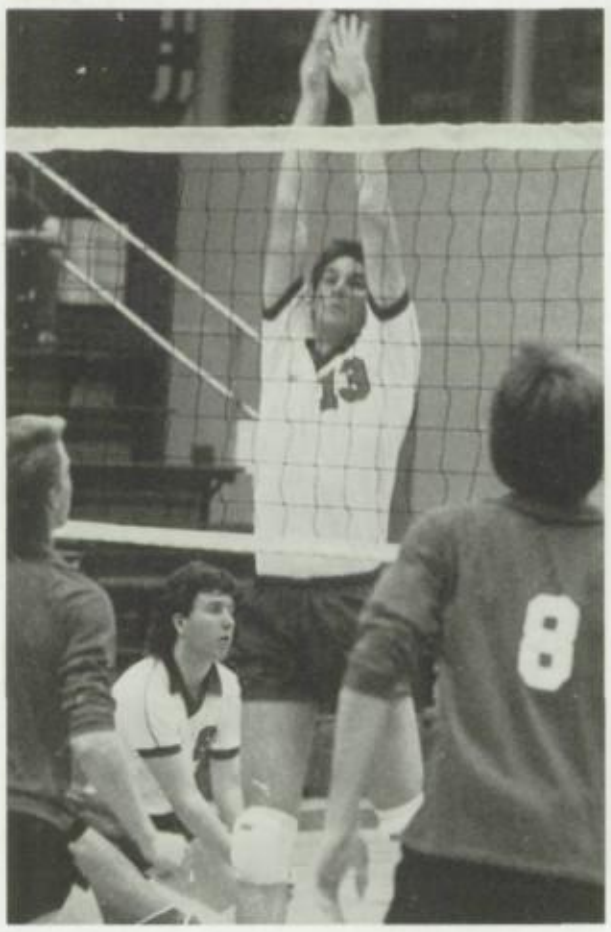
Coach Hushek taught the neccessary skills to play the game; bumping, setting and spiking. But the boys caught on quickly and improved their skills greatly by the end of the season.

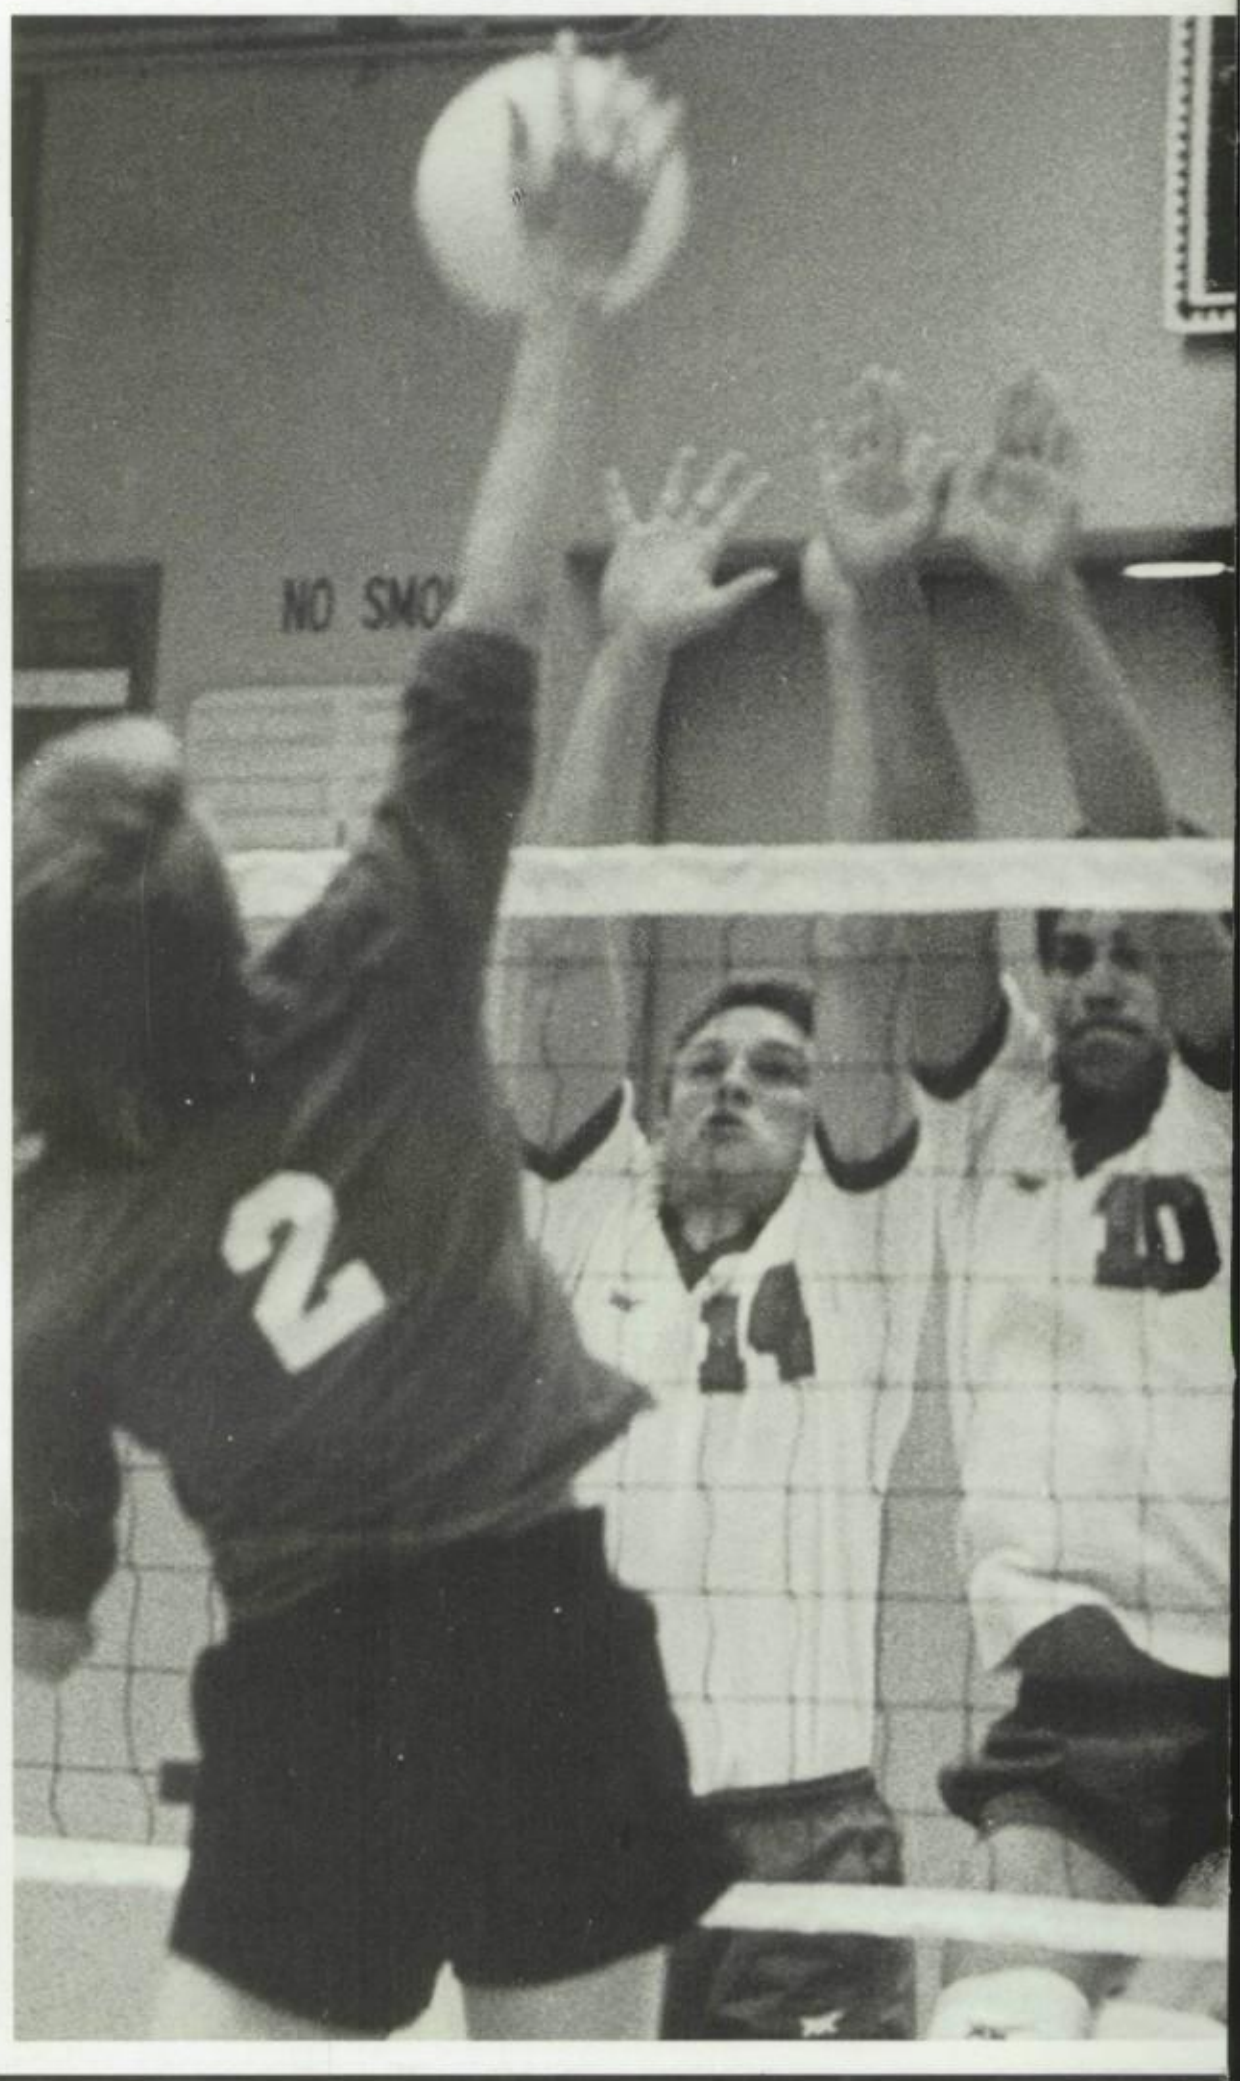
The teams strengths were the 6'3" front row and their hitting and blocking skills.

Senior Mark Eytcheson and junior Tom Bruner both worked as middle blockers and hitters.

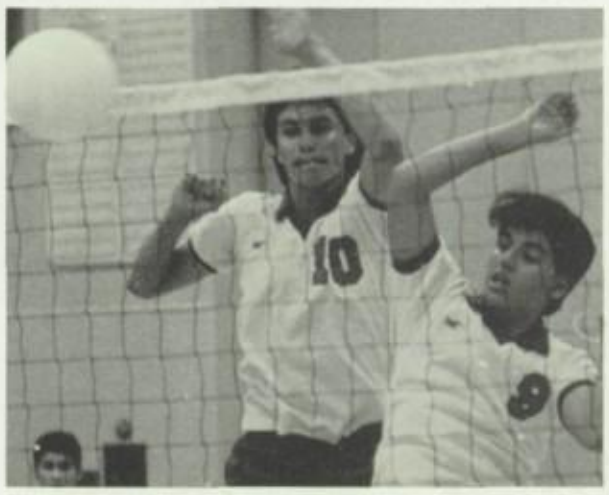
Eytcheson was also a setter along with Ricardo Cazarez. Front row Demetrio Flores held the weight of the team as he proved to be very versatile.

TOM BRUNER and DEMETRIO FLORES going up for the block. Senior MARK EYTCHESON blocking defensively.





MARK EYTCHESON spiking a point against Bullard. ERNIE CAZARES ready to bump the ball. Frosh ANDY VELA making an attempt for the spike.



Varsity players DEMETRIO FLORES and ERNIE CAZARES team up for the point.

DORA CABRERA

I am finally out! I made it through the four hardest years of my life. With the support of my teachers and the friendship of my friends, it wasn't so hard. I had so mnay good times with my friends. We used to have lunch by the swimming pool because it was our favorite place. There were also bad times. The worst was when I started my Freshmen year speaking no English. Now I'm graduating and speaking enough English to have a conversation with someone. I thank my family for their Love, Understanding, and Support during my education. I Love You!

SUSIE CALDERON

the top. B.F.S., T.D. and T.B. Thanx for the good times. Watching the quacker in 86. It's got Webs. Getting bombed Pete could you get that chair? Let's get out of here. The night we hit the B.M.X. move girls I'll show you how its done. Splash! Tami we finally made it and there's nothing sneaky. Going to the concerts and rodeos with my hopeless friends. Calling the taxi 4-1 of our gopher buddies. First time going out with J.K. Are we lost? Leaving this prison in '87 FUTURE GOALS: Living W/A C.B. NO CLEAN CUTS!!

SARAH CRUZ

Chayo thanks for being the best friend I ever had. You helped me through alot and I just want to say thanks for always being there. You were always there when I needed someone to talk to. Good luck w/Junior and I hope things work out for the best. Then there's Nancy Lopez. You helped me out alot my senior year. You gave me alot of advice about F.C. I'm just sorry I never listened. I should have listened when you told me about B.R. Frosh yr/sharing lockers w/Chayo, Shorty, Goofy, & Indo. This year nothing really happened except for the fun tunes w/my friends. 3-14-84 to 4-14-84 being w/H.S. We had some fun times when we were together. I just wish it would have lasted longer. Soph yr/was a little better but not much. Going to Damny Soto's party w/Chayo. I ended up w/L.V. and Chayo almost getting in trouble w/G.G. 6-10-85 to 7-13-85 being w/U.S. again. This time wasn't so good. Too many bad times especially about the time we didn't spend together. 7-13-85 me, Chayo, and Yoli staying at Sylvia's house for her b-day. Junior yr/ 10-6-85 meeting Tony Espinosa at the fair. Watching Kool & the Gang while they played. Me and Tony going for a walk while they played "Cherish". I'll always love that song. We had some fun times at the football games. The talks on the phone really cheered me up. 10-18-85 to 12-16-85 going w/Tony. Glad we were still friends after. I miss you Tony. Thanks for always being there for me. Hey Chayo, remember the sign. Watch out next time!!! Woody and the dog. Woody making me & Chayo yell. Woody making Chayo fall in front of all the busses. I'll always remember the crazy times w/Woody. 4-11-86 going to Mike G's party w/my cuz Jeanette. Going out w/B.R. Hey Chayo what about Shorty's party. I know you can't forget that. 5-16-86 Marcela tried to set me up w/Jeffrey. I'm sorry Jeff if I messed things up. Mr. Teel calling me Jeffrey 'cause Ricardo told him to. Senior yr/9-16-86 started to like F.C. Now its much more. Taking alot of days off from school w/out an excuse. 2-5-87 going out w/H.S. and feeling guilty after because I still care about F.C. too much. But Chayo says its because I love F.C. but who knows. Chayo all in love with Junior. Like I said I hope things work out for you two. Nancy L. I hope you and Robert get together soon because I know how much you like him. Lori Castro all in love w/Miguel. I'm sorry it never happened. Hey Lori where's your love Salamon. Going to Beacon to get a soda and Jonathon making fun of Chayo's hickies. What did he call them Chayo? Salomies!!! All my crazy friends having babies like Goofy, Lisa, Indo and finally Yoli having hers in September 1986. FUTURE GOALS: Who knows?? Just to live and have alot of fun!! Almost forgot Turtle my Dallas buddy. Fernando and Luis argueing w/me because they THINK that Raiders are better but we all know that Dallas is better!!!

Virgil, are we lost or are we going to Coalinga? Killer times Shon, you're too good for me. Don't slap me Chris. Crazy night! Junior year pulled over w/7 people in my car. Great! I admit, I spazed. OK! Benitta the water faucet! Just won't turn off. Poor Nita! I luv u always. Elaine-a, Der & Bul, we MADE our appearance loud & clear at that concert! (We won't say which one) Laine-a did you get in trouble w/straddle? Oh Well. Stephani, Roland & Ryan house-sitting w/me for a day or so . . . Fun!! Those were the days & nights!!! Yeah we all know your real name is Martie. If you like it buuuyyy ittt! You shouldn't hafve moved bum. See you in L.A. Yvette (yet-ski), Dawnie & me "our night out" where's the party. Trying to stop at red lights, Yvette don't let Dawnie drive any more!! and quit mooning me!! Long time buddy Chris (Xris), how time fly's!! Good luck with Red! Sheri's superbowl party-ODD day! Paul Berile (my dream Italian) you still haven't called me you jerk!! I'll give you another week or so!! Strange days-Roland, Joe & me at the lake, falling into dreams? Wha? Never forget summer days at Ryan's (good kind) Timmer, me Zigger & Bungalo Bill on Blackstone, looking for money. Wild wood late nights, T.B. crew running around the island, knocking on my window Tim be careful it's foggy — Boom! Poor tree! Marty-men, fixed Dawns car up real good. Ha! Dodoc & Al-men (the twins) I luv all you guys! John (yon yon) singing louder than everyone event he music! But you play a mean guitar! So do you Marty & Dodoc! OK, OK Mark & Darren! Sorry for Being so nosey at your house germs! Sheri & me mushing at Snake road. Uh oh Steph Roland's doing the half-tongue thing again. AAAAAH! Quarters at Ryans. Ditching at Delia's thanks Del, for covering for me! 2 of a kind! Bul & Der, Mushroom mashers, Jack & David, Birdy & Al! Dawnie's two days off! Tooo! David, I'm really soory about your Mo-Ped. I'd buy you a new one but . . . New Years Eve with Darren, Alison & Dawn, where the ? Marty & John? S.R. "Wish you were here" miss you! Pink Floyd, Zeppelin, Hendrix, Doors, Beatles & all those other killer guys & groups. John Lennon lives! Should be living in the 60's! Dawnie's big 16 w/Traci, Allison, Melissa, Dawn & me. "There's a fork in the road!! Ahhhh! Traci "Rocky" Fritzler! SENSATIONAL! Peace to everyone, See- ya Mr. Peoples. Delia thanks for being a bud. Awesome night! Hazootlemen. yay! Halloween w/Corey Philmore & Der. Stop! Well I better stop now before my hand falls off Thanks to everyone & anyone who has been a buddy or a true friend in these past years. JESUS MUNOZ

I've been very pleased to be in this Sanger High School! The best in the Valley because thanks to my teachers, I learned that there are a lot of things to do. Unfortunately, I didn't do them, but I recommend that all those new kids to do those things, like play football, soccer or cross country. Being in Sanger High School means alot of fun especially in the rallies. Being a senior is tough because you have to leave all those good memories behind your back to face new challenges. Remember Sanger High School is the best of all.

The One To Watch

The Sanger Community has always been an intrinsic factor for Sanger High School. Without the community's support, SHS would never have the opportunity to reach its highest goals possible.

Though many students never thought of the community as anything other than their home, it ironically was their home that had its eye on Sanger High School and its students throughout the entire year.

As the 1986-87 year came to a close, SHS students looked back at the events that made the year a success. In just nine short months; students had been affected by events at SHS, in the community and in the world.

Though the community was an important attribute to SHS, without student participation in school sponsored activities, Sanger High traditions would have died. Homecoming, Prom Night and the ever-popular car show allowed students to show their individuality while being part of the school spirit.

World events this year also made the students aware of the serious problems around them. The contreversial Iran-Contra Scandal, the effects of apartheid and the Democratic re-take of Congress made many students evaluate their stands on political issues.

Through the community and its inhabitants, SHS students were given the chance to learn, experience and make their marks on society. As a collaboration many different races and individuals, SHS and its community were the ones to watch throughout the 1986-87 year.

When I think of the endless hours that my staff and I spent on this book, I realize that it is all worth it. There is not only an experience of creating a book which directly reflects our school but also an experience that [illegible] all the students are very special here. There is no way that the 1986-87 Echo could have been completed without the help of [illegible]

I would personally like to thank Mr. [illegible] for his undying support and [illegible] the book and in all of those who helped put it together. I would also like to thank the best Echo staff ever. [illegible] with the long hours. Thank you Rolla for the incredible Representative abilities. Hood Photography for making me easier on you. Yearbook Supplies for being the wonderful person that she is, even under pressure, and ALL of my friends and friends who supported and listened to me throughout this whole ordeal. THANK YOU ALL VERY MUCH!!!

[illegible] the interest in the 1986-87 Echo staff to make a book that had the student body's best interests at most. We hope that you enjoy the book and we hope that it holds many great memories for you!!
